Sinatra's Mother On Missing Plane OVERDUE ON LAS VEGAS FLIGHT

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Frank Sinatra's 82-year-old mother was one of four persons aboard a twin-engine private jet that apparently crashed in rugged mountains on a flight from Palm Springs, Calif., to Las Vegas, authorities said.

Natalie "Dolly" Sinatra was enroute to Las Vegas on Thursday to see the opening of her son's latest show at the Las Vegas Strip.

Officials today listed the plane as "overdue" and said they planned to send two helicopters aloft to search for it.

Lee Solters, Sinatra's press aide, said Sinatra was told of the apparent crash shortly before he went on stage Thursday night.

"He reacted, how would you react to the news that your mother was missing under conditions like that?" said Solters. "Of course he reacted. But he went on anyway. Yeah, and he was great."

Three other persons, including a friend of Mrs. Sinatra and two crew members, were aboard the Lear jet when it left Palm Springs at 4:55 p.m. for the 30-minute flight. Visibility was eight miles and a light rain was falling.

Jet Crash Kills 2 Near Flint

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — A Lear jet crashed in a ball of flame near an Interstate 75 entrance ramp here Thursday night, killing both crewman and halting traffic along the busy freeway.

The aircraft exploded and crashed one-quarter of a mile short of the Bishop Airport runway while making its final landing approach, eyewitnesses and airport officials reported.

The plane's flaming fuselage came to rest on a Torrey Road ramp leading onto the freeway.

Flint police identified the victims as the plane's pilot, Donald Treu, 38, of Spring Lake, and co-pilot John Gardiner, 35, of Union Lake near Pontiac.

Bishop Airport tower chief Gene Simmons said the jet was approaching Bishop after a 16-minute trip from Willow Run airport near Ypsilanti.

Simmons said the pilot and co-pilot were the only persons aboard.

"Everything was routine from our end of it," Simmons said in describing the prelude to the crash. Simmons said the crewmen gave no radio indication anything was wrong.

At an airport terminal ticket counter, a United Air Lines employee reported "the whole sky lit up" when the jet crashed.

Judge Pens Protest To Killer's Release

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Psychiatrists have recommended the release of a woman who was committed to a mental hospital 17 months ago for killing a pregnant woman and cutting out her baby.

The district attorney's office says it is powerless to prevent the hospital from letting the woman go because she was acquitted — on grounds of insanity.

Winifred Ransom, 38, who admitted at her trial that she shot and bludgeoned the woman and removed the baby with a butcher knife, is no longer insane, doctors at Byberry State Hospital said.

Margaret Sweeney, 26, the woman Mrs. Ransom admitted killing, was eight months pregnant at the time of the incident in November 1974. Her infant, a girl, survived and is being raised by relatives. Mrs. Sweeney and her husband were estranged.

Mrs. Ransom was acquitted in July 1975. Psychiatrists testified at her trial that she was driven by a psychotic delusion caused by her inability to bear children.

Common Pleas Court Judge Juanita Kidd Stout committed Mrs. Ransom to Byberry.

Last month, Judge Stout received letters from Dr. Albert Solomon and Dr. Juan Villazon of Byberry, recommending that Mrs. Ransom be released. The doctors said that Mrs. Ransom remains "schizophrenic" but no longer requires in-patient treatment.

"If 'schizophrenic' but no longer requires in-patient treatment," Judge Stout wrote in reply, "she is your responsibility and not mine. I really cannot understand how, in all circumstances of this case, you can recommend discharging Mrs. Ransom to go out into the community and resume normal life."

Avery Must Decline With Real Regret

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Avery Moore, 61, must decline — with regrets — his invitation to attend the presidential inauguration. He still has about three years to serve on his nine-year manslaughter sentence for killing his wife.

"I understand he did some plumbing work for the Carters about 16 years ago," said Warden Joe Putnam of the branch of the state penitentiary here. "His name got on the list that way, I guess."

Moore is due to appear before the Parole Board next month. He has twice been denied parole.

Gov. William Milliken today announced the appointment of Berrien Springs Atty. Donald J. Dick as a Berrien county probate judge.

Dick will fill the unexpired portion of the term of Zoe Shaffer Burkholz who became Berrien county's fourth circuit judge Jan. 1. Her term as probate judge was to run through 1978.

Dick will be eligible to run for election for a full six-year term in 1978. The governor's office said Dick's appointment is effective Jan. 10.

Dick, 56, won appointment after endorsement by Berrien county Republicans at their fall convention and by the Orinok township board, and an interview by the State Bar's judicial selection and qualifications committee. The committee sent ratings to the governor.

The only other announced candidate was Niles Atty. John Rigby, 48, who had been endorsed by the Niles city council and Niles township board.

Southwestern Michigan was zapped again yesterday and during the night as high winds accompanied by an additional two to three inches of new snow hit the area forcing the closing of South Haven schools and making driving conditions treacherous.

State police at South Haven said the area received "a couple inches of snow" during the past 24 hours, but high winds caused "considerable drifting." The South Haven public schools plus St. Basil's Catholic and St. Paul's Lutheran schools were all closed today.

Tonight's forecast calls for partly cloudy and cold with a slight chance of snow toward morning. Lows tonight are expected to be from five to 10 above with more snow likely Saturday. Probability of measurable precipitation is 20 per cent tonight and 60 per cent Saturday.

The control tower at Ross field, Benton Harbor, the Twin Cities airport, reported winds out of the northwest at 25 m.p.h. at 8 a.m. today. There had been drifting of runways during the night, but all were plowed this morning and the airport was open for business as usual.

Temperature at the airport was 13 above and combined with the wind made a wind-chill factor of 24-below at 8 a.m.

Harry Bush, Paw Paw public works superintendent, reported an additional 2 1/2 inches fell in Paw Paw during the night, making this winter's total 101 1/2 inches, compared to 55 inches all of last winter. He said winds were not as strong inland.

Two to three inches of new snow was reported throughout the area from New Buffalo to Cassopolis and north to Allegan.

Associated Press reported that overnight it had snowed across much of the eastern third of the nation and that a new storm with high winds and frigid temperatures was moving through the Rockies.

The AP said three to 4 inches of snow sifted into the Southeast from Kentucky to Virginia. Up to 6 inches was forecast for areas eastward to Maryland and Delaware.

Winter-storm watches were posted for much of New England.

No Sure Way To Clear Up Those Big Oil Spills

Cold weather and high seas have frustrated efforts to clean up or contain the massive oil spill from the tanker Argo Merchant, which ran aground and broke in half 27 miles southeast of Nantucket Island. But the task would not have been much easier if the spill had occurred when the weather was warm and the seas were calm. Although the ecological impact of oil spills is well known, measures to control them have been relatively ineffective to date.

The application of modern technology to the problem did not begin on a large scale until the giant tanker Torrey Canyon broke up off the south coast of England in 1967, releasing 31 million gallons of oil into the water. The British cleanup campaign relied heavily on the use of dispersants — chemical compounds that act to enhance the spreading of oil slicks on the surface and to emulsify the oil into the water beneath it.

A report commissioned in 1974 by the Ford Foundation's energy policy project criticized the British approach. "The biological damage... (caused by dispersants) was much greater than that due to oiling alone, and... research has shown that many dispersants are more toxic than the oil they are meant to remove. Furthermore, dispersant and oil mixtures are often more toxic than the dispersant alone."

Other control methods have similar drawbacks or limitations. For instance, it is generally agreed that containment and removal offer the best way of avoiding damage to marine life. However, floating booms and skimmers are efficient only in calm water, and then only when comparatively small amounts of oil are involved.

When an oil slick from the Torrey

Canyon approached the coast of Brittany in 1967, French authorities sank it by spraying it with 3,000 tons of powdered chalk. No oil was later found on the nets of fishermen trawling in the area. Nevertheless, some marine pollution experts fear that the chalk killed off many of the bottom-dwelling creatures on which fish and mollusks feed.

The safest method for dealing with an oil slick that comes ashore is to blanket the affected area with an absorbent substance, such as straw. The most efficient material at present appears to be polyurethane foam, which can absorb about 30 times its own weight in oil. Afterward, much of the oil can be recovered by passing the foam through wringers.

Fisheries polluted by an oil spill often take years to recover. In 1969, a spill of 220,000 gallons of light heating oil near Falmouth, Mass., caused some shellfish beds to be closed down, and they still have not been reopened. Caution is advisable in such cases, for crude oil and refined products contain small quantities of known cancer-causing compounds.

No coral reef has yet experienced a large oil spill. Even so, "Recent research has indicated that... very low levels of oil... can set in motion processes fatal to corals," Ralph Mitchell and Hugh Ducklow wrote in Natural History magazine. Thus, oil spills may only seem to disperse or disappear. The effect on the marine ecosystem, only partially understood at this time, could well be cumulative in nature and global in scope.

The American Society for Testing and Materials will sponsor a symposium on chemical dispersants for the control of oil spills, Jan. 11-12 in Dallas. Maybe they'll reveal something new.

Carter Likely To Return To Big Farm Price Props

The combination of President-elect Jimmy Carter's campaign statements, his designated Secretary of Agriculture, Rep. Bob Bergland (D-Minn.), and a heavily Democratic Congress indicates that a decisive shift in farm policy will take place in the Carter administration. It is likely that Carter will broaden the government's involvement in agriculture, reversing the nation's farm policy of the last eight years under Presidents Nixon and Ford.

Two basic farm policy changes are expected from the new administration: (1) higher price supports and subsidies for agricultural commodities and (2) re-institution of government grain reserves. The Nixon and Ford farm policies emphasized low price supports and ended the practice of federally maintained grain reserves.

The expected Carter policy of high-level supports and the Nixon and Ford lower-level support programs follow party patterns that date from 1948 when the first post-World-War-II debates on farm policy took place. At that time, food demand dropped and Congress was sharply divided over what role the government should assume in alleviating agricultural surpluses. Generally, Republicans favored a free market and Democrats supported government management. Since that time, the majority of Democrats generally have backed high price supports and most Republicans have opposed them.

Bergland, who has served three terms in the House representing one of the nation's most rural districts (Minnesota's 7th), has said his aim in Congress had been to help establish a permanent farm program that would "truly preserve and protect the family farmer and the communities which rely on him for their existence." Earl L. Butz, who served as Secretary of Agriculture from December 1971 until his resignation in September 1976, was regarded by many as a partisan of corporate agricultural conglomerates.

The current farm law expires when 1977 crops are harvested. Sen. Herman E. Talmadge (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, has instructed his staff to draft new legislation providing substantial increases in support prices for wheat, feed grains and cotton. In addition, both the House and Senate Agriculture Committees plan to hear testimony in the first two months of 1977 on proposals to raise price supports and reestablish a federal grain reserve.

When the world food demand in recent years emptied the huge government-maintained storage bins of America's crop surpluses, Butz sold the bins and won the support of many farmers who believed that stockpiling tended to keep prices down. But many food experts say stockpiling is needed insurance against global famine.

High farm price supports usually mean increased retail prices. But Carter's proposed farm policy and his choice of Bergland to head the Department of Agriculture have been praised by consumer advocates, including the Consumer Federation of America and Ralph Nader. Opposition has been voiced by the American Farm Bureau Federation, which favors a free market philosophy, and some outgoing Ford administration officials. As in the past, farm policy and partisan politics continue to go hand in hand.

The crew was on the road by 8 a.m. during the heavy weather and has kept the streets, sidewalks and alleys cleared and the intersections and main roads, salted and sanded.

It is hard for a small village to give the services expected in a city but I think we do very well in Eau Claire.

READER SOUNDS OFF ABOUT HIGH TAXES

My Fellow Taxpayers: About time I take pen in hand to sound off about the approaching tax time, when I will again have to go to my banker with hat in hand to ask for help to get my business in order to pay my taxes.

Yes, our government, our lawmakers had a simple solution for themselves to solve their own inflated budget. Vote to raise their wages. Like playing games. Go to the bank. Elected or hired for job at a set rate of pay in November. Go to work and vote themselves a raise in the first month on the job. If I were boss, I would fire them all. I am sure there are capable unemployed teachers, college graduates and other fine honest people willing to work at the job at a pre-designated rate of pay.

The farmers, professional, business people can't start planting, practicing... of manufacturing goods in April and decide in June they have to have a 25 per cent or 30 per cent increase over the pre-established prices.

Where will this inflation end? Why don't the lawmakers and other government bureaucrats set an example and offer to take a cut in pay. We, as taxpayers, have to after taxes.

SUGGESTS NEW NATIONAL PARTY

Editor:

When I was about 12 years old I remember when my grandfather asked my uncle who he had voted for, my uncle said he voted for one Democrat because he was the best for the job. My grandfather hit the ceiling. He said if he was a good man he wouldn't be a Democrat. People were like that then, very strong party men. Our neighbor was just as strong, he would have voted for the devil before he would think of voting for a Republican. Today it is different.

Wallace said there isn't a dime's worth of difference in the two parties. People only think so. They have gone to the Democratic party because they think there are more goodies there. The eastern liberal establishment seems to run both parties.

Outside of Wisconsin and Minnesota, west of here, there is still a pioneer spirit of individualism in people who don't like to be run by the two parties of the eastern liberal establishment.

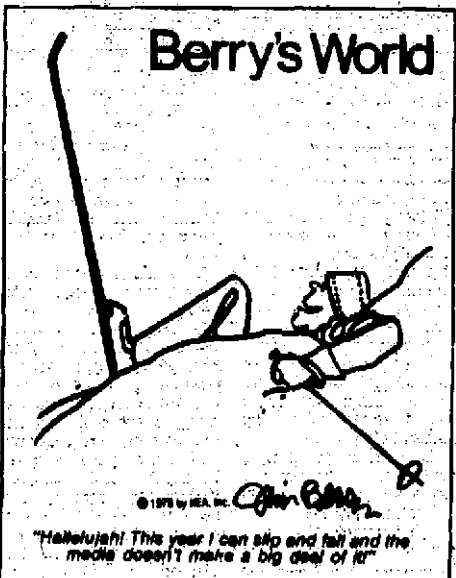

If the Republican party is wounded, and may die, why don't these people start a new party? How about a national party?

Meaning to save the nation from Socialism, there are a lot of people in the south and midwest that are very opposed to the welfare state too. Reagan says to name a new party conservative wouldn't work.

Does Carter Have Sales Ability?

WASHINGTON — Don't expect great spending changes — either up or down — in the first year of the Carter administration.

There's not much a new president can do, however radical or conservative his views may be, to effect important spending shifts in less than 12 months. It usually takes presidents at least a year and a half to put their imprint on federal spending.

There's much talk already about the first Carter budget. The president-elect's men reportedly are already gathering the detailed material they need for amendments they expect to make in the income and spending proposals President Ford will send up in early January. There's no reason to doubt at this juncture that Mr. Carter will propose a considerable number of amendments earlier than most new presidents — and that these could add up to some billions of dollars in proposed shifts for Congress to consider.

But the budget we are talking about — the Carter-amended Ford budget — takes effect in October, 1977, and then only if Congress has voted the funds by that time.

Though the funds for major new programs, presumably could be made available in October, Congress willing, getting high spending plans into action involves a complicated series of steps which takes months. Most major federal programs, in fact, turn out to be amazingly small the first year of operation.

The mammoth undertakings we look at in amazement today are, in the main, several years old. Now it is quite possible that Mr. Carter will attempt to beat the game — quite legitimately — in a supplementary budget for this fiscal year, that is, for the 12 months which began in October 1976. If sizable changes are involved, this would require a major juggling of accounts with a speed not seen to date. It would involve adjustments in income and outgo so complicated they would paralyze the major departments of government whose spending programs are set for the year. And it would most assuredly involve putting the government far more into the red than even Congress is likely willing to go.

That's not all. The juggling might be done in big time on paper in the Carter White House. But it would take Congress months to hold hearings, argue and vote on any radical departures Mr. Carter might propose, even if they were simple repetitions of measures Congress previously voted and President Ford vetoed. For when bills are run through the mill again, they're invariably chewed over. What comes out the second go-round rarely mirrors the bill passed the first try.

Therefore, if unemployment is to be reduced significantly in 1977 and the economy is to move ahead briskly, it will be because of forces set in motion in 1976, or because industrialists become so optimistic at the prospects they see in the years just ahead that they implement expansion plans of a size not seen in recent years. And because consumers, who have been cautious with their money of late, decide that 1977 is the year to draw down their savings accounts and start buying.

Mr. Carter's problem, then, is not the budget, or Congress. His task is to create an attitude of confidence through the country, a confidence among the rich, the middle class and the poor that things are going to get better and stay better.

The rich and the middle class must be convinced it will pay for them to take the chances they must take to set things rolling. The poor must be convinced they have a part to play and that the upwelling will not pass them by.

The question is whether President Carter has that sales ability.

Capital Needs Wiser Behavior

WASHINGTON — Israel's Abba Eban once said, "Men and nations do behave wisely, once all other alternatives have been exhausted."

The world could begin working on that "wisely" behavior right away with the new year, even though 1976 didn't use up all the alternatives.

Meanwhile, not-so-wise stuff continues to amuse the capital. Idaho Sen. Frank Church was rummaging among the coats piled in a hotel cloak room during a reception recently, trying to rescue a wallet he had absentmindedly left in his coat pocket.

"Isn't that man rifling those coats?" an alarmed bystander asked in embarrassment loud tones.

Lady Bird Johnson's press secretary, Liz Carpenter, has abandoned the city for Texas, but she left behind her favorite recipe for a good party: You take several ambassadors, saute with a dab of White House officials, stir with plenty of congressmen, sprinkle with reporters, and toss with a controversial topic. Delectable.

Not everybody thinks Jimmy Carter is smart to want to cut down the size of the White House staff. Rep. Tom Sorel of Oklahoma, a 28-year House veteran and member of the powerful Appropriations Committee, told Carter recently he ought to reconsider that idea.

Steed pointed out that all legislation requiring presidential action of some kind is more than a foot thick. Stead thinks the President deserves all the staff advice he can get in making all his decisions.

Reports of consensus between Carter and Sen. Edward Kennedy are true. They have been correct in public but bitter about each other in private. Kennedy criticized Carter as unqualified to be president during the primaries. Carter hasn't forgotten it.

Further, Senators who once deferred to Kennedy are now openly hostile. They feel he doesn't pull his share of weight in the Senate, and gets too much publicity for too little work. And they aren't inhibited any more by the feeling they shouldn't offend Kennedy because he might become president. Kennedy realizes this, and apparently resents Carter for overshadowing him.

A New York reporter for People magazine called the Federal Election Commission the other day. He asked endless questions about the chairman, Vernon Thompson, and then inquired, "And when does the Electoral College actually meet?"

Both are relatively obscure organizations, but there's a big difference between the FEC, which supervises the campaign law, and the Electoral College, which formally elects the President.

The bureau of the Mint had a coin orgy during the Bicentennial tribute season, which for the Mint was the past three years. Its major numismatic programs almost doubled. Approximately 11 million orders for 30 million coin or medal sets were shipped at home and abroad.

Sends Queen Sex Pictures

LONDON — A Danish anti-pornography campaigner claims he sent explicit sex photographs to Queen Elizabeth II.

Svend Laurson, a 42-year-old father of five, said Thursday that he enclosed the pictures from a Danish sex education textbook to make sure similar photos did not get into British texts.

"Soon British school children can be exposed to hard pornography in the name of sex education as they are in my country," Laurson said. "This is a worldwide struggle."

No Sure Way To Clear Up Those Big Oil Spills

Cold weather and high seas have frustrated efforts to clean up or contain the massive oil spill from the tanker Argo Merchant, which ran aground and broke in half 27 miles southeast of Nantucket Island. But the task would not have been much easier if the spill had occurred when the weather was warm and the seas were calm. Although the ecological impact of oil spills is well known, measures to control them have been relatively ineffective to date.

The application of modern technology to the problem did not begin on a large scale until the giant tanker Torrey Canyon broke up off the south coast of England in 1967, releasing 31 million gallons of oil into the water. The British cleanup campaign relied heavily on the use of dispersants — chemical compounds that act to enhance the spreading of oil slicks on the surface and to emulsify the oil into the water beneath it.

A report commissioned in 1974 by the Ford Foundation's energy policy project criticized the British approach. "The biological damage... (caused by dispersants) was much greater than that due to oiling alone, and... research has shown that many dispersants are more toxic than the oil they are meant to remove. Furthermore, dispersant and oil mixtures are often more toxic than the dispersant alone."

Other control methods have similar drawbacks or limitations. For instance, it is generally agreed that containment and removal offer the best way of avoiding damage to marine life. However, floating booms and skimmers are efficient only in calm water, and then only when comparatively small amounts of oil are involved.

When an oil slick from the Torrey

Canyon approached the coast of Brittany in 1967, French authorities sank it by spraying it with 3,000 tons of powdered chalk. No oil was later found on the nets of fishermen trawling in the area. Nevertheless, some marine pollution experts fear that the sunken oil killed off many of the bottom-dwelling creatures on which fish and mollusks feed.

The safest method for dealing with an oil slick that comes ashore is to blanket the affected area with an absorbent substance, such as straw. The most efficient material at present appears to be polyurethane foam, which can absorb about 30 times its own weight in oil. Afterward, much of the oil can be recovered by passing the foam through wringers.

Fisheries polluted by an oil spill often take years to recover. In 1969, a spill of 220,000 gallons of light heating oil near Falmouth, Mass., caused some shellfish beds to be closed down, and they still have not been reopened. Caution is advisable in such cases, for crude oil and refined products contain small quantities of known cancer-causing compounds.

No coral reef has yet experienced a large oil spill. Even so, "Recent research has indicated that... very low levels of oil... can set in motion processes fatal to corals," Ralph Mitchell and Hugh Ducklow wrote in Natural History magazine. Thus, oil spills may only seem to disperse or disappear. The effect on the marine ecosystem, only partially understood at this time, could well be cumulative in nature and global in scope.

The American Society for Testing and Materials will sponsor a symposium on chemical dispersants for the control of oil spills, Jan. 11-12 in Dallas. Maybe they'll reveal something new.

EAU CLAIRE STREET 'CREW' IS PRAISED

Editor,

As a resident of Eau Claire I don't think the maintenance crew (one man) has done a bad job of keeping the village cleared of snow. The crew was on the road by 6 a.m. during the heavy weather and has kept the streets, sidewalks and alleys cleared and the intersections and main roads salted and sanded.

It is hard for a small village to give the services expected in a city but I think we do very well in Eau Claire.

READER SOUNDS OFF ABOUT HIGH TAXES

My Fellow Taxpayers:
About time I take pen in hand to sound off about the approaching tax time, when I will again have to go to my banker with hat in hand to ask for help to get my business in order to pay my taxes.

Yes, our government, our lawmakers had a simple solution for themselves to solve their own inflated budget. Vote to raise their wages. Like playing games. Go to the bank. Elected or hired for job at a set rate of pay in November. Go to work and vote themselves a raise in the first month on the job. If I were boss, I would fire them all. I am sure there are capable unemployed teachers, college graduates and other fine honest people willing to work at the job at a pre-designated rate of pay.

The farmers, professional, business people can't start planting, practicing of manufacturing goods in April and decide in June they have to have a 25 per cent or 30 per cent increase over the pre-established prices.

Where will this inflation end? Why don't the lawmakers and other government bureaucrats set an example and offer to take a cut in pay. We, as taxpayers, have to after taxes.

SUGGESTS NEW NATIONAL PARTY

Editor,

When I was about 12 years old I remember when my grandfather asked my uncle who he had voted for, my uncle said he voted for one Democrat because he was the best for the job. My grandfather hit the ceiling. He said if he was a good man he wouldn't be a Democrat. People were like that then, very strong party men. Our neighbor was just as strong, he would have voted for the devil before he would think of voting for a Republican. Today it is different.

Wallace said there isn't a dime's worth of difference in the two parties. People only think so. They have gone to the Democratic party because they think there are more goodies there. The eastern liberal establishment seems to run both parties.

Outside of Wisconsin and Minnesota, west of here, there is still a pioneer spirit of individualism in people who don't like to be run by the two parties of the eastern liberal establishment.

If the Republican party is wounded, and may die, why don't these people start a new party? How about a national party?

Meaning to save the nation from Socialism, there are a lot of people in the south and mid-west that are very opposed to the welfare state too. Reagan says to name a new party conservative wouldn't work.

Does Carter Have Sales Ability?

WASHINGTON — Don't expect great spending changes — either up or down — in the first year of the Carter administration.

There's not much a new president can do, however radical or conservative his views may be, to effect important spending shifts in less than 12 months. It usually takes presidents at least a year and a half to put their imprint on federal spending.

There's much talk already about the first Carter budget. The president-elect's men reportedly are already gathering the detailed material they need for amendments they expect to make in the income and spending proposals President Ford will send up in early January. There's no reason to doubt at this juncture that Mr. Carter will propose a considerable number of amendments earlier than most new presidents — and that these could add up to some billions of dollars in proposed shifts for Congress to consider.

But the budget we are talking about — the Carter-amended Ford budget — takes effect in October, 1977, and then only if Congress has voted the funds by that time.

Though the funds for major new programs presumably could be made available in October, Congress willing, getting high spending plans into action involves a complicated series of steps which takes months. Most major federal programs, in fact, turn out to be amazingly small the first year of operation. The mammoth undertakings we look at in amazement today are, in the main, several years old.

Now it is quite possible that Mr. Carter will attempt to beat the game — quite legitimately — in a supplementary budget for this fiscal year, that is, for the 12 months which began in October 1976. If sizable changes are involved, this would require a major juggling of accounts with a speed not seen to date. It would involve adjustments in income and outgo so complicated they would paralyze the major departments of government whose spending programs are set for the year. And it would most assuredly involve putting the government far more into the red than even Congress is likely willing to go.

That's not all. The juggling might be done in jig time on paper in the Carter White House. But it would take Congress months to hold hearings, argue and vote on any radical departures Mr. Carter might propose, even if they were simple repetitions of measures Congress previously voted and President Ford vetoed. For when bills are run through the mill again, they're invariably chewed over. What comes out the second go-round rarely mirrors the bill passed the first try.

Therefore, if unemployment is to be reduced significantly in 1977 and the economy is to move ahead briskly, it will be because of forces set in motion in 1976, or because industrialists become so optimistic at the prospects they see in the years just ahead that they implement expansion plans of a size not seen in recent years. And because consumers, who have been cautious with their money of late, decide that 1977 is the year to draw down their savings accounts and start buying.

Mr. Carter's problem, then, is not the budget, or Congress. His task is to create an attitude of confidence through the country, a confidence among the rich, the middle class and the poor that things are going to get better and stay better.

The rich and the middle class must be convinced it will pay for them to take the chances they must take to set things rolling. The poor must be convinced they have a part to play and that the upswing will not pass them by.

The question is whether President Carter has that sales ability.

Capital Needs Wiser Behavior

WASHINGTON — Israel's Abba Eban once said, "Men and nations do behave wisely, once all other alternatives have been exhausted."

The world could begin working on that "wisely" behavior right away with the new year, even though 1976 didn't use up all the alternatives.

Meanwhile, not-so-wise stuff continues to amuse the capital.

Idaho Sen. Frank Church was rummaging among the coats piled in a hotel cloak room during a reception recently, trying to rescue a wallet he had absentmindedly left in his coat pocket.

"Isn't that man rifling those coats?" an alarmed bystander asked in embarrassingly loud tones.

Lady Bird Johnson's press secretary, Liz Carpenter, has abandoned the city for Texas, but she left behind her favorite recipe for a good party. You take several ambassadors, saute with a dab of White House officials, stir with plenty of congressmen, sprinkle with reporters, and toss with a controversial topic. Delectable.

Not everybody thinks Jimmy Carter is smart to want to cut down the size of the White House staff. Rep. Tom Sneed of Oklahoma, a 28-year House veteran and member of the powerful Appropriations Committee, told Carter recently he ought to reconsider that idea.

Steed pointed out that the computer print-out of all legislation requiring presidential action of some kind is more than a foot thick. Steed thinks the President deserves all the staff advice he can get in making all his decisions.

Reports of coolness between Carter and Sen. Edward Kennedy are true. They have been correct in public but bitter about each other in private. Kennedy criticized Carter as unqualified to be president during the primaries. Carter hasn't forgotten it.

Further, Senators who once deferred to Kennedy are now openly hostile. They feel he doesn't pull his share of weight in the Senate, and gets too much publicity for too little work. And they aren't inhibited any more by the feeling they shouldn't offend Kennedy because he might become president. Kennedy realizes this, and apparently resents Carter for overshadowing him.

A New York reporter for People magazine called the Federal Election Commission the other day. He asked endless questions about the chairman, Vernon Thompson, and then inquired, "And when does the Electoral College actually meet?"

Both are relatively obscure organizations, but there's a big difference between the FEC, which supervises the campaign law, and the Electoral College, which formally elects the President.

The bureau of the Mint had a coin orgy during the Bicentennial tribute season, which for the Mint was the past three years. Its major numismatic programs almost doubled. Approximately 11 million orders for 30 million coin or medal sets were shipped at home and abroad.

Sex Pictures

LONDON — A Danish anti-pornography campaigner claims he sent explicit sex photographs to Queen Elizabeth II.

Svend Laursen, a 42-year-old father of five, said Thursday that he enclosed the pictures from a Danish sex education textbook to make sure similar photos did not get into British texts.

"Soon British school children can be exposed to hard pornography in the name of sex education as they are in my country," Laursen said. "This is a worldwide struggle."

MARCH OF DIMES BENEFIT

Battle Of Bands Slated Jan. 23

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

A "Battle of the Bands" Sunday, Jan. 23, at the Benton Harbor Moose lodge will benefit the 1977 campaign of the Berrien County Chapter of March of Dimes.

Mrs. Ruby Bausworth, March of Dimes publicity chairman, said the lodge is making its facilities available and 10 area bands will donate their talents in continuous performances from noon to 10 p.m. There will be dancing and refreshments available.

Moose Lodge 1670 is on Zollar road by the St. Joseph river, Benton township.

The public is invited and there will be live radio broadcasts of the show. Admission is $1.50 and special telephones will be set up for listeners to call in pledges to the March of Dimes.

This is the first time the Berrien county chapter has staged a "Battle of the Bands." Proceeds from the March of Dimes campaign go to fight birth defects and establish nursing scholarships for Berrien county students. The March of Dimes drive across the nation is conducted under auspices of the National Foundation.

Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell is Berrien county chairman; Stanley Chisek of Eau Claire is co-chairman, and Mrs. John Grimes of Coloma is executive secretary.

Mothers' marches are also planned in Berrien county to benefit the drive.

In another promotion to aid the campaign, Mrs. George (Muggs) Angelo, senior regent of Women of the Moose Chapter 465, said a steak fry and dance will be held at the lodge Saturday, Jan. 22, with proceeds going to the March of Dimes. This event is for Moose members and invited guests only.

Heyn Quits
Stevensville
Council Post

By ALICE KOCH

Stevensville Correspondent

Stevensville village council last night accepted the resignation of William Heyn, Jr. as council trustee, a post he has held for the past five years. Heyn was not present at the meeting and the letter of resignation was read by President Arthur Kasewurm. Kasewurm stated, "It is unfortunate that we must lose a man who has been so active in this village and given so much of his time on this board as a member of the budget committee, police board and other committees. We will miss him on the board."

Heyn's resignation read, "It is with much regret that I must submit my resignation from the village board. As my business contacts take me to three states I feel that I cannot devote time to village business to do an acceptable job as trustee."

He continued, "I must thank you and the citizens of the village for standing by me during some very trying times and I will make myself available as possible for any help that I can provide."

Heyn is on five years probation after pleading guilty in federal court to a charge of embezzlement from the Stevensville branch of Farmers and Merchants National Bank, Benton Harbor. The court in Grand Rapids also ruled in November that he should make restitution of $1,466. Seven other counts of embezzlement were dismissed at the same time.

Kasewurm directed the clerk, Bernice Scheufelder, to send a letter to Heyn "thanking him for his services."

The president requested that council members submit names at the next council meeting of persons who might replace Heyn. He did not state when the appointment would be made.

In other business, council adopted an ordinance setting the maximum speed limit for freight trains passing through the village at 40 miles per hour. The ordinance also reads at no time can any train block any of the village crossings for more than five minutes.

A resolution was adopted requesting the Berrien county drain commission to establish a new Lake Collins storm drain district.

The proposed drain will begin at Hickory creek, continue west to Ridge road, south of Wildwood lane and end at the Kirk court subdivision. The project, if approved, will be paid through special assessment by property owners who benefit from the drain.

Approval was given to Fred Albrecht, Jr., building inspector, to issue a building permit to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Finch to erect a 55- by 110-foot building to house the Southwestern Michigan Gymnasts. Estimated cost for the structure, to be built at Ridge road and Red Arrow highway, is $84,000. Council stipulated a "green strip" must be planted at the rear of the building which she said was organized last week by about 30 residents to oppose widening.

Mrs. Spencer told the commission Lake boulevard "has a lot of historical charm, and they (the new association) want to keep it that way." Association members also believe widening the street will increase traffic and danger to children, Mrs. Spencer said. She added the association property.

Referred to committee for further study was a request from Red Arrow Realty, Stevensville, to rezone residential property on Legion road and Red Arrow highway to a duplex dwelling district. It is planned in the proposed zoning ordinance to rezone to property to a commercial district.

A special hearing will be held on the proposed zoning ordinance on Thursday, Jan. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln township hall. Only one section of the ordinance that restricts rebuilding or restoration of a non-conforming structure, should it be damaged, will be discussed. It was the only section that drew opposition at the first hearing.

Referred to committee for further study was establishing a policy on paid holidays for village employees.

Albrecht reported 39 building permits were issued during 1976 for a total estimated cost of $445,376.

Benton Eyes
Funding Of
Social PlansBy MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

Debate at a public hearing last night on how Benton township should spend $338,000 in federal Community Development funds centered around whether social programs will be funded under the township's third year grant. Judd Spray, Community Development director, said township-wide social programs can't be funded this year because federal guidelines require that social programs operate only in an area where CD public works and home rehabilitation work is taking place.

Silas Legg, chairman of the township Community Development Citizens Advisory committee, a group of citizens appointed to recommend how the federal funds should be spent, said the township should attempt to apply for funding of the social programs throughout the township.

"I don't know why we're sitting here if they are going to tell us you can't do this and you can't do that," Legg said. "We should present an application that is for the good of the community."

Spray noted the social programs could be funded but only if they drew their clients from the area designated for other Community Development projects. That would mean the social programs would be limited to residents of the former Model Cities neighborhood and Benton Heights — which make up about one-third of the township's population, he said.

During the past two years of the township's Community Development program, social programs have received funds. But Spray said that was because federal guidelines allowed the township to extend Community Development funds to social programs that were funded earlier with federal money. That guideline, however, ends this year, he said.

Social programs funded the first two years of the township's CD program were the Benton Harbor-Benton township senior citizens center, $21,500; Dental Health Care clinic $70,000; Community Parents Inc. Child Care center, $27,500; and CanAm games, $5,000.

Spray also said if the social programs decided to try to receive funding by limiting their operation to only one section of the township, they would have to provide extensive paperwork to prove they served residents from that area.

The Citizens Advisory committee will hold another public hearing at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 1, in conjunction with the Benton township board of trustees meeting, to hear recommendations on how the money should be spent. Spray said a tentative budget will be available at that meeting.

Deadline for submitting the application is March 3. Funds will become available for the third year grant July 1.

In other areas last night, Spray presented information on the township's home rehabilitation program which showed the department has repaired 19 homes during the first 18 months of the program. He also said most of the funds budgeted for the first 18 months of the rehabilitation program have not been spent and $529,450 will be carried over for use in the third year of the CD program.

The township CD department came under criticism recently by members of the Citizens Advisory committee for what was described as the low number of homes rehabilitated during the first 18 months of the program. Legg said after the meeting last night that he was still not satisfied and wanted more information on the program. He said he would request copies of all bids and grants made under the program and an accounting of administrative costs in a formal letter to Spray.

Suit Challenges State
Farm-Features Editor

The administrator of the estate of a Benton Harbor man killed in a 1974 traffic accident has filed suit in Berrien circuit court for $100,000. He has named the Assigned Claims Facility and the old Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund, both units within the Michigan Department of State, as defendants.

The suit was filed by Colin H. John Jr., administrator for the estate of John Henry Lewis Sr., Benton Harbor. Lewis and two other men, Ernest Cheatham Jr. and Ronald D. Post, all were killed when the car they were in struck the trailer of a semi-truck on Main street (BL 194) in Benton Harbor. They were on Walnut street and according to police at the time, failed to stop for a stop signal.

Their auto went completely under the truck trailer and the top of the car was sheared off. The suit claims Cheatham, the car driver, was uninsured. Lewis also was uninsured.

It claims the state No Fault insurance act is unconstitutional in that the Assigned Claims Facility established under the act does not provide the same protection for uninsured victims of uninsured motorists as the act provides for insured victims of uninsured motorists, thus creating two classes of victims.

The Assigned Claims Facility provides only personal protection benefits to uninsured victims of uninsured motorists, according to Atty. Drew F. Seaman, who prepared the suit on behalf of the administrator. Personal protection benefits cover only ongoing medical costs and lost wages and services for a three-year period. The Assigned Claims Facility does not provide property protection or uninsured motorists protection benefits.

MORRISON CHANNEL

Stevensville Man
Seeks Pier Permit

A Stevensville man has filed an application with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to construct a 120 foot pier along the Morrison channel in St. Joseph for private docking of several pleasure boats.

Gerald F. Huebner, 3909 St. Joseph avenue, filed an application for a permit to build the pier along the mainland side of the channel across from Radio Island (formerly Terminal Island), about 140 feet south of Mollhagen bait and charter service.

According to the application, the pier would be constructed of steel and timber pile. Plans call for an L-shaped structure with the main portion running parallel to the shoreline and 23 feet from the shoreline.

Huebner said he intends to dock a boat he owns, a boat owned by a friend, and possibly a third boat. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers reported any interested party objecting to construction of the dock should file their comments in writing with the Detroit office of the Corps of Engineers no later than 4:30 p.m., Jan. 25.

Struwin Opens
Own Law Office

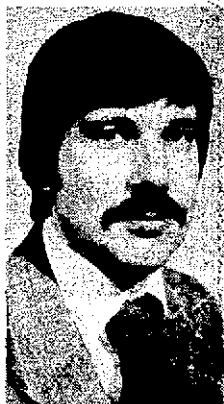

Atty. Jack M. Struwin announced he has established his own law practice at 320 Main street, St. Joseph.

Struwin most recently was with the firm of Taylor, Yampolsky and Struwin, 811 Ship street, St. Joseph. That firm is now Taylor and Yampolsky.

Struwin has been in private practice since 1974. He was an assistant Berrien prosecutor in charge of welfare fraud and support, 1972-74, and previously an assistant Calhoun county prosecutor.

He is a 1968 graduate of Wayne State university law school and served as a captain with the military police in Vietnam.

The building in which Struwin's office is now located also houses the individual practices of Atty. Gary Hosbein and Robert U. McDowell. Struwin, 33, and his wife, Susan live at 9154 East Napier, rural Benton Harbor. She is a counselor with the Michigan Department of Education Vocational Rehabilitation division at Fairplain Plaza.

SJ Residents Organize To Block
Lake Boulevard Widening ProjectBy NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Organized opposition has arisen to the proposed widening of Lake boulevard, St. Joseph, in the newly formed Lake Bluff Preservation association.

Mrs. Michele Spencer, 3004 Lake court, appeared Thursday before the St. Joseph planning commission and identified herself as a member of the association which she said was organized last week by about 30 residents to oppose widening.

Mrs. Spencer told the commission Lake boulevard "has a lot of historical charm, and they (the new association) want to keep it that way."

Association members also believe widening the street will increase traffic and danger to children, Mrs. Spencer said. She added the association does not object to repaving the street and reconstructing curbs and gutters.

The proposed $383,000 reconstruction of Lake boulevard would extend from Port street on the north to the terminus of Lake on the south at the later section of Main street. The widening would be only from Market to Main; about eight blocks.

City Manager G. W. Heppler and James Talbot, public works director, briefed planners on the project yesterday. About 70 per cent of the cost is planned to be funded under the Federal Urban Aid program which means it would have to meet federal guidelines that include widening a portion of Lake boulevard.

Talbot said the Lake boulevard reconstruction proposal isn't connected with a plan that would close Lake between Ship and Port streets for expansion of Lake Bluff park.

This proposal was presented at the Dec. 20 city commission meeting by Commissioner William Gillespie, who said it was developed by a city resident he didn't name.

Also yesterday, the planning commission unanimously approved a comprehensive plan for the future land use of St. Joseph prepared by the city planning commission and the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission

(SMRPC).

James J. Muldoon, senior planner with SMRPC, said that under the plan zoning for two-family dwellings has been "tightened up." Far fewer two-family dwellings would be allowed south of downtown, between Lake boulevard and Main street, under the plan. It also outlines a triangular-shaped "water-recreational development area" below the bluff on the lake.

Planning Commission Chairman James Heathcote explained that the plan is not law but represents desired land uses. He added that the plan had to be prepared in connection with the city's new proposed zoning map, which will be presented at a public hearing before the planning commission Jan. 25 at 7:30 p.m.

If the plan is adopted into a revised zoning code it would become law, however.

In other business, planners: —Accepted a petition signed by 21 people in opposition to a request by Florian Beles, realtor, who is seeking a zoning change of residential lots at 222 and 244 Vail court to permit construction of a commercial building that would be occupied by Twin City Engraving. The petitioners said a zoning change would be incompatible with the residential district. Planners will take up the request next month.

Deputy Says 2 Men
Jumped Him On CallBy TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

Berrien sheriff's Deputy Tom Page said he was jumped by two men at a Hagar township home early today when he was called to a reported disturbance. One man was arrested on two charges, the other was hospitalized, suffering from an apparent overdose of some type of drug, Page reported.

Page, who was on duty in the 250 a.m. incident, said he was attempting to break up a fight between a man and woman when the man attacked him, then a second man at the home began to hit him. Both were subdued, Page said.

The incident was reported at the Donald Shull residence, 5017

Pershing avenue. Booked at the Berrien county jail on charges of assault and battery against a police officer and obstructing a police officer was Jimmy Brown, 23, of 2229 Lawrence drive, Benton Heights.

Donald Shull, 30, was reported in "good" condition today at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph. A hospital spokeswoman said that Shull "was suffering from an overdose," but declined to comment further.

Page said Shull was to be arrested on a charge of assault and battery against a police officer when released from the hospital. Page said no charges were filed against the woman identified as Shull's wife, Linda.

Twin Cities Chiefs Ask Help
In Keeping Fire Plugs Clear

Fire chiefs in the Twin Cities area are asking residents to help firemen keep fire hydrants in residential areas shoveled clear of snow. Firemen have been working to clear hydrants in business and industrial areas, but the fire department chiefs say they could use help in residential areas. Some hydrants in the Twin Cities area are completely buried in the snow, but others need only a little shoveling to clear a path for hoses. It could save valuable time if hydrants were clear so firemen could begin fighting fires immediately upon their arrival, instead of searching for buried hydrants, the fire chiefs said. Asking for residents' cooperation are Chiefs Harold Gaddie, Benton Harbor; Ken Kraeger, Benton township; William Moore, St. Joseph; Fred Beckman and Rudy Reizner, of the two St. Joseph township stations.

MARCH OF DIMES BENEFIT

Battle Of Bands Slated Jan. 23

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

A "Battle of the Bands" Sunday, Jan. 23, at the Benton Harbor Moose lodge will benefit the 1977 campaign of the Berrien County Chapter of March of Dimes.

Mrs. Ruby Bausworth, March of Dimes publicity chairman, said the lodge is making its facilities available and 10 area bands will donate their talents in continuous performances from noon to 10 p.m. There will be dancing and refreshments available.

Moose Lodge 1570 is on Zollar road by the St. Joseph river, Benton township.

The public is invited and there will be live radio broadcasts of the show. Admission is $1.50 and special telephones will be set up for listeners to call in pledges to the March of Dimes.

This is the first time the Berrien county chapter has staged a "Battle of the Bands." Proceeds from the March of Dimes campaign go to fight birth defects and establish nursing scholarships for Berrien county students. The March of Dimes drive across the nation is conducted under auspices of the National Foundation.

Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell is Berrien county chairman; Stanley Chisek of Eau Claire is co-chairman, and Mrs. John Grimes of Coloma is executive secretary.

Mothers' marches are also planned in Berrien county to benefit the drive.

In another promotion to aid the campaign, Mrs. George (Mugs) Angelo, senior regent of Women of the Moose Chapter 405, said a steak fry and dance will be held at the lodge Saturday, Jan. 22, with proceeds going to the March of Dimes. This event is for Moose members and invited guests only.

Heyn Quits
Stevensville
Council PostBy ALICE KOCH
Stevensville Correspondent

Stevensville village council last night accepted the resignation of William Heyn, Jr. as council trustee, a post he has held for the last five years. Heyn was not present at the meeting and the letter of resignation was read by President Arthur Kasewurm. Kasewurm stated, "It is unfortunate that we must lose a man who has been so active in this village and given so much of his time on this board as a member of the budget committee, police board and other committees. We will miss him on the board."

Heyn's resignation read, "It is with much regret that I must submit my resignation from the village board. As my business contacts take me to three states I feel that I cannot devote time to village business to do an acceptable job as trustee."

He continued, "I must thank you and the citizens of the village for standing by me during some very trying times, and I will make myself available as possible for any help that I can provide."

Heyn is on five years probation after pleading guilty in federal court to a charge of embezzlement from the Stevensville branch of Farmers and Merchants National Bank, Benton Harbor. The court in Grand Rapids also ruled in November that he should make restitution of $1,485. Seven other counts of embezzlement were dismissed at the same time.

Kasewurm directed the clerk, Bernice Schoenfelder, to send a letter to Heyn "thanking him for his services."

The president requested that council members submit names at the next council meeting of persons who might replace Heyn. He did not state when the appointment would be made.

In other business, council adopted an ordinance setting the maximum speed limit for freight trains passing through the village at 40 miles per hour. The ordinance also reads at no time can any train block any of the village crossings for more than five minutes.

A resolution was adopted requesting the Berrien county drain commission to establish a new Lake Collins storm drain district.

The proposed drain will begin at Hickory creek, continue west to Ridge road, south of Wildwood lane and end at the Kirk court subdivision. The project, if approved, will be paid through special assessment by property owners who benefit from the drain.

Approval was given to Fred Albrecht, Jr., building inspector, to issue a building permit to Mr. and Mrs. Rob Finch to erect a 55- by 110-foot building to house the Southwestern Michigan Gymnasts. Estimated cost for the structure, to be built at Ridge road and Red Arrow highway, is $84,000. Council stipulated a "green strip" must be kept at the rear of the referred.

Proposed to committee for further study was a request from Red Arrow Realty, Stevensville, to rezone residential property on Legion road and Red Arrow highway to a duplex dwelling district. It is planned in the proposed zoning ordinance to rezone to property to a commercial district.

A special hearing will be held on the proposed zoning ordinance on Thursday, Jan. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln township hall. Only one section of the ordinance that restricts rebuilding or restoration of a non-conforming structure, should it be damaged, will be discussed. It was the only section that drew opposition at the first hearing.

Referred to committee for further study was establishing a policy on paid holidays for village employees.

Albrecht reported 39 building permits were issued during 1976 for a total estimated cost of $445,375.

Benton Eyes
Funding Of
Social PlansBy MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

Debate at a public hearing last night on how Benton township should spend $838,000 in federal Community Development funds centered around whether social programs will be funded under the township's third year grant. Judd Spray, Community Development director, said township-wide social programs can't be funded this year because federal guidelines require that social programs operate only in an area where CD public works and home rehabilitation work is taking place.

Silas Legg, chairman of the township's Community Development Citizens Advisory committee, a group of citizens appointed to recommend how the federal funds should be spent, said the township should attempt to apply for funding of the social programs throughout the township.

"I don't know why we're sitting here if they are going to tell us you can't do this and you can't do that," Legg said. "We should present an application that is for the good of the community."

Spray noted the social programs could be funded but only if they drew their clients from the area designated for other Community Development projects. That would mean the social programs would be limited to residents of the former Model Cities neighborhood and Benton Heights — which make up about one-third of the township's population, he said.

During the past two years of the township's Community Development program, social programs have received funds. But Spray said that was because federal guidelines allowed the township to extend Community Development funds to social programs that were funded earlier with federal money. That guideline, however, ends this year, he said.

Social programs funded the first two years of the township's CD program were the Benton Harbor-Benton township senior citizens center, $21,500; Dental Health Care clinic $70,000; Community Parents Inc. Child Care center, $27,500, and CanAmer games, $5,000.

Spray also said if the social programs decided to try to receive funding by limiting their operation to only one section of the township, they would have to provide extensive paperwork to prove they served residents from that area.

The Citizens Advisory committee will hold another public hearing at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 1, in conjunction with the Benton township board of trustees meeting, to hear recommendations on how the money should be spent. Spray said a tentative budget will be available at that meeting.

Deadline for submitting the application is March 3. Funds will become available for the third year grant July 1.

In other areas last night, Spray presented information on the township's home rehabilitation program which showed the department has repaired 19 homes during the first 18 months of the program. He also said most of the funds budgeted for the first 18 months of the rehabilitation program have not been spent and $529,450 will be carried over for use in the third year of the CD program.

The township CD department came under criticism recently by members of the Citizens Advisory committee for what was described as the low number of houses rehabilitated during the first 18 months of the program. Legg said after the meeting last night that he was still not satisfied and wanted more information on the program. He said he would request copies of all loans and grants made under the program and an accounting of administrative costs in a formal letter to Spray.

Suit Challenges State
Farm-Features Editor

The administrator of the estate of a Benton Harbor man killed in a 1974 traffic accident has filed suit in Berrien circuit court for $100,000. He has named the Assigned Claims Facility and the old Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund, both units within the Michigan Department of State, as defendants.

The suit was filed by Colin H. John Jr., administrator for the estate of John Henry Lewis Sr., Benton Harbor. Lewis and two other men, Ernest Cheatham Jr. and Ronald D. Post, all were killed when the car they were in struck the trailer of a semi-truck on Main street (BL 1-94) in Benton Harbor. They were on Walnut street and according to police at the time, failed to stop for a stop signal.

Their auto went completely under the truck trailer and the top of the car was sheared off. The suit claims Cheatham, the car driver, was uninsured. Lewis also was uninsured.

It claims the state No Fault insurance act is unconstitutional in that the Assigned Claims Facility established under the act does not provide the same protection for uninsured victims of uninsured motorists as the act provides for insured victims of uninsured motorists, thus creating two classes of victims.

The Assigned Claims Facility provides only personal protection benefits to uninsured victims of uninsured motorists, according to Atty. Drew F. Seaman, who prepared the suit on behalf of the administrator. Personal protection benefits cover only ongoing medical costs and lost wages and services for a three-year period. The Assigned Claims Facility does not provide property protection or uninsured motorists protection benefits.

MORRISON CHANNEL
Stevensville Man
Seeks Pier Permit

A Stevensville man has filed an application with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to construct a 120 foot pier along the Morrison channel in St. Joseph for private docking of several pleasure boats.

Gerald F. Huebner, 5909 St. Joseph avenue, filed an application for a permit to build the pier along the mainland side of the channel across from Radio Island (formerly Terminal Island), about 140 feet south of Mollhagen bait and charter service.

According to the application, the pier would be constructed of steel and timber pile. Plans call for an L-shaped structure with the main portion running parallel to the shoreline and 23 feet from the shoreline. Huebner said he intends to dock a boat he owns, a boat owned by a friend, and possibly a third boat.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers reported any interested party objecting to construction of the dock should file their comments in writing with the Detroit office of the Corps of Engineers no later than 4:30 p.m., Jan. 25.

Struwin Opens
Own Law Office

Atty. Jack M. Struwin announced he has established his own law practice at 320 Main street, St. Joseph.

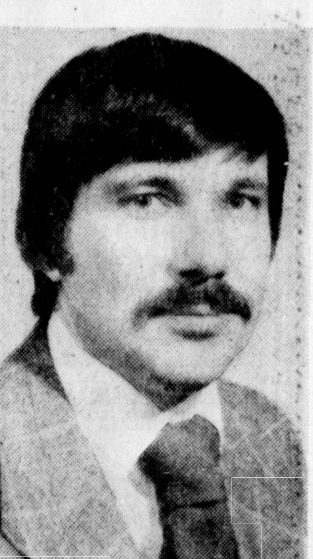

Struwin most recently was with the firm of Taylor, Yampolsky and Struwin, 811 Ship street, St. Joseph. That firm is now Taylor and Yampolsky.

Struwin has been in private practice since 1974. He was an assistant Berrien prosecutor in charge of welfare fraud and support, 1972-74, and previously an assistant Calhoun county prosecutor.

He is a 1968 graduate of Wayne State university law school and served as a captain with the military police in Vietnam.

The building in which Struwin's office is now located also houses the individual practices of Attys. Gary Hosbein and Robert U. McDowell. Struwin, 33, and his wife, Susan live at 9154 East Napier, rural Benton Harbor. She is a counselor with the Michigan Department of Education Vocational Rehabilitation Division at Fairplain Plaza.

SJ Residents Organize To Block
Lake Boulevard Widening ProjectBy NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Organized opposition has arisen to the proposed widening of Lake boulevard, St. Joseph, in the newly formed Lake Bluff Preservation association.

Mrs. Michele Spencer, 300 1/2 Lake court, appeared Thursday before the St. Joseph planning commission and identified herself as a member of the association which she said was organized last week by about 30 residents to oppose widening.

Mrs. Spencer told the commission Lake boulevard "has a lot of historical charm, and they (the new association) want to keep it that way."

Association members also believe widening the street will increase traffic and danger to children, Mrs. Spencer said.

She added the association does not object to repaving the street and reconstructing curbs and gutters.

The proposed $283,000 reconstruction of Lake boulevard would extend from Port street on the north to the terminus of Lake on the south at the intersection of Main street. The widening would be only from Market to Main, about eight blocks.

City Manager G. W. Hepler and James Talbot, public works director, briefed planners on the project yesterday. About 70 per cent of the cost is planned to be funded under the Federal Urban Aid program which means it would have to meet federal guidelines that include widening a portion of Lake boulevard.

Talbot said the Lake boulevard reconstruction proposal isn't connected with a plan that would close Lake between Ship and Port streets for expansion of Lake Bluff Park.

This proposal was presented at the Dec. 20 city commission meeting by Commissioner William Gillespie who said it was developed by a city resident he didn't name.

Also, yesterday, the planning commission unanimously approved a comprehensive plan for the future land use of St. Joseph prepared by the city planning commission and the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning Commission

(SMRPC).

James J. Muldoon, senior planner with SMRPC, said that under the plan zoning for two-family dwellings has been "tightened up." Far fewer two-family dwellings would be allowed south of downtown, between Lake boulevard and Main street, under the plan. It also outlines a triangular-shaped "water-recreational development area" below the bluff on the lake.

Planning Commission Chairman James Heathcote explained that the plan is not law but represents desired land uses. He added that the plan had to be prepared in connection with the city's new proposed zoning map, which will be presented at a public hearing before the planning commission Jan. 25 at 7:30 p.m.

If the plan is adopted into a revised zoning code it would become law, however.

In other business, planners: —Accepted a petition signed by 21 people in opposition to a request by Florian Beles, realtor, who is seeking a zoning change of residential lots at 222 and 224 Vail court to permit construction of a commercial building that would be occupied by Twin City Engraving. The petitioners said a zoning change would be incompatible with the residential district. Planners will take up the request next month.

Deputy Says 2 Men
Jumped Him On CallBy TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

Berrien sheriff's Deputy Tom Page said he was jumped by two men at a Hagar township home early today when he was called to a reported disturbance. One man was arrested on two charges, the other was hospitalized, suffering from an apparent overdose of some type of drug, Page reported.

Page, who was unhurt in the 2:50 a.m. incident, said he was attempting to break up a fight between a man and woman when the man attacked him, then a second man at the home began to hit him. Both were subdued, Page said.

The incident was reported at the Donald Shull residence, 3017

Pershing avenue. Booked at the Berrien county jail on charges of assault and battery against a police officer and obstructing a police officer was Jimmy Brown, 23, of 2229 Lawrence drive, Benton Heights.

Donald Shull, 30, was reported in "good" condition today at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph. A hospital spokeswoman said that Shull "was suffering from an overdose," but declined to comment further.

Page said Shull was to be arrested on a charge of assault and battery against a police officer when released from the hospital. Page said no charges were filed against the woman identified as Shull's wife, Linda.

Five chapters in southwestern Michigan of the Daughters of the American Revolution have presented Good Citizen awards to 29 area high school seniors.

The area chapters include Algonquin, Martin Van Buren, Captain Samuel Fell, Rebecca Dewey and Lucinda Hinsdale Stone.

The awards are presented on the basis of citizenship qualities of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism. Recipients, all high school seniors, must rank high in scholastic achievement and in school activity participation.

Winners are presented with the Good Citizen pin and certificate and are eligible to compete in the state contest, in which the winner receives a state pin and two bonds totaling $150. Second place winner at the state level receives a $75 bond and 10 runners-up each receive a $25 bond.

State winners will be guests of the Michigan Society of the DAR at its annual spring meeting April 5 at the Kalamazoo Center Inn.

Algonquin chapter presented the Good Citizen awards to high school students at Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Lake Michigan Catholic, Lakeshore, Michigan Lutheran, Eau Claire, Colonia, Watervliet, Berrien Springs, and Andrews Academy. These recipients include:

Stephen R. Snyder, Benton Harbor high school, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Richard Snyder, 3300 Territorial road, Benton Harbor. Following graduation he plans to attend a university and major in electrical or mechanical engineering.

Kathleen Kitron, St. Joseph high school, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hemsath, 1385 Hickory drive, St. Joseph. Miss Kitron plans to attend Michigan State university and major in marketing and business administration.

Ann Donahue, Lake Michigan Catholic high school, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Donahue, 2707 Highland Court, St. Joseph. She plans to attend the University of Denver and major in physical education.

Rhonda R. Edwards, Lakeshore high school, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Edwards, 1381 Glenford road, St. Joseph. Miss Edwards plans to attend a university and major in psychology and later attend a law school.

Diane Schinske, Michigan Lutheran high school, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schinske, 4820 Old Pipestone road, Eau Claire. After graduation she plans to attend Parson's Business School, Kalamazoo, to take secretarial courses.

'Gill' Varies In Quantity

Delving into some of our early American cookbooks? When recipes call for a "gill," you can use one-half cup. But if the cookbook is an English one, remember that the English gill is one-half cup plus two tablespoons.

To Attend Work Lab

Florida Isaac, Miss Southwest Michigan Scholarship pageant director, will attend the Miss Michigan pageant kickoff meeting Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 8 and 9, in Spring Lake.

Sessions will be held at the Spring Lake Holiday Inn and Pontcharra country club and are intended as a work lab for pageant directors and presidents of pageant boards to establish new rules presented by the Miss America scholarship pageant directors. New techniques for staging pageants will also be discussed.

Also attending the work sessions will be Leo Isaac, Miss Southwest Michigan pageant treasurer; Dale Pallas, vice president; Nancy Pallas, board recording secretary; Gloria LaPointe, member at large of the executive board, and Rick Nash, committee member.

Other members of the board include Allen Curmeal, vice president; Janice Stouffer, corresponding secretary, and William Stouffer, member at large.

Current pageant committee includes Mr. and Mrs. Allen Curmeal, Dr. and Mrs. Philip Hecht, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Isaac, Mr. and Mrs. Donald LaPointe, David Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dages, Rick Nash, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Pallas, Wayne Prilwitz, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. William Stouffer, and Judge and Mrs. Ronald Taylor.

Honorary members include Dr. and Mrs. James Lehman and Dr. Charles Field, representing Lake Michigan college. The Miss Southwest Michigan scholarship pageant is affiliated with the department of community services and continuing education at the college.

Current Miss Southwest Michigan is Beth Bazan, Lake Michigan college sophomore, who will represent the area in the Miss Michigan pageant in Muskegon in June.

Diane Kaye Hansen, the current Miss Michigan, is the 1976 Miss Southwest Michigan.

BENEFIT FOR SARETT AND RED CROSS

'Shenandoah' Here Feb. 25

AWARD-WINNING MUSICAL: Civic Benefit club will present the new musical, "Shenandoah," Friday, Feb. 25, at 8 p.m. at Lakeshore high school. The 1975 Broadway hit which won a Tony award tells the story of a proud Virginia farmer who is determined to prevent the drafting of his sons into the Confederate Army. Combined with a rich musical score and a Broadway cast of 25, the play is "truly a celebration of the American spirit and an evening of entertainment for the whole family to see," according to the club president, Mrs. Andrew (Mary) West. Proceeds will be divided between the Sarett Nature center for the hiring of two student naturalists and the Berrien County chapter of the American National Red Cross. Patron tickets are priced at $12.50 each and entitle the holder to a reserved seat. General admission is $7.50 and there are a limited number of student tickets (18 and under) for $3 each. Patron printing deadline is Jan. 15. Starring in the production will be John Raitl who appeared in the 1972 production of "Carousel" presented by Civic Benefit. He signed up as the star of the touring version of "Shenandoah" after a record breaking summer tour. The musical is based on the 1965 Jimmy Stewart film and its songs include "Raise the Flag of Dixie," "We Make A Beautiful Pair," "Violets and Silver Bells," "Next to Lovin' (I Like Fightin')," and "Freedom," which begins as a cakewalk and turns into a barn-raising foot-stomping hoedown.

Club Circuit

XI GAMMA THETA CHAPTER, Beta Sigma Phi sorority, will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 11, at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Muirhead, 1500 North Teakwood drive, Stevensville. Mrs. Hugh McDonald will be in charge of the program. The pledge ritual will be given new members.

LADIES' AUXILIARY OF BERRIEN COUNTY SPORTSMAN'S CLUB will meet Tuesday, Jan. 11, at 7 p.m. at the clubhouse, Arden.

DISABLED AMERICAN VETERANS, CHAPTER 17 AND AUXILIARY will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 12, at the DAV post, 1208 Pipestone, Benton Harbor. Leo LaRoux, special services officer of Battle Creek, will be at the post at 6:30 p.m. to help veterans and their families with problems.

Rose Society Meeting Tuesday

Southwestern Michigan Rose Society has elected John Stump as president for the 1977 year.

Stump and the other new officers will preside at their first meeting Tuesday, Jan. 11, at 8 p.m. at First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan, St. Joseph. Mrs. Joseph (Lucille) Vyral is in charge of the program.

Other new officers of the society include Mike Brigham, vice president; Mrs. Alvin (Evelyn) Bairand, secretary; Mrs. Vyral, treasurer, and Mrs. Leonard (Lydia) Tiefenbach, corresponding secretary.

History Movie Monday

John Allgood, Colonial Williamsburg's present master blacksmith portrays the role of this 18th century predecessor in the film "Hammernan in Williamsburg" which will be shown Monday, Jan. 10, at 12:15 p.m. in the Benton Harbor public library.

The 18th century blacksmith was the town repairman and manufacturer of a wide assortment of necessities that are taken for granted today.

The public is invited and anyone wishing to bring a lunch may do so.

Books added to the library include "First You Cry" by Betty Rollin; "The Terrorist," Maj. Sjovald and Per Wahlbo; "Up from Nigger," Dick Gregory; "Lady Oracle," Margaret Atwood; "Living It Up," George Burns.

Also "Jay J. Armes, Investigator," Jay J. Armes; "Women of Courage," Margaret Truman; "Remembering Josephine," Stephen Papich; "Slow Down the World," Jeffrey Ashford, and "Who'd Want to Kill Old George," Robert Upton.

Art Professor Plans Exhibit In Indiana

HOLLAND — Recent acrylic paintings, drawings, and silkscreen prints by Delbert Michel, associate professor of art at Hope college, will be featured in the Matrix gallery at Indiana university Monday, Jan. 10, through Friday, Feb. 4.

A reception for the artist will open the exhibit Jan. 10. Michel has exhibited his works in museums, universities and galleries in 15 states and has won prizes in national competitive exhibitions for his paintings, drawings and prints.

In Indiana, he has exhibited in the Ball State university national drawing show, the Hoosier Salon, the national "Works on Paper" exhibition at the Indianapolis Museum of Art, and the "Art 500" national painting show.

In the past four years, he has had work accepted in international competitive shows and has had three exhibitions in London at Croydon College of Art, Isleworth Polytechnic art gallery, and the Upperstreet gallery. In 1973-74 he served as visiting artist-teacher at Portsmouth College of Art in Portsmouth, England.

MISSING: This is photo of Tracy Krenner, 17, who has been missing from her Harbor home since Tuesday, Dec. 1. Her mother, Mrs. Richard Stone of 1001 Harbor, said she stopped looking when she is convinced she is at the Port or old Harbor's subject. Harbor number, 451-428.

Timely Stitch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Needlepoint, the art of creating a picture by filling a canvas with tiny identical stitches, has become many a modern man's tool to help him unwind from a long day at the office.

Saying that it helps them quit smoking, relax tensions or just plain pass the time, men like Spiro Agnew and Rosey Grier have taken up what used to be considered an all-female art. Ex-football tackle Grier even wrote a book about it.

No one knows how long ago needlepoint was invented, but examples of the stitchery were found in ancient Egyptian tombs. In the Victorian era, mothers taught their daughters the art because "the Devil makes work for idle hands."

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

Engagement and wedding pictures are usually available at this newspaper office after publication for a short time.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Relatives Take Free Ride

Dear Ann: I'm a struggling young dentist who needs your help. The problem: Free-loading relatives. Please don't say, "Tell 'em yourself." I don't have the nerve. Just let me say something through your column to these folks.

Dear Relative: The rent doesn't stop just because you are sitting in my not-yet-paid-for chair, and the dental lab doesn't forget to send a bill for the gold I just put in your mouth. I think of you as a patient when you are in my office, and I wish you would think of me as a dentist — not a nephew, cousin, brother-in-law or uncle.

I would be happy to give you a discount if you asked for one, but please don't expect me to work for nothing just because we happen to be related. My education cost me thousands of dollars. I had to borrow the money. I'm trying hard to get out of debt and it isn't easy. The only way I'll make it is by collecting for my work.

Right now seven relatives are due for a six-month check-up. If you could print this letter, Ann, sometime early in January, I'd be grateful. — Young Dentist in Your Town, U.S.A.

Dear Dentist: Here's your letter. And now, since you don't have the nerve to tell 'em yourself, will you please FIND the nerve to have copies of this column made and send it along with a "discounted" bill to every relative who sits in your not-yet-paid-for chair? It's the only way to go.

Parents First

Dear Ann Landers: I've never written to you before but I couldn't resist commenting on your answer to "Ignored In San Jose."

It will be a deep-freeze day in hell when I put my in-laws ahead of my parents. I respect my wife's mother and father but my own Mom and Dad come first — after my wife, of course.

Please don't print that corny poem again that says, "A son is a son till he takes a wife, but a daughter is a daughter all her life." It's not true. — A.S.

Dear A.S.: About 400 others wrote to tell me the same thing. Nice to know there are so many legal sons around. You made a lot of mothers happy today.

Dirty Trick

Dear Ann: The other night I did a terrible thing. I stood a guy up. The fellow is nice enough but before he came to get me I suddenly realized I didn't want to go out with him. I wrote a note, tacked it to the door and went to visit a girlfriend.

I'm a college senior and know damned well what I did was rotten. It was also cheap, cowardly and deceitful. I should have said no when he asked me out instead of saying yes and ruining both his evening and mine. But when a fellow says, "Would you like to go out with me?" it seems awfully cruel to say, "No,

ANN LANDERS

Dr. Lester Coleman

I get severe itching of the upper lip. It drives me crazy. These episodes come on every few days. My grandmother says (and I'm not kidding) that intestinal worms can cause this. What do you say? — Miss J.S., Tem.

Dear Miss S.: Readers of my column know that I have great respect for grandmothers' wisdom. However, in this instance, I must depart from my admiration for grandmothers' diagnostic acumen.

Instead, I would give consideration to the greater possibility that itching of the upper lip is allergic in origin. It may be due to some substance you're in contact with.

Lipsticks, hair sprays, hair dyes, and cosmetics generally, may be the offender.

Itching of the lips can also be an allergic reaction to certain foods or drugs.

When itching becomes so intolerable, consultation with an allergist may help identify the responsible substance. Allergists have at their command many excellent techniques to track down the irritant.

Intestinal worms can cause itching around the rectal area. If you want to satisfy your grandpa, it's easy to rule out the possibility of worms.

I have a constant echo of my heart beating in my left ear. I'm six months pregnant and can't take any medication. Is this dangerous? — Mrs. L.F., Maine

Dear Mrs. F.: The incessant heartbeat which is transferred to the ear can be most annoying. It's es-

I wouldn't."

Do you have any suggestions on how to politely refuse a date without inventing a phony boyfriend? — Ashamed Of Me

Dear Ashamed: If you don't want to go out with a fellow, simply say, "I've got to cut back on the social life and bring my grades up — but thanks for asking."

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1980, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

We got a call the other day from our tax man, who said he was having problems with some of the figures on our return.

"It's your expenditures," he said. "They're way out of line. For example, you spent $15.36 on entertainment last year."

"That much?" I observed, peering over his shoulder.

"Taxes on purchases only ran $48.12."

"That sounds right," nodded my husband.

"Your bank shows they paid $3.16 interest on your savings. So, where did all the money go?"

My husband took a deep breath and said, "We're the sole support of a 16-year-old driver who is insured."

"Oh, I am sorry," said our accountant, removing his glasses. "I didn't know."

"It's all right. We don't tell a lot of people. It's awkward when they press money into your hand and offer to help."

"A church group even offered to send us a basket."

"How much coverage do you carry?" asked the accountant.

"Liability, uninsured motorist, medical payments, collision, $50 deductible, and comprehensive."

"Good Lord, man, why didn't you say something? Property is one thing, but comprehensive..."

"At first, when we applied for the insurance, I didn't think it was going to be this bad. Then the agent said, 'Does your son make good grades?' The kid only passed one test all year. His eye examination. Then he said, 'Does he smoke?' Is he kind to his mother? Does he belong to a book club? I thought two out of three wasn't bad, but he lacked on another fee."

"Does he live at home? That helps."

"Yes, but he drives a Z-28 Camaro."

"Don't say that!" said the tax man. "I've known presidents of corporations who can't afford the tab on a Z-28 Camaro."

"We tried to get him to marry just to lower the rates," I interrupted, "but there was only one girl he was interested in and he ran over her foot in the school parking lot."

"The premium on the tape deck was extra," said my husband sadly. "So was the CB radio."

"I'm going to give you the same advice I've given every other parent," said the accountant. "Get yourself an old, retired teenager who lives at home, has had driver's education, who is happily married, gets good grades, doesn't smoke, drives a station wagon, and hums. That'll be $50."

"Could we work something out?" asked my husband.

Opening lead — 7 ♣

By Oswald & James Jacoby
We are indebted to Terence Reese and the Bridge World magazine for today's hand. South gets to four spades after a club opening bid by West and a heart response by East. He wins the first trick with the ace of hearts over East's queen and studies the hand.

Obviously the hand is going to collapse if East can get in to lead a club through the king. Also South must find some way to get rid of a couple of his clubs on dummy's hearts. Can he accomplish these two things?

Yes, if he can trade his heart loser for a diamond loser. So, South cashes his king of diamonds, leads a diamond to dummy's ace and returns the 10 of diamonds. East plays low and now South jettisons his jack of hearts.

West takes his jack of diamonds and can find nothing better to do than play ace and another trump. South wins in dummy, leads the 10 of hearts, ruffs East's king, enters dummy with another trump, discards two of his three clubs on the nine-eight of hearts and makes his contract.

Ask the Jacobys

The bidding has proceeded:
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Dbl. Pass

A Canadian reader wants to know if the two-club double was for takeout.

The answer is no. Once your opponents have bid three suits all doubles are primarily for penalty.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
This can be an interesting day, because you get enjoyment out of whatever you do. You even have a way of doing your work so it becomes fun.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
You'll be a lot better off today if you step back from a project which has you stymied. Eliminating the pressure may give you a fresh approach.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Others find you dependable today and they know things will be done properly. You can make many points.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Because you're not one to overlook small amounts today, they'll add up for you. You'll end up with a sizeable sum. Others may not.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Don't behave in a selfish manner, but try to direct your efforts so that you do reap some benefits. You must look out for No. 1 today.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Be patient today. The clock is in your corner. You'll gain control over things that seemed to be slipping away if you're not impetuous.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You

know something that would interest others in your circle. You'd be wise to keep it to yourself. The information could cause more harm than good.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)
There's a world of difference in your outlook today. When you set out to do something, all the pieces will fall into place.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 19)
Others rally to your cause today. You present your case in an interesting manner and you firmly believe in what you say.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
When it comes to old-fashioned horse trading, you're a tough customer to beat. Today, bargaining is fun, and it's profitable for you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Delegate authority at every opportunity today. There's no reason not to, since others will resent it if you don't let them help.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Relatives Take Free Ride

Dear Ann: I'm a struggling young dentist who needs your help. The problem: Free-loading relatives. Please don't say, "Tell 'em yourself." I don't have the nerve. Just let me say something through your column to these folks.

Dear Relative: The rent doesn't stop just because you are sitting in my not-yet-paid-for chair, and the dental lab doesn't forget to send a bill for the gold I just put in your mouth. I think of you as a patient when you are in my office, and I wish you would think of me as a dentist — not a nephew, cousin, brother-in-law or uncle.

I would be happy to give you a discount if you asked for one, but please don't expect me to work for nothing just because we happen to be related. My education cost me thousands of dollars. I had to borrow the money. I'm trying hard to get out of debt and it isn't easy. The only way I'll make it is by collecting for my work.

Right now seven relatives are due for a six-month check-up. If you could print this letter, Ann, sometime early in January, I'd be grateful. — Young Dentist In Your Town, U.S.A.

Dear Dentist: Here's your letter. And now, since you don't have the nerve to tell 'em yourself, will you please FIND the nerve to have copies of this column made and send it along with a "discounted" bill to every relative who sits in your not-yet-paid-for chair? It's the only way to go.

Parents First

Dear Ann Landers: I've never written to you before but I couldn't resist commenting on your answer to "Ignored In San Jose."

It will be a deep-freeze day in hell when I put my in-laws ahead of my parents. I respect my wife's mother and father but my own Mom and Dad come first — after my wife, of course. Please don't print that corny poem again that says, "A son is a son till he takes a wife, but a daughter is a daughter all of her life." It's not true. — A.S.

Dear A.S.: About 400 others wrote to tell me the same thing. Nice to know there are so many loyal sons around. You made a lot of mothers happy today.

Dirty Trick

Dear Ann: The other night I did a terrible thing. I stood a guy up. The fellow is nice enough but before he came to get me I suddenly realized I didn't want to go out with him. I wrote a note, tucked it to the door and went to visit a girlfriend.

I'm a college senior and know darned well what I did was rotten. It was also cheap, cowardly and deceitful. I should have said no when he asked me out instead of saying yes and ruining both his evening and mine. But when a fellow says, "Would you like to go out with me?" it seems awfully cruel to say, "No,

ANN LANDERS

Dr. Lester Coleman

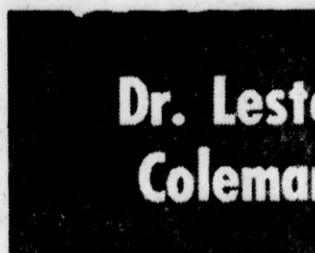

I wouldn't."

Do you have any suggestions on how to politely refuse a date without inventing a phony boyfriend? — Ashamed Of Me

Dear Ashamed: If you don't want to go out with a fellow, simply say, "I've got to cut back on the social life and bring my grades up — but thanks for asking."

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers's booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

I get severe itching of the upper lip. It drives me crazy. These episodes come on every few days. My grandmother says (and I'm not kidding) that intestinal worms can cause this. What do you say? — Miss J.S., Tenn.

Dear Miss S.: Readers of my column know that I have great respect for grandmothers' wisdom. However, in this instance, I must depart from my admiration for grandmothers' diagnostic acumen.

Instead, I would give consideration to the greater possibility that itching of the upper lip is allergic in origin. It may be due to some substance you're in contact with.

Lipsticks, hair sprays, hair dyes, and cosmetics generally, may be the offender. Itching of the lips can also be an allergic reaction to certain foods or drugs.

When itching becomes so intolerable, consultation with an allergist may help identify the responsible substance. Allergists have at their command many excellent techniques to track down the irritant.

Intestinal worms can cause itching around the rectal area. If you want to satisfy your grandma, it's easy to rule out the possibility of worms.

I have a constant echo of my heart beating in my left ear. I'm six months pregnant and can't take any medication. Is this dangerous? — Mrs. L.F., Maine

Dear Mrs. F.: The incessant heartbeat which is transferred to the ear can be most annoying. It's especially noticeable when you are fatigued, in a quiet room or when you are emotionally upset.

The assurance that you say you were given by two ear specialists should, for the time being, reduce your anxiety.

When the pregnancy is over there are numerous studies of the blood vessels that can be made in order to track down any specific cause of this referred heartbeat.

 SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH... Nalbiting is a sign of tension. Punishment and shaming a child for nalbiting can do him an injustice.

NEW YORK (AP) — With the growing popularity of down-filled garments for winter, the Feather and Down association urges consumers to look for quality in design and workmanship.

Seams should be well sewn and the surface of the garment should be smooth. A fabric with a fuzzy appearance indicates possible down leakage.

The warmth a garment can provide depends on the amount of loft or thickness of the down filling. A higher loft gives more warmth.

'AVON' MEANT 'RIVER' The word "avon" originally meant "river" or "stream" in Celtic. It is today the name of several rivers in England and Scotland, including the one which flows through Stratford, birthplace of William Shakespeare.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We are indebted to Terence Reese and the Bridge World magazine for today's hand. South gets to four spades after a club opening bid by West and a heart response by East. He wins the first trick with the ace of hearts over East's queen and studies the hand.

Obviously the hand is going to collapse if East can get in to lead a club through the king. Also South must find some way to get rid of a couple of his clubs on dummy's hearts. Can he accomplish these two things?

Yes, if he can trade his heart loser for a diamond loser. So, South cashes his king of diamonds, leads a diamond to dummy's ace and returns the 10 of diamonds. East plays low and now South jettisons his jack of hearts.

West takes his jack of diamonds and can find nothing better to do than play ace and another trump. South wins in dummy, leads the 10 of hearts, ruffs East's king, enters dummy with another trump, discards two of his three clubs on the nine-eight of hearts and makes his contract.

Ask the Jacobys

The bidding has proceeded: 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass 2 ♣ Dbl. Pass

A Canadian reader wants to know if the two-club double was for takeout.

The answer is no. Once your opponents have bid three suits all doubles are primarily for penalty.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This can be an interesting day, because you get enjoyment out of whatever you do. You even have a way of doing your work so it becomes fun.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll be a lot better off today if you step back from a project which has you stymied. Eliminating the pressure may give you a fresh approach.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Others find you dependable today and they know things will be done properly. You can make many points.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Because you're not one to overlook small amounts today, they'll add up for you. You'll end up with a sizeable sum. Others may not.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't behave in a selfish manner, but try to direct your efforts so that you do reap some benefits. You must look out for No. 1 today.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be patient today. The clock is in your corner. You'll gain control over things that seemed to be slipping away if you're not impatient.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You know something that would interest others in your circle. You'd be wise to keep it to yourself. The information could cause more harm than good.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your thoughtfulness delights people today. You'll remember to do little things always appreciated but often neglected.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a world of difference in your outlook today. When you set out to do something, all the pieces will fall into place.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Others rally to your cause today. You present your case in an interesting manner and you firmly believe in what you say.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) When it comes to old-fashioned horse trading, you're a tough customer to beat. Today, bargaining is fun, and it's profitable for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Delegate authority at every opportunity today. There's no reason not to, since others will resent it if you don't let them help.

Divorcee Wins Alimony When Scheme Backfires

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — When Adalia Kaleal agreed to divorce her husband, Frage, it was with the understanding that he would remarry her after helping a relative out of an immigration fix.

But Frage Kaleal reneged on the agreement — and the Michigan Court of Appeals says the former Mrs. Kaleal is entitled to some alimony for her troubles.

The appeals panel upheld a lower court decision granting $18 a week to the Detroit-area woman.

The plan was for Frage Kaleal to divorce his wife, and marry his overseas cousin, enabling the cousin, her brothers and sisters to get into the United States, the court said.

Once the relatives were in this country, Kaleal was supposed to divorce his cousin and remarry Adalia.

Kaleal's parents pushed the deal and promised him $2,000 if he'd carry it out, the court said. So, in 1972, the pair split up and Mrs. Kaleal didn't bother to contest the no-alimony divorce decree.

"As things turned out," the appeals court said, "the plaintiff became happily married to his overseas cousin."

When that became clear to his first wife, she won a modification of the divorce decree in Wayne County Circuit Court. The appeals court agreed with the lower court and said Kaleal had "taken advantage of the original proceedings."

Death Penalty Petitions

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Petitions to put the issue of capital punishment on the Michigan ballot in 1978 should be in circulation within "a couple of weeks," says the sponsor of the drive, State Rep. Kirby Holmes, R-Utica.

Holmes proposes to restore the death penalty in Michigan for first degree murder. He will need 265,702 signatures to put the proposed constitutional amendment on the ballot.

Prints Confirm Dead Man's ID

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Authorities in Ohio and Indiana said Wednesday that fingerprints have confirmed the man who died in a Port Wayne, Ind., plane crash last month was Joseph Gordon Sharp.

Sharp, who left at least three widows at the time of the crash, was suspected by police of faking his own death.

But fingerprints taken from a hand found in the small plane which crashed Dec. 10 matched prints on the military records of Sharp, police said.

"I was greatly relieved when it came back positive," said Hersel Bender, an investigator for the Franklin County, Ohio, prosecutor's office. "We wouldn't have put it past him to fake his own death, considering everything else he'd been up to."

To date, authorities know that Sharp had families in Grosse Pointe Park, Mich.; Gahanna, Ohio; and Montreal. A Chicago woman told police she had accepted a proposal of marriage from Sharp on the day he died.

The women apparently did not know of each other's existences. Authorities said they have no idea how insurance companies will settle Sharp's estate.

Vandals Rampage At Zoo

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Vandals beat and killed a raccoon, wounded three deer and stole some birds from a small Lansing park zoo in an early morning rampage.

Police said Thursday they have no idea who attacked the Potter Park Zoo animals, or what bizarre motivation was behind the attack.

Doug Finley, Lansing parks and recreation director, said it appeared that two vandals beat the zoo's only raccoon against a rocky area near its den.

Footprints and a trail of blood on the snow indicated the vandals dragged the dead 40-pound animal to a car parked on a nearby residential street, and drove away with it.

Divorcee Wins Alimony When Scheme Backfires

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — When Adalia Kaleal agreed to divorce her husband, Frage, it was with the understanding that he would remarry her after helping a relative out of an immigration fix.

But Frage Kaleal reneged on the agreement — and the Michigan Court of Appeals says the former Mrs. Kaleal is entitled to some alimony for her troubles.

The appeals panel upheld a lower court decision granting $18 a week to the Detroit-area woman.

The plan was for Frage Kaleal to divorce his wife, and marry his overseas cousin, enabling the cousin, her brothers and sisters to get into the United States, the court said.

Once the relatives were in this country, Kaleal was supposed to divorce his cousin and remarry Adalia.

Kaleal's parents pushed the deal and promised him $2,000 if he'd carry it out, the court said. So, in 1972, the pair split up and Mrs. Kaleal didn't bother to contest the no-alimony divorce decree.

"As things turned out," the appeals court said, "the plaintiff became happily married to his overseas cousin."

When that became clear to his first wife, she won a modification of the divorce decree in Wayne County Circuit Court. The appeals court agreed with the lower court and said Kaleal had "taken advantage of the original proceedings."

Carter May Hike Ford's Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Carter may recommend increasing 1978 federal spending by as much as $30 billion above what President Ford will propose in his final budget, sources say.

The exact amount will depend on what figure Ford presents in the budget he will submit to Congress on Jan. 17 for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

Vandals Rampage At Zoo

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Vandals beat and killed a raccoon, wounded three deer and stole some birds from a small Lansing park zoo in an early morning rampage.

Police said Thursday they have no idea who attacked the Potter Park Zoo animals, or what bizarre motivation was behind the attack.

Doug Finley, Lansing parks and recreation director, said it appeared that two vandals beat the zoo's only raccoon against a rocky area near its den.

Footprints and a trail of blood on the snow indicated the vandals dragged the dead 40-pound animal to a car parked on a nearby residential street, and drove away with it.

The vandals also left three deer with several puncture wounds to their backs, necks, shoulders and flanks. Finley said the animals apparently were struck with a spiked board. The animals will live, he said, though one suffered internal bleeding.

Two pigeons and two chickens were missing from a fenced area of the 200-animal zoo, Finley said. The birds had been injured earlier and could not fly away themselves, he said.

"Zoos used to be designed with chains, bars and concrete," said Finley. "Now we've made them more accessible for viewing the animals ... and apparently also made the animals more vulnerable."

The wooded zoo is watched by security guards between 7 a.m. and 2 a.m., Finley said. It is a small part of a rambling 60-acre park in an older middle-income neighborhood on the south side of the city.

Previous vandalism at the zoo has been limited to youngsters throwing stones or beer cans at the animals, Finley said. No fences or barriers close the zoo off from the rest of the park.

Other zoo animals including lions, tigers and buffalo, were not abused, Finley said.

He guessed the vandals were likely older teenagers or adults since they apparently climbed on top of the caged-in bird area to peel back the wire fencing and steal the birds.

Coffee From Scratch May Take Awhile

MIAMI (AP) — Cringing at the price of coffee at the grocery store? You can always grow your own, but it takes a lot of patience for just a little bit of coffee.

"As the price goes up, I guess people get the idea they can grow their own — and they can. It just takes a lot of work to get one pound of coffee, but some people say it's too much work to grow a 'vegetable garden,'" says Paul Soderholm, a horticulturist doing research on coffee trees in Miami.

Coffee trees can be grown outside only in tropical areas or subtropical spots such as South Florida.

And the five-to six-foot size recommended for the home only produces about three pounds of fruit every year — and that gives just one pound of ground, roasted coffee.

The only species recommended for home growing is "coffee arabica," and it's the type most often sold by nurseries throughout the United States. Prices range from $1 to more than $40, depending on size.

Soderholm suggests that a home planter start with an 8-to 10-inch plant. A slow grower, a coffee tree takes about 14 months to grow from seed to one foot. The tree starts producing in about three years.

"Arabica is a fairly rugged plant and makes a pretty house plant," Soderholm says. "It will survive climatic conditions in the average home, office or lobby with good care."

A coffee plant should be kept in brightly lighted rooms within four feet of south, west or east windows. Soil should be uniformly moist but not wet.

Many arabica will tolerate temperatures into the 40s, but 65 degrees is ideal. An acid-type fertilizer with a chelated iron supplement should be used every 1-to-2 months.

The species produces fruit between September and January. The fruit ripens over a period of a month to six weeks and is ready when the color of the outer skin or pulp ranges from dark red to dark maroon. You're not done yet.

There's a seven-step process to get coffee from the fruit: First, remove the pulp, ferment by covering seeds with water for 36 hours to remove a sticky material. Dry the seeds in the sun for three or four hours. Take off the seed coat, called the parchment, by pounding the seeds with a mortar or similar instrument for about a half hour. At this stage, the seeds are resilient and can take the pounding. Blow off the parchment with a fan.

What's left is the green coffee bean. Roast by spreading the beans in a single layer in a flat pan in a moderate oven, about 350 degrees. Leave them in the oven until the color is about the same as the coffee in a can. Then grind the coffee beans and put in a pot to brew.

The price of coffee, which has jumped from $1.25 a pound to more than $3 in the United States in the past year, has been rising at similar and sometimes higher rates in other nations. In some countries, consumption has dropped as prices went up. "We are losing lots of money because of the decline in consumption," said a major distributor in Argentina, where the price has leaped from $1.51 to $4.34 a pound.

TENOR WITHDRAWN LONDON (AP) — Britain's Royal Opera House has announced that Canadian tenor Jon Vickers has withdrawn from its planned revival of Wagner's opera "Tannhauser."

COFFEE RESEARCH: Horticulturist Paul Soderholm looks at coffee beans or berries on tree grown at U.S. Agriculture Department's subtropical horticulture research center in Miami, Fla. Trees are being grown as part of research project to find hardy, cold-resistant coffee plant for other countries such as Brazil, where freeze in 1975 helped lead to present high prices for coffee. Milliken Worker's Comp Veto Draws Union Wrath

By MALCOLM JOHNSON, Associated Press Writer LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken's veto of a bill to speed up worker's compensation claims drew an immediate blast Thursday from a top union leader in Michigan.

Milliken said the measure would impose additional economic burdens on employers and would fail to solve basic problems of the program to compensate injured workers.

Milliken has been battling with Democrats in the Legislature over reform of the entire worker's compensation system.

State AFL-CIO President William Marshall said the governor is insensitive to the needs of working people.

Marshall declared that big business forced the veto. Marshall said big business convinced Milliken "their special interests are more important than the urgent need of workers maimed in shop accidents to have their claims handled quickly."

The measure, pushed by organized labor and passed over objections of the Republican minority in the legislature, would impose a fee on insurance companies writing worker's compensation policies.

The money would be used to increase the staff of the Worker's Compensation Bureau to erase a two-year backlog of cases. The bureau is funded by the state general fund.

But business said the extra fee would be passed on to them in higher rates. Milliken said it would cost business an extra $5 million a year.

But Milliken said he has supported such a fund in the past and said he believes "the assessment approach is a fair and equitable way to allocate the costs" of such governmental functions.

The real reason he said he vetoed the bill was the Democrats' "piecemeal" approach to revising the entire worker's compensation system.

Efforts to agree on sweeping revisions in the system bogged down in the Senate last year. There were arguments over the cost of raising benefits, extending them to different injuries and correcting abuses.

Republicans — backed by business — said Democrats were not willing to cut down abuse in return for better benefits. Democrats pushed through the funding bill as a first step toward reform.

Milliken, however, said the measure by itself "threatens the likelihood of reaching agreement on an acceptable reform package" and may hurt the state's economy.

"To increase the cost while failing to correct abuses in the worker's compensation system would be contrary to the economic development goals of this state," he said.

Milliken said he would offer a "balanced reform package" in the new session of the legislature, starting next week.

Graham Invited To Inauguration

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — President-elect Carter telephoned the Rev. Billy Graham to invite the minister to his Jan. 20th Inauguration in Washington.

Graham, hospitalized here for treatment of an inflammation of a vein in his left leg, declined the invitation, but promised Carter that he would attend the inauguration prayer breakfast in the White House January 27th.

Woman Wins 2nd $200,000

DETROIT (AP) — A Southgate grandmother who has her heart set on a trip to Hawaii picked up another $200,000 in the Michigan lottery Thursday night to bring her winnings to $207,000.

Mrs. Irene Conley, 56, won the right to return next week and try for another $100,000 in the televised drawing held by the Michigan Bureau of Lotteries.

The mother of five was accompanied by her husband, Homer, a bread wrapper at Ward Baking Co., as she extended her winning streak to two games.

Other winners included: $20,000 — Alfred Collins, 48, Roseville, a pipefitter at Ford Motor Co. in Mount Clemens.

$12,000 — Ronald E. Troupe, 34, of Detroit, a disabled veteran.

$10,000 — Fortune Heirs Lottery Club of Springport, whose members work at Aeroquip Corp. in Jackson.

$10,000 — Eli Oltean Jr., of Detroit, a Chrysler retiree.

$8,000 — Duane Austin, 59, of Battle Creek, a factory worker.

$5,000 — Jean Payne, 55, of Detroit, a presser at a Livonia dry cleaning establishment.

The real reason he said he vetoed the bill was the Democrats' "piecemeal" approach to revising the entire worker's compensation system.

Efforts to agree on sweeping revisions in the system bogged down in the Senate last year. There were arguments over the cost of raising benefits, extending them to different injuries and correcting abuses.

Republicans — backed by business — said Democrats were not willing to cut down abuse in return for better benefits. Democrats pushed through the funding bill as a first step toward reform.

Milliken, however, said the measure by itself "threatens the likelihood of reaching agreement on an acceptable reform package" and may hurt the state's economy.

"To increase the cost while failing to correct abuses in the worker's compensation system would be contrary to the economic development goals of this state," he said.

Milliken said he would offer a "balanced reform package" in the new session of the legislature, starting next week.

Graham Invited To Inauguration

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — President-elect Carter telephoned the Rev. Billy Graham to invite the minister to his Jan. 20th inauguration in Washington.

Graham, hospitalized here for treatment of an inflammation of a vein in his left leg, declined the invitation, but promised Carter that he would attend the inauguration prayer breakfast in the White House January 27th.

Woman Wins 2nd $200,000

DETROIT (AP) — A South-gate grandmother who has her heart set on a trip to Hawaii picked up another $100,000 in the Michigan lottery Thursday night to bring her winnings to $207,000.

Mrs. Irene Conley, 56, won the right to return next week and try for another $100,000 in the televised drawing held by the Michigan Bureau of Lotteries.

The mother of five was accompanied by her husband, Homer, a bread wrapper at Ward Baking Co., as she extended her winning streak to two games.

Other winners included:

$20,000 — Alfred Collins, 48, Roseville, a pipefitter at Ford Motor Co. in Mount Clemens.

$12,000 — Ronald E. Troupe, 33, of Detroit, a disabled veteran.

$10,000 — Fortune Heirs Lottery Club of Springport, whose members work at Aeroquip Corp. in Jackson.

$10,000 — Eli Oltean Jr. of Detroit, a Chrysler retiree.

$8,000 — Duane Austin, 59, of Battle Creek, a factory worker.

Princess Cited For Speeding

ALFRETON, England (AP) — Princess Anne, given a summons in November for speeding on an expressway in Derbyshire, is due in a local magistrates court Jan. 21.

But a Buckingham Palace spokesman said a lawyer probably would represent her.

HAGAR HOUSE FIRE: Hagar township firemen pour water into remains of unoccupied cottage in Lake Michigan Beach that burned about 2:45 a.m. this morning. (Cliff Stevens photo)

Faulty Heating Devices Suspected In House Fires

By LARRY MacINTYRE
Staff Writer

Faulty heating devices are suspected as the cause of fires yesterday and last night that destroyed a cottage in Lake Michigan Beach and gutted a home at 5982 Gast road, just south of Bridgman in Lake township.

In both fires, no one was home when blazes broke out and there were no injuries.

The fire near Bridgman is believed to have started in an overheated, basement furnace, firemen said. That fire began about 5 p.m. and left an estimated $25,000 damage in the home of Catherine Anderson. The one-story, wood frame structure was gutted.

Firemen said the flames apparently spread rapidly through heating ducts. The fire was doused about 6:30 p.m., but firemen remained on the scene until 8:30 p.m. The Lake township fire department was assisted by the Bridgman fire department in battling the blaze.

Mrs. Anderson and her son, Bradley, were not at home when the fire started, firemen said.

In Lake Michigan Beach, Hagar township firemen were called to an unoccupied cottage at 3126 Cherry avenue about 2:45 a.m. this morning. The fire was spotted by volunteer fireman Charles Evans, who lives nearby.

That fire destroyed the cottage which Fire Chief Wayne Prescott said was valued at about $10,000.

The fire started near a living room oil space heater that had recently been repaired and was turned on.

According to Prescott, the cottage owner, Ben Valenti, of 5877 Central avenue, Hagar township, was getting it ready to be rented out Saturday.

In both fires, firemen said low temperatures may have triggered the heating devices to become overheated and catch fire. Temperatures ranged in the low teens last night and this morning.

The fire in Lake township was the second in the Bridgman area in two days.

On Wednesday night, the two departments spent three hours fighting a fire which gutted Mike's Market and damaged upstairs hotel rooms on Lake street and Bridgman.

Yesterday, insurance adjusters set the value of the loss at $80,000, according to Bridgman Police Chief Michael Pedde. Earlier, the loss had been estimated at up to $100,000.

Paddy Wagon Damage Defendant Asks Hearing

One person demanded examination, another was bound over to circuit court, and nine people were sentenced Thursday in Berrien Fifth District court.

Quincy Leon Leonard, 17, of 818 Ogden avenue, Benton Harbor, demanded examination on a charge of malicious destruction of a paddy wagon, Wednesday in Benton Harbor.

He also was sentenced to 90 days in jail for disorderly person, wandering about the streets in Benton Harbor without being able to give satisfactory account of himself on Wednesday. Police reported there have been about 50 breaking and entering recently in the general southside area of Benton Harbor where Leonard was arrested. Bond on the property destruction charge was set at $4,000.

Charles E. Williams, 24, of 1011 Lavette street, Benton Harbor, was bound over to circuit court on a charge of breaking and entering a house at 1234 Columbus avenue, Benton Harbor, Dec. 13. Bond was set at $5,000.

Sentenced were:

Thomas L. James, 25, of 325 Pier, Watervliet, 60 or 90 days in jail for disorderly person, fighting, at Babe's Lounge, Benton Harbor, Sept. 18.

Thomas W. O'Brien, 27, of Baltimore, Md., 30 or 60 days in jail for impaired driving, Jan. 6 in Watervliet.

Virginia A. Glenn, 30, of 209 Walnut avenue, Benton township, $100 or 30 days in jail for assault and battery against Willie Thompson Wednesday in Benton township with a knife. A charge of assault with a deadly weapon was not authorized by the prosecutor's office.

Charles E. Harris, 31, of 885 Superior street, Benton Harbor, six months in jail (day parole) for driving under the influence of intoxicants, second offense, Nov. 26 in Benton Harbor.

Jack H. Covert, 48, of New Buffalo, $200 and 30 days in jail for impaired driving Aug. 9 in Chikaming township.

Art Mason, 31, of 367 John street, Benton Harbor, 90 days in jail for a probation violation, failure to report to the probation office and failure to make $100 restitution, on a receiving and concealing stolen property under $100 offense, May 26 in Benton township.

Herbert H. Morris Jr., 22, of Battle Creek, 90 days in jail for assault and battery and disturbing the peace Jan. 5 at the County store, 1400 Jennings avenue. A companion, Renata A. Jones, 22, also of Battle Creek, was sentenced to fine and costs of $50 for disturbing the peace. A charge of obstructing a police officer was not authorized against her.

Gerald W. Keltner, 29, of 3281 Lenox Creek road, Bridgman, $152 and six months probation for driving under the influence of intoxicants Nov. 21 in St. Joseph.

A charge of obtaining money under false pretenses over $100 was dismissed against Charles Williams, 24, of 1011 Lavette street, Benton Harbor, because the alleged victims refused to testify, according to Chief Assistant Prosecutor Jeffrey Long.

A charge of receiving and concealing stolen property, a 1972 Buick, was not authorized against Martin James Drake, 24, of Grand Rapids. Michigan State police turned him over to Grand Rapids police who sought him on unlawful driving away of a vehicle and other charges in Grand Rapids, police said.

Mayor Said Beyond Prosecution

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
 LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Dearborn Mayor Orville Hubbard improperly handled thousands of dollars in marriage fees, but Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley says there's not much that can be done about it.

And Kelley said, the same is true for other cases of mismanagement or wrongdoing in Dearborn city government, uncovered during an attorney general's office probe.

The investigation found Hubbard gave the city only $3,400 of $25,630 he collected for performing marriages from July 1972 through November 1974.

In addition, Kelley said the 35-year veteran mayor broke the law by accepting more than the official marriage fee. But since the offense carries a one-year statute of limitations, it's too late to do anything about it.

Kelley also detailed other mismanagement or wrongdoing in Dearborn city government, including personal use of city-owned cars, questionable land sales by city employees and imprudent management of a parking fund.

Kelley said he found the incidents "reprehensible." But he said most were too minor or happened too long ago to warrant criminal charges. In some cases, Kelley said, the city charter contained no enforcement provisions.

Kelley's 32-page report was the result of an investigation of Dearborn government prompted by a state Treasury Department audit and complaints against the Republican Hubbard, who has dominated the city since 1932, were who politically motivated. And he contended Kelley's report showed little wrongdoing.

"... He's dismissed all the charges — he's washed them out," said Doyle Jackson, director of research and information.

Hubbard was incapacitated by a stroke in 1974.

Kelley also said said: "City-owned cars were used by council members and top officials for personal business. Kelley left any criminal charges up to the Wayne County prosecutor."

Sales of land to the city by Hubbard's son, Henry F. Hubbard, and the mayor's longtime friend, Mary Keane, appeared to be "technical violations" of a law prohibiting public employees to enter into contracts with their employers.

The younger Hubbard is superintendent of motor transport, while Mary Keane is director of the city's service bureau. But Kelley recommended no prosecution, saying they were not advised the sales violated the law, there was no attempt to hide them and the profit was small.

"The city should take action to collect $366,900 owed it by businesses within Dearborn. The firms donate money to a fund instead of providing off-street parking."

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Charging retarded children have been physically abused at a Plymouth treatment center, a group of clinicians have gone to court to force the state to release results of a probe of the allegations. The suit says the state Department of Social Services should be required to take legal action against "appropriate parties to safeguard against further physical abuse" at the Plymouth Center for Human Development. The Plymouth association claims youths at the center have been physically attacked, suffering burns, bruises and broken bones. In its suit filed with the Michigan Court of Appeals, the Plymouth Association for Retarded Children claims 16 incidents of physical abuse have occurred at the center since last May. That was the month the association filed a complaint with the social services department and with the state Department of Mental Health. The state has refused to disclose what it learned in a subsequent probe of the charges, and no apparent corrective action has been taken, the suit says.

Legion Disease Link Discovered

By WILLIAM L. EBERLINE
Associated Press Writer

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Bacteria that cause disease in turkeys and parrots have been linked to Legionnaires' disease, the still unexplained ailment that killed 29 persons in Philadelphia last summer, government researchers said.

Tests on the blood serum of three patients out of four and a pathologist who became ill while studying victims' tissue samples showed antibodies that fight against bacteria called chlamydiae, the researchers said Thursday.

Dr. Leslie Page, a microbiologist at the National Animal Disease Laboratory here, emphasized that the test findings aren't conclusive. But he added that the suggestion of the involvement of chlamydiae is strong enough to schedule more extensive work.

Page's tentative findings were released Thursday through the U.S. Department of Agriculture research center in Peoria, Ill.

It is "the first time any positive serologic (dealing with serum) result has been obtained that correlates with the period of illness of Legionnaire patients," said Page, who directed the research.

Legionnaires' disease broke out after a state American Legion convention in Philadelphia July 20-24. There were 180 reported cases, 29 of them fatal.

"Chlamydiae bacteria are widely dispersed in human and animal serums," said Dr. Philip O'Berry, director of the National Animal Disease Laboratory.

"They cause no disease in most animals. But a chlamydiae causes a disease known as ornithosis in turkeys and a similar organism causes parrot fever, or psittacosis."

Parrot fever, like Legionnaires' disease, causes high fevers and pneumonia in humans. It was ruled out as a cause of the Philadelphia illness two days into the epidemic because federal epidemiologists could neither isolate the fever nor find chlamydiae in tissue samples.

All tests for parrot fever, except for those announced Thursday and one other, proved negative. The single exception was a test last summer on a legionnaire's wife who died of the disease.

Page said antibodies develop in the body after exposure to bacteria as nature's way of combating disease. The antibody level rises to a peak after exposure and then declines, he said.

Page's tests showed no antibodies in serum taken when patients were acutely ill, but did detect low levels in samples taken during a recovery period. That timing correlates with the appearance of chlamydiae antibodies, but it could be only a coincidence, he said.

Longet Jury Likely Today

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Claudine Longet, who cried when the only prospective juror with "compassion" for her was rejected because of his concern for the singer's children, is about to face the final jury panel in the shooting death trial of her lover.

With just one more juror to be approved, State District Court Judge George Lohr was expected to swear in 12 jurors and two alternates today. He said opening arguments and testimony would begin Monday morning.

Broadcasting executive Revell Fox, who Miss Longet said had been the only one of 51 possible jurors questioned since Monday who had come with "compassion, someone willing to come with an open heart and understanding," was dismissed Thursday.

Tears rolled down Miss Longet's face and she bit her lip to fight them back when Fox was dismissed.

During a recess in the fourth day of jury selection, Miss Longet said Fox had brought her hope in the midst of "so much despair and darkness."

Seventeen potential jurors were dismissed after they said they felt the 35-year-old French-born entertainer was guilty of recklessly killing champion skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich, with whom she had lived for two years.

During Thursday's court session, Miss Longet received an anonymous note which a friend said had been given her outside the courtroom. It said "Be brave. There are many with compassion." Miss Longet read it and smiled.

Fox, 59, had been tentatively approved Wednesday, but lawyers sought a re-examination after Lohr released a letter from him that elaborated on his feeling that Miss Longet should not be separated from her children — Noel, 12, Christian, 10, and Bobby, 7. Their father is singer Andy Williams, from whom she is divorced.

"I have a very strong feeling about the family relationship," he said in his letter. "I don't want to be part of a program or jury decision that affects a person with children behind the scenes."

Lawton's Queen Contest Feb. 12

LAWTON — Applications for girls wishing to enter the Miss Lawton Blossom Queen contest will be available at the Lawton high school office beginning Thursday, Jan. 13, according to Mrs. Joseph (Cathy) Good, contest chairman. To be eligible, a girl must be at least 17, but not older than 21, a high school graduate or currently attending Lawton high school or a full-time resident of the Lawton school district.

The contest is slated for Saturday, Feb. 12, at 8 p.m. at the high school auditorium here. Agneta Grinnin is contest co-chairman and Margaret Innes is in charge of staging and directing.

A tea for contestants has been scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 23, at the high school. Applications will also be available at the tea. Deadline for applications is Wednesday, Jan. 26, at the first rehearsal. Contestants are asked to dress appropriately as press pictures will be taken at 7:30 p.m. at the first rehearsal at the high school, according to Mrs. Good.

The winner of the Miss Lawton contest will represent her community in the Miss Blossomtime Queen pageant, Minneapolis, March 28, at 8 p.m., at Lakehurst high school auditorium.

Carter Eyes Tax Rebate To Boost U.S. Economy

By FRANK CONNER
Associated Press Writer

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Carter, talking for the first time about the possibility of a permanent tax cut, is meeting with key congressional Democrats to see if they might also favor a one-shot tax rebate to boost the economy.

Thirteen leaders of the Democratic majority were to meet here today with Carter and his economic team in an effort to hammer out a joint program to stimulate an economy that Carter and his advisers feel is far from robust.

The President-elect met with his economic aides Thursday and later said he hoped he could disclose at least the broad outlines of an economic program "if we can reach a comparable understanding" with the congressional delegation today.

Among those meeting with Carter today was House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, who said Thursday that Carter's economic proposals will have top priority in the House, where tax legislation must originate.

Carter said options under discussion Thursday included "a permanent tax reduction, which would be compatible with long range reforms, plus the possibility of a temporary tax stimulus as well."

He did not elaborate on the nature of the temporary stimulus, beyond saying it "would only be for one year."

But it was learned that Carter had voiced a preference for a tax rebate that would quickly give taxpayers money to pump into the economy instead of a reduction in income tax withholding rates that would be felt slowly over the entire year.

Carter previously spoke of permanent tax cuts as part of an over-all tax reform that might take months to prepare, but Thursday he said:

"I think it would take at least until next fall to work out a perfect tax reform package, but if there are some small elements that are obviously going to be part of an over-all package, they might very well be included at this early stage."

Carter conceded that his own economic team was not in agreement after Thursday's three-hour meeting. He said no effort was made to resolve differences until the congressional leaders arrived. "We want to have their input on an equal basis with our own," he said.

He said a program to cut unemployment will remain the priority item in his economic package, adding, "whatever we can't do with the jobs program, we'll make up the differences with the tax program."

Carter repeatedly emphasized he had reached no final decisions and had put no price tag on the amount of stimulation he will urge.

But Thomas B. Lance, the Atlanta banker who is Carter's nominee to head the Office of Management and Budget, said he favored a $15 billion bid on the effort to avoid increasing the budget deficit to the point where fresh inflation fears would be aroused.

Washington sources indicated Carter may propose hiking 1978 spending as much as $20 billion above what President Ford offers in his final budget.

Legion Disease Link Discovered

By WILLIAM L. EBERLINE
Associated Press Writer

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Bacteria that cause disease in turkeys and parrots have been linked to Legionnaires' disease, the still unsolved ailment that killed 29 persons in Philadelphia last summer, government researchers said.

Tests on the blood serum of three patients out of four and a pathologist who became ill while studying victims' tissue samples showed antibodies that fight against bacteria called chlamydiae, the researchers said Thursday.

Dr. Leslie Page, a microbiologist at the National Animal Disease Laboratory here, emphasized that the test findings aren't conclusive. But he added that the suggestion of the involvement of chlamydiae is strong enough to schedule more extensive work.

Page's tentative findings were released Thursday through the U.S. Department of Agriculture research center in Peoria, Ill.

It is "the first time any positive serologic (dealing with serum) result has been obtained that correlates with the period of illness of Legionnaire patients," said Page, who directed the research.

Legionnaires' disease broke out after a state American Legion convention in Philadelphia July 20-24. There were 180 reported cases, 29 of them fatal.

"Chlamydiae bacteria are widely dispersed in human and animal serums," said Dr. Philip O'Berry, director of the National Animal Disease Laboratory.

"They cause no disease in most animals. But a chlamydiae causes a disease known as ornithosis in turkeys and a similar organism causes parrot fever, or psittacosis."

Parrot fever, like Legionnaires' disease, causes high fevers and pneumonia in humans. It was ruled out as a cause of the Philadelphia illness two days into the epidemic because federal epidemiologists could neither isolate the fever nor find chlamydiae in tissue samples.

All tests for parrot fever, except for those announced Thursday and one other, proved negative. The single exception was a test last summer on a legionnaire's wife who died of the disease.

Page said antibodies develop in the body after exposure to bacteria as nature's way of combating disease. The antibody level rises to a peak after exposure and then declines, he said.

Page's tests showed no antibodies in serum taken when patients were acutely ill, but did detect low levels in samples taken during a recovery period. That timing correlates with the appearance of chlamydiae antibodies, but it could be only a coincidence, he said.

Longet Jury Likely Today

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Claudine Longet, who cried when the only prospective juror with "compassion" for her was rejected because of his concern for the singer's children, is about to face the final jury panel in the shooting death trial of her lover.

With just one more juror to be approved, State District Court Judge George Lohr was expected to swear in 12 jurors and two alternates today. He said opening arguments and testimony would begin Monday morning.

Broadcasting executive Revell Fox, who Miss Longet said had been the only one of 51 possible jurors questioned since Monday who had come with "compassion, someone willing to come with an open heart and understanding," was dismissed Thursday.

Tears rolled down Miss Longet's face and she bit her lip to fight them back when Fox was dismissed.

It's News TODAY

Ford Making Final Pitch

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is making a final pitch for his energy program, ranging from removal of price controls on fuels to stepped-up conservation measures. Ford was expected today to spell out what he views as the nation's unfinished energy business in a special message to Congress. A White House aide said the message would break no new ground, but would substantially be "an update" of Ford administration energy programs and recommendations. Ford's efforts to get his own energy program through the last Congress were unsuccessful. There is little possibility that a Democratic Congress waiting for Democratic President-elect Carter to take office on Jan. 20 will take any action on the proposals of an outgoing Republican President.

Heiress Attacked In Jamaica

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Police are hunting four gunmen who broke into the home of Lady Sarah Spencer-Churchill, assaulted the 35-year-old Vanderbilt heiress and shot two people during a robbery rampage in a wealthy Montego Bay suburb. The London Daily Mail said Lady Sarah, a distant cousin of the late Sir Winston Churchill and a sister of the present Duke of Marlborough, reported in a telephone interview that one of the gunmen "picked me up and slung me over his shoulder and took me down to the maid's room and assaulted me. There was nothing I could do. He held a knife to my throat, and if I had struggled he would have killed me."

New Canal Negotiator?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Informed U.S. and Latin American diplomats expect Sol M. Linowitz, a liberal Democrat, to join the U.S. team negotiating a new Panama Canal treaty. President-elect Carter's appointment of Linowitz could touch off protests by hardliners in Congress who are against any wholesale revision of the controversial 1903 Canal Zone pact. Linowitz headed a commission that recommended last month that the new administration "promptly negotiate" a new treaty and declared the canal "no longer vital for U.S. commerce or defense."

Andrus Tells Philosophy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, selected by President-elect Carter to head the Interior Department, says he will push for natural resource development only if the environment is protected at the same time. Andrus' designation for the Cabinet post has been welcomed by such divergent spokesmen as the Sierra Club's Washington director and the president of the National Coal Association. Andrus was in Washington this week to meet with members of Congress and to prepare for his Senate confirmation hearings, due to begin Jan. 17.

Soares Urges Austerity

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal could become "a South American republic dependent on the United States" unless its people buy less and work harder, Premier Mario Soares said today. The Socialist government chief said in an interview with The Associated Press that the United States has a commitment to sustain democracy in his country, and he plans to go to Washington in February or March to see President Carter.

Chip Ready To Move In

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chip Carter has sold the old house trailer down in Georgia and is living in the big city waiting for the day he and his father move into the big white mansion on Pennsylvania Avenue. Chip, the son of President-elect Carter, will be working for his father after the Jan. 20 inauguration. But, says a Carter spokesman, he won't be on the government payroll. Ann Anderson, a staff worker for Mrs. Carter, said Thursday that Chip, 26, will be an "emissary" for his father, attending meetings and functions to which the President is invited but unable to attend.

Preserve The Vacancies

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — A lawyer for blacks and Mexican-Americans seeking jobs in the Saginaw Fire Department is trying to block the city from filling nine vacancies with whites. Attorney Philip Snelling said his clients should be given a chance to fill the posts. The lawyer said Thursday he will seek a temporary restraining order in federal court to preserve the vacancies. Snelling has a suit pending in federal court in Bay City claiming written tests given to Saginaw Fire Department applicants discriminate against minorities.

Special March Election

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Two state Senate seats vacated in the November U.S. Congressional elections will be filled in special elections March 23, with primary elections set for Feb. 23. The elections will fill the 14th District seat vacated by now-U.S. Rep. Carl D. Pursell and the 28th District seat formerly held by U.S. Rep. Dale E. Kildee. The last date for minor party caucuses or conventions is Jan. 17. Nominating petitions or filing fees must be filed by Jan. 25, and the last date for withdrawal is Jan. 28, the governor's office announced.

Husband, 15 Children Watch As Mother Gets MSU Diploma

DETROIT (AP) — There were 16 smiling faces in the audience when Marie Hanna walked up to receive her Michigan State University diploma recently.

One of them belonged to her husband, William. The others were their 15 children, ranging in age from 10 to 23.

It was 4½ years ago when Mrs. Hanna — at the urging of administrators in the Detroit school where she worked as a teacher's aide — announced to her family she was enrolling full-time in college. Her goal: to become a full-fledged teacher.

Since then, her life has been a long parade of late-night studying, toting kids to class, and even moving from her Detroit home to East Lansing for two summers so she could fulfill MSU's residence requirement.

Her three youngest children made the move with her, while William and the other 12 held down the fort at home.

"I was proud of them all," Mrs. Hanna recalled. "They haven't always been angels, but they really rose to the occasion while I was in Lansing."

The family admits they really didn't think she'd stick it out. Just to egg her on, son Anthony — then 17 — enrolled in college the same time she did, and challenged her to a race toward graduation. On Dec. 4, Mrs. Hanna was awarded her bachelor's degree in elementary education. Anthony still has a year to go. "I even got better grades," Mrs. Hanna laughed. "But that's because at my age you appreciate education more; you work harder."

Mr. Hanna says he's glad his wife is done with school and ready to take on a teaching job. He missed her, he says, during the four years she was busy studying.

But Mrs. Hanna may have a surprise for him. "I'm ready to go on for my master's now, honey," she says.

Ford Making Final Pitch

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is making a final pitch for his energy programs, ranging from removal of price controls on fuels to stepped-up conservation measures. Ford was expected today to spell out what he views as the nation's unfinished energy business in a special message to Congress. A White House aide said the message would break no new ground, but would substantially be "an update" of Ford administration energy programs and recommendations. Ford's efforts to get his own energy program through the last Congress were unsuccessful. There is little possibility that a Democratic Congress waiting for Democratic President-elect Carter to take office on Jan. 20 will take any action on the proposals of an outgoing Republican President.

Heiress Attacked In Jamaica

New Canal Negotiator?

Andrus Tells Philosophy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, selected by President-elect Carter to head the Interior Department, says he will push for natural resource development only if the environment is protected at the same time. Andrus' designation for the Cabinet post has been welcomed by such divergent spokesmen as the Sierra Club's Washington director and the president of the National Coal Association. Andrus was in Washington this week to meet with members of Congress and to prepare for his Senate confirmation hearings, due to begin Jan. 17.

Soares Urges Austerity

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal could become "a South American republic dependent on the United States" unless its people buy less and work harder, Premier Mario Soares said today. The Socialist government chief said in an interview with The Associated Press that the United States has a commitment to sustain democracy in his country, and he plans to go to Washington in February or March to see President Carter.

Chip Ready To Move In

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chip Carter has sold the old house trailer down in Georgia and is living in the big city waiting for the day he and his father move into the big white mansion on Pennsylvania Avenue. Chip, the son of President-elect Carter, will be working for his father after the Jan. 20 inauguration. But, says a Carter spokesman, he won't be on the government payroll. Ann Anderson, a staff worker for Mrs. Carter, said Thursday that Chip, 26, will be an "ambassador" for his father, attending meetings and functions to which the President is invited but unable to attend.

Preserve The Vacancies

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — A lawyer for blacks and Mexican-Americans seeking jobs in the Saginaw Fire Department is trying to block the city from filling nine vacancies with whites. Attorney Philip Snelling said his clients should be given a chance to fill the posts. The lawyer said Thursday he will seek a temporary restraining order in federal court to preserve the vacancies. Snelling has a suit pending in federal court in Bay City claiming written tests given to Saginaw Fire Department applicants discriminate against minorities.

Special March Election

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Two state Senate seats vacated in the November U.S. Congressional elections will be filled in special elections March 23, with primary elections set for Feb. 23. The elections will fill the 14th District seat vacated by now-U.S. Rep. Carl D. Pursell and the 28th District seat formerly held by U.S. Rep. Dale E. Kildee. The last date for minor party caucuses or conventions is Jan. 17. Nominating petitions or filing fees must be filed by Jan. 25, and the last date for withdrawal is Jan. 28, the governor's office announced.

Husband, 15 Children Watch As Mother Gets MSU Diploma

DETROIT (AP) — There were 16 smiling faces in the audience when Marie Hanna walked up to receive her Michigan State University diploma recently.

One of them belonged to her husband, William. The others were their 15 children, ranging in age from 10 to 25.

It was 4½ years ago when Mrs. Hanna — at the urging of administrators in the Detroit school where she worked as a teacher's aide — announced to her family she was enrolling full-time in college. Her goal: to become a full-fledged teacher.

Since then, her life has been a long parade of late-night studying, toting kids to class, and even moving from her Detroit home to East Lansing for two summers so she could fulfill MSU's residence requirement.

Her three youngest children made the move with her, while William and the other 12 held down the fort at home.

"I was proud of them all," Mrs. Hanna recalled. "They haven't always been angels, but they really rose to the occasion while I was in Lansing."

The family admits they really didn't think she'd stick it out. Just to egg her on, son Anthony — then 17 — enrolled in college the same time she did, and challenged her to a race toward graduation.

On Dec. 4, Mrs. Hanna was awarded her bachelor's degree in elementary education. Anthony still has a year to go.

"I even got better grades," Mrs. Hanna laughed. "But that's because at my age you appreciate education more. You work harder."

Mr. Hanna says he's glad his wife is done with school and ready to take on a teaching job. He missed her, he says, during the four years she was busy studying.

But Mrs. Hanna may have a surprise for him.

"I'm ready to go on for my master's now, honey," she says.

MSU Eyes Cheap Cleanup

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Under pressure to clean up exhaust from its power plant, Michigan State University has told the federal government it will experiment with a relatively cheap way to meet standards. A proposed pilot project and the implementation of state action prompted the federal Environmental Protection Agency to take a wait-and-see stance after meeting with university officials. The EPA, calling MSU one of the biggest polluters in Michigan, has threatened to step into the case. The university says it doesn't have the money to solve the problem. At a meeting to brief the federal agency, MSU officials disclosed they will start a six-month pilot project in February to test a device for trapping harmful emissions from their power plant smoke stacks. Paul Nilsson, director of utility services for MSU, said EnviroSystems, a Roanoke, Va., firm, and the federal government will pay for the experiment.

Wharton Spurns Carter Post

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State University President Clifton Wharton Jr. has joined the ranks of those who have turned down job offers from the Carter administration. Wharton said he has declined offers to become assistant secretary of agriculture and for an unspecified post in the Defense Department. "While it is flattering to be considered by the Carter administration for assistant secretary of agriculture, I believe my current responsibilities ... offer a greater challenge and opportunity for continued public service," Wharton said. He said the agriculture post would have put him in charge of international affairs and commodity programs. The Defense Department position was turned down last week in a communication with defense secretary-designate Harold Brown, Wharton said.

Saginaw School Hearings Set

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Some $8 million in federal and state aid will be at stake at the March 7 opening of hearings into federal charges of racial discrimination in Saginaw schools. The hearings involve Department of Health, Education and Welfare allegations that the district is guilty of violating civil rights laws in assigning students and teachers to schools. Meanwhile, HEW has ruled the district can continue to apply for federal funds, reversing a previous ruling that barred fund-seeking until July 1. The Saginaw district receives about $6 million in federal and state money which could be lost if the district is found guilty and does not remedy the situation to HEW's satisfaction. School officials admit the system has racially identifiable schools, but contend they exist because of housing patterns, not school segregation policies. Of some 19,000 students, about 45 per cent are black, 44 per cent white, 10 per cent Spanish-American and 1 per cent Indians, officials said.

Held Under $100,000 Bond

TAYLOR, Mich. (AP) — A Taylor man has been charged with raping and slashing the throat of a resident of his apartment complex, while he was waiting trial for raping another woman in the same building. In the latest assault, George Peffer, 26, was held under $100,000 bond on four charges, including rape and attempted murder. He stood mute in Taylor Municipal Court. Deputy police chief Doyle Vaughn of Taylor said the latest victim awakened at 3 a.m. Thursday to find a man standing by her bed. He raped her and demanded money, she said. When the 26-year-old woman said she had none, he reportedly cut her throat with a knife and tried to smother her with a pillow. Acting on information from the victim, police said they arrested Peffer in his apartment nearby. Police said Peffer was a maintenance man at the complex last October when he allegedly attacked the first victim. He is slated to go on trial on a rape charge Jan. 31 in that assault.

Walkout Halts Classes

HOLTON, Mich. (AP) — Some 40 bus drivers, cooks, custodians and secretaries in the Holton School District have been ordered to return to their jobs next Monday or be fired. Supt. Mickey Noble said the workers, whose wildcat walkout has halted classes in this Muskegon County community, had been suspended without pay but were given the back-to-work order Wednesday. Noble said the walkout, which began Tuesday, is illegal since it is unauthorized by the workers' union. Officials of the Service Employees Union could not be reached for comment. Efforts to hold classes after the strike started resulted in absentee rates topping 90 per cent, Noble said. Nearly 85 per cent of the district's 1,118 pupils normally ride buses to school. The walkout came during disputes over bus maintenance and secretarial workloads.

Governor Appoints

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Horace D. Hodge of Bay City has been named to the state Assessor's Board, replacing Eugene D. Lloyd of Grand Rapids, who resigned. No Senate confirmation is required. Appointed to the Michigan Council on the Arts was Adam M. Donaldson of West Bloomfield. He replaces John P. Mayhew of Ann Arbor, who resigned. Donaldson must be confirmed by the Senate. Hodge, retired city manager and assessor for Bay City, will serve no specific term. Donaldson, business manager of Sheet Metal Workers Local 282, will fill a term expiring June 1. Both appointments were made by Gov. William Milliken.

Film On Convicted Slayer

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — The career of convicted cold killer John Norman Collins is going to be made into a PG-rated movie. The film, titled "Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep," will be shot on location around Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor beginning in March, according to Ira Silver, a furniture dealer and head of the group planning the movie. "The subject seems to appeal to today's average moviegoer, who is about 17 years old," Silver said. Collins, 28, is serving a life term in Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson for the 1969 strangling of Karen Sue Beaman of Grand Rapids, an 18-year-old freshman at Eastern Michigan University. She was the last of seven women to die during a two-year reign of terror around the Ypsilanti campus and at the nearby University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Collins, who attended EMU at the time, was not charged in any of the other six murders.

Release Protested

Philadelphia district attorney denied the request.

Two months later, Dr. George Buck wrote that the woman was "in good condition" and should be transferred to an out-patient facility.

The district attorney's office also denied that request and wrote that "due to the horrendous nature of the offense ... this office seriously questions the advisability of such a recommendation by hospital officials at this early date."

Joseph Murray, chief of the unit of the district attorney's office, said Thursday that although he was personally "outraged" by the present situation, the district attorney's office had no power to prevent Mrs. Ransom's release or to further prosecute her since she has been acquitted of the murder charge.

Doctors involved in the case have not been available for comment.

However, Dr. Anthony Dunfield, a spokesman for Byberry, said "We're concerned about doing what's ethically and legally proper. There are civil rights involved ... You can't lock up a healthy person forever and throw away the key."

PRO-TV: Jerry Lane Jurek, scheduled to die in Texas electric chair Jan. 19, said this week executions should be shown on television "so everyone will understand that the death penalty means." Jurek was convicted of murdering 9-year-old daughter of a deputy sheriff. He has been on death row since February 1974. (AP Wirephoto)

'NONSENSE': Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill said Thursday in Austin Tex., that he is against filming executions. He termed the proposal "utter nonsense" and said he would appeal a U.S. District judge's order to permit such acts of Texas State Prison. The judge signed the order Wednesday in Dallas. Three Oaks Brightening Its Streets

THREE OAKS — The village here is going to be a brighter place in which to live.

The Three Oaks village council last night voted to have Indiana & Michigan Electric Company install 24, 20,000 lumen bulbs in village street lights.

The new bulbs will provide twice the illumination as present bulbs at an additional cost of $2 per bulb per month, village officials said.

The village street lighting bill in 1976 was $9,550.

In other business, the council approved leasing to George Lozmack for one year the right-of-way along the railroad on village-owned property from Schwark road to the Lozmack property. Lozmack told village officials he needed the land for access to farm acreage.

The council also gave Raymond Thomas permission to split four vacant lots in the Sherwood addition of Three Oaks to give added land to other existing lots there.

The council accepted the retirement of Kenneth Myers from the village volunteer fire department. Myers, a veteran member and former chief of the department, told the council he is resigning for health reasons. No replacement was named.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Officers Arrest Eleven Juveniles

Eleven juveniles were arrested Thursday by Benton Harbor and Benton township police during separate investigations of what police termed a large number of burglaries. Benton Harbor police arrested eight juveniles and two adults. Det. Sgt. Sam Watson said more arrests are expected as investigation continues by the city department.

Watson said some of what he described as stolen property was seized, resulting in the arrest of a woman and young man on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property.

Booked at the Berrien county jail were Betty Sue Blackwell, 30, of 558 East Empire avenue, and Daniel Vaughn, 17, of 432 Foster avenue, both of Benton Harbor.

Watson said six of the eight juveniles, all boys who range in age from 14 to 16, were lodged at the Berrien Juvenile Home, Berrien Center. Two were turned over to the custody of their parents. All were to be petitioned to juvenile court on charges of breaking and entering.

Benton township detectives said two juvenile boys were taken into custody on charges of three breaking and enterings, two in November and one Wednesday.

The two, 15 and 16, were later released to the custody of their parents pending petitioning to juvenile court.

Detectives said the apprehensions followed investigation Wednesday into a burglary at Carrie's Thrift Shop, 2158 Red Arrow highway, Benton Heights. Police said a tape recorder, five rings and a necklace believed stolen from the shop are in police custody.

Police said $120 was reported stolen in one of the November break-ins, and nothing was reported stolen in the other.

In a separate case, detectives said a 15-year-old boy was to be petitioned to juvenile court on a charge of breaking and entering an auto Dec. 30. An allegedly stolen CB radio believed from the auto is in police custody. The boy was turned over to the custody of his parents.

Two cameras, valued at a total of more than $1,000, were reported stolen Thursday from the Donald C. Cook Nuclear plant, Bridgman, Berrien sheriff's deputies said.

The cameras were inside the plant, deputies said, and were owned by Seacell Multi-Media corporation, West Virginia. Deputies said the cameras were left inside the plant just prior to the Christmas holidays.

Thefts reported Thursday to Benton Harbor police were: —Cash amounting to $25 from an office at Laborers Local 819, 254 Colfax avenue.

—A calculator and jacket, all valued at $67, from the locker of Virgil Graham, 425 Territorial road, at Benton Harbor junior high school, 425 Broadway.

Benton township police said Carl Palmer, 18, Benton Harbor, was arrested early today on a charge of attempted breaking and entering a home at 133 North Fair avenue.

Police said they were called to

BOUND OVER

Mrs. Ford Must Face 2nd Charge

By JOHN FENNELL

Bentley Wyler
Mrs. Helen Ford, former director of Berrien County Action, Inc. (BCA), bound over to Circuit court earlier on one charge of obtaining over $100 under false pretenses, was bound over yesterday on a second charge.

The second charge, also stemming from a Berrien citizens' grand jury indictment, involves a $3,500 car loan from Inter-City bank of Benton Harbor Dec. 10, 1975.

Mrs. Ford was already bound over to Circuit court Dec. 17, 1976, on a charge of using false pretenses to obtain $5,000 in back wages from the BCA board by claiming BCA's winterization program funds could be used to pay the salary owed her. According to the charge, the funds could not be used to pay her back wages. The back wages resulted from a pay raise granted retroactively.

When District Judge Ronald J. Taylor bound Mrs. Ford over on the first charge, he took under advisement the second charge to allow Defense Attorney Benjamin Logan and Prosecutor John Smietanka to file briefs on a point of law in connection with the charge.

At issue was whether Taylor would amend the original charge handed down by the grand jury if he saw that another, similar charge appeared warranted. The prosecution argued that he could; the defense took the opposite opinion.

Taylor ruled that the original charge of using false pretenses to get the $3,500 car loan was "not cognizable by the court" and bound Mrs. Ford over on an amended charge.

The amended charge states that she did "with intent to defraud...claim that she intended to place a lien on 1973 Cadillac, through the dealer...Victor Greer, which was false, bogus or spurious."

Greer is owner of Greer's Used Car Sales, 708 Paw Paw avenue, Benton Harbor. He testified during the preliminary examination that she owed a $2,628 balance on the car, which was eventually paid by her husband on Jan. 2, 1976.

Mrs. Ford, who was fired as director of BCA by the board on July 12, remains free on a $2,000 bond. Formerly of Benton Harbor, she is now a resident of Chicago, according to court records.

Some Taxpayers

Get Early Start

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some taxpayers are getting an early chance to test their arithmetic skills on the new 1976 federal income tax forms that Congress hopes will be easier to comprehend than in previous years.

While the bulk of the forms are not expected to be in the mail until around Jan. 15, some taxpayers already have received the forms, in some cases as early as Christmas week.

SMC Board Votes Officers New Terms

DOWAGIAC — The Southwestern Michigan college board last night unanimously re-elected its present officers for another two years.

Continuing in their positions will be Dr. Fred L. Mathews, Dowagiac, board chairman; Dale Lyons, Dowagiac, vice chairman; Barbara Wood Hunkeler, Niles, secretary; and Albert C. Kairis, Edwardsburg, treasurer. Dr. Mathews and Mrs. Hunkeler have held their positions ever since SMC was established in 1964.

In other areas, the board promoted Wesley L. Muth, dean of continuing education, by giving him the additional title of assistant to the vice president for instruction and raising his salary by $500 to $25,000 a year.

The board also approved a pay hike for David C. Schultz, vice president for student services, from $24,500 to $26,500.

The board approved establishing a permanent scholarship at SMC in memory of Richmond Kingman, SMC history teacher for the past nine years who died Dec. 30 at the age of 46.

Dr. Mathews paid tribute to Kingman saying that Kingman's "love for teaching and dedication to helping individual students could not be better memorialized than by a permanent scholarship to annually help some individual student." A committee will be appointed to head a public fund drive with a minimum goal of $5,000.

The board approved a substantial revision in its building and site fund budget for 1976-77, nearly doubling projected expenditures from $74,700 to $146,510. The additional money will be spent for remodeling and equipment in the O'Leary and Zollar buildings. With the budget revision it was estimated a site fund balance of $609,521 will remain on June 30, 1977, at the close of the college's fiscal year.

The low bid of $5,534 from Lyon Metal Products Co., Aurora, Ill., was accepted to furnish physical education lockers in locker rooms in the Zollar building.

A bid of $1,200 from Behrke's

Paint and Floor Covering, Dowagiac, was accepted for carpeting the lounge area of the student commons. One lower bid did not meet specifications, according to the board.

Three grants totaling $179,241 from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare were formally accepted by the board. One is a basic educational opportunity grant, the others are for the college's nursing program.

The following gifts to SMC were accepted by the board: $2,000 from Harold and Lulu Amersdorfer; Dowagiac; $500 from Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Springsteen, Dowagiac; $300 each from Maurice Oppenheimer and Dr. and Mrs. William E. Spencer, all of Dowagiac; plus $100 each from Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Hess, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Woodhouse, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Weisman, all of Dowagiac, and from Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Kairis, Edwardsburg. The Sundstrand Corp., Dowagiac, donated two pieces of aviation equipment valued at $250.

Ruling Reversal

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 200 civil rights, women's and union groups are urging legislation to overturn the effect of a recent Supreme Court ruling that employers are not legally required to provide sick pay for pregnancy leaves.

The controversial Dec. 7 Supreme Court ruling held that companies do not violate sex discrimination laws if they fail to provide sick pay for pregnancy leaves but pay for time off for other disabilities.

MSU Eyes Cheap Cleanup

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Under pressure to clean up exhaust from its power plant, Michigan State University has told the federal government it will experiment with a relatively cheap way to meet standards. A proposed pilot project and the imminence of state action prompted the federal Environmental Protection Agency to take a wait-and-see stance after meeting with university officials. The EPA, calling MSU one of the biggest polluters in Michigan, has threatened to step into the case. The university says it doesn't have the money to solve the problem. At a meeting to brief the federal agency, MSU officials disclosed they will start a six-month pilot project in February to test a device for trapping harmful emissions from their power plant smoke stacks. Paul Nilsson, director of utility services for MSU, said Envirosystems, a Roanoke, Va., firm, and the federal government will pay for the experiment.

Wharton Spurns Carter Post

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State University President Clifton Wharton Jr. has joined the ranks of those who have turned down job offers from the Carter administration. Wharton said he has declined offers to become assistant secretary of agriculture and for an unspecified post in the Defense Department. "While it is flattering to be considered by the Carter administration for assistant secretary of agriculture, I believe my current responsibilities ... offer a greater challenge and opportunity for continued public service," Wharton said. He said the agriculture post would have put him in charge of international affairs and commodity programs. The Defense Department position was turned down last week in a communication with defense secretary-designate Harold Brown, Wharton said.

Saginaw School Hearings Set

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Some $6 million in federal and state aid will be at stake at the March 7 opening of hearings into federal charges of racial discrimination in Saginaw schools. The hearings involve Department of Health, Education and Welfare allegations that the district is guilty of violating civil rights laws in assigning students and teachers to schools. Meanwhile, HEW has ruled the district can continue to apply for federal funds, reversing a previous ruling that barred fund-seeking until July 1. The Saginaw district receives about $6 million in federal and state money which could be lost if the district is found guilty and does not remedy the situation to HEW's satisfaction. School officials admit the system has racially identifiable schools, but contend they exist because of housing patterns, not school segregation policies. Of some 19,000 students, about 45 per cent are black, 44 per cent white, 10 per cent Spanish-American and 1 per cent Indians, officials said.

Held Under $100,000 Bond

TAYLOR, Mich. (AP) — A Taylor man has been charged with raping and slashing the throat of a resident of his apartment complex, while he was awaiting trial for raping another woman in the same building. In the latest assault, George Pepper, 26, was held under $100,000 bond on four charges, including rape and attempted murder. He stood mute in Taylor Municipal Court. Deputy police chief Doyle Vaughn of Taylor said the latest victim awakened at 3 a.m. Thursday to find a man standing by her bed. He raped her and demanded money, she said. When the 26-year-old woman said she had none, he reportedly cut her throat with a knife and tried to smother her with a pillow. Acting on information from the victim, police said they arrested Pepper in his apartment nearby. Police said Pepper was a maintenance man at the complex last October when he allegedly attacked the first victim. He is slated to go on trial on a rape charge Jan. 31 in that assault.

Walkout Halts Classes

HOLTON, Mich. (AP) — Some 40 bus drivers, cooks, custodians and secretaries in the Holton School District have been ordered to return to their jobs next Monday or be fired. Supt. Mickey Noble said the workers, whose wildcat walkout has halted classes in this Muskegon County community, had been suspended without pay but were given the back-to-work order Wednesday. Noble said the walkout, which began Tuesday, is illegal since it is unauthorized by the workers' union. Officials of the Service Employees Union could not be reached for comment. Efforts to hold classes after the strike started resulted in absentee rates topping 60 per cent, Noble said. Nearly 85 per cent of the district's 1,119 pupils normally ride buses to school. The walkout came during disputes over bus maintenance and secretarial workloads.

Governor Appoints

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Horace D. Hodge of Bay City has been named to the state Assessor's Board, replacing Eugene D. Lloyd of Grand Rapids, who resigned. No Senate confirmation is required. Appointed to the Michigan Council on the Arts was Adam M. Donaldson of West Bloomfield. He replaces John F. Mayhew of Ann Arbor, who resigned. Donaldson must be confirmed by the Senate. Hodge, retired city manager and assessor for Bay City, will serve no specific term. Donaldson, business manager of Sheet Metal Workers Local 292, will fill a term expiring June 1. Both appointments were made by Gov. William Milliken.

Film On Convicted Slayer

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — The career of convicted coed killer John Norman Collins is going to be made into a PG-rated movie. The film, titled "Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep," will be shot on location around Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor beginning in March, according to Ira Silver, a furniture dealer and head of the group planning the movie. "The subject seems to appeal to today's average moviegoer, who is about 17 years old," Silver said. Collins, 28, is serving a life term in Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson for the 1968 strangling of Karen Sue Benamman of Grand Rapids, an 18-year-old freshman at Eastern Michigan University. She was the last of seven women to die during a two-year reign of terror around the Ypsilanti campus and at the nearby University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Collins, who attended EMU at the time, was not charged in any of the other six murders.

Philadelphia district attorney denied the request.

Two months later, Dr. George Buck wrote that the woman was "in good condition" and should be transferred to an out-patient facility.

The district attorney's office also denied that request and wrote that "due to the horrendous nature of the offense ... this office seriously questions the advisability of such a recommendation by hospital officials at this early date."

Joseph Murray, chief of the unit of the district attorney's office, said Thursday that although he was personally "outraged" by the present situation, the district attorney's office had no power to prevent Mrs. Ransom's release or to further prosecute her since she has been acquitted of the murder charge.

Doctors involved in the case have not been available for comment.

However, Dr. Anthony Dunfield, a spokesman for Byberry, said "We're concerned about doing what's ethically and legally proper. There are civil rights involved ... You can't lock up a healthy person forever and throw away the key."

PRO-TV: Jerry Lane Jurek, scheduled to die in Texas electric chair Jan. 19, said this week executions should be shown on television "so everyone will understand what the death penalty means." Jurek was convicted of murdering 9-year-old daughter of a deputy sheriff. He has been on death row since February 1974. (AP Wirephoto)

'NONSENSE': Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill said Thursday in Austin Tex., that he is against filming executions. He termed the proposal "utter nonsense" and said he would appeal a U.S. District judge's order to permit such acts at Texas State Prison. The judge signed the order Wednesday in Dallas. Three Oaks Brightening Its Streets

THREE OAKS — The village here is going to be a brighter place in which to live.

The Three Oaks village council last night voted to have Indiana & Michigan Electric Company install 24, 20,000 lumen bulbs in village street lights.

The new bulbs will provide twice the illumination as present bulbs at an additional cost of $2 per bulb per month, village officials said.

The village street lighting bill in 1976 was $9,559.

In other business, the council approved leasing to George Lozmack for one year the right-of-way along the railroad on village-owned property from Schwark road to the Lozmack property. Lozmack told village officials he needed the land for access to farm acreage.

The council also gave Raymond Thomas permission to split four vacant lots in the Sherwood addition of Three Oaks to give added land to other existing lots there.

The council accepted the retirement of Kenneth Myers from the village volunteer fire department. Myers, a veteran member and former chief of the department, told the council he is resigning for health reasons. No replacement was named.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Officers Arrest Eleven Juveniles

Eleven juveniles were arrested Thursday by Benton Harbor and Benton township police during separate investigations of what police termed a large number of burglaries. Benton Harbor police arrested eight juveniles and two adults. Det. Sgt. Sam Watson said more arrests are expected as investigation continues by the city department.

Watson said some of what he described as stolen property was seized, resulting in the arrest of a woman and young man on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property.

Booked at the Berrien county jail were Betty Sue Blackwell, 30, of 559 East Empire avenue, and Daniel Vaughn, 17, of 432 Foster avenue, both of Benton Harbor.

Watson said six of the eight juveniles, all boys who range in age from 14 to 16, were lodged at the Berrien Juvenile Home, Berrien Center. Two were turned over to the custody of their parents. All were to be petitioned to juvenile court on charges of breaking and entering.

Benton township detectives said two juvenile boys were taken into custody on charges of three breaking and enterings, two in November and one Wednesday.

The two, 15 and 16, were later released to the custody of their parents pending petitioning to juvenile court.

Detectives said the apprehensions followed investigation Wednesday into a burglary at Carrie's Thrift Shop, 2158 Red Arrow highway, Benton Heights. Police said a tape recorder, five rings and a necklace believed stolen from the shop are in police custody.

Police said $120 was reported stolen in one of the November break-ins, and nothing was reported stolen in the other.

In a separate case, detectives said a 15-year-old boy was to be petitioned to juvenile court on a charge of breaking and entering an auto Dec. 30. An allegedly stolen CB radio believed from the auto is in police custody. The boy was turned over to the custody of his parents.

Two cameras, valued at a total of more than $1,000, were reported stolen Thursday from the Donald C. Cook Nuclear plant, Bridgman, Berrien sheriff's deputies said.

The cameras were inside the plant, deputies said, and were owned by Seaell Multi-Media corporation, West Virginia. Deputies said the cameras were left inside the plant just prior to the Christmas holidays.

Thefts reported Thursday to Benton Harbor police were:

—Cash amounting to $25 from an office at Laborers Local 819, 254 Colfax avenue.

—A calculator and jacket, all valued at $67, from the locker of Virgil Graham, 425 Territorial road, at Benton Harbor junior high school, 423 Broadway.

Benton township police said Carl Palmer, 18, Benton Harbor, was arrested early today on a charge of attempted breaking and entering a home at 133 North Fair avenue.

Police said they were called to

ANGERED: Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., told Arizona Republic in Phoenix that he was angered at being left out of the Wednesday meeting at the White House when top Republicans met to discuss party leadership. Goldwater added that he will stop raising money for the party. (AP Wirephoto)

BOUND OVER

Mrs. Ford Must Face 2nd Charge

By JOHN FENNELL
Staff Writer

Mrs. Helen Ford, former director of Berrien County Action, Inc. (BCA), bound over to Circuit court earlier on one charge of obtaining over $100 under false pretenses, was bound over yesterday on a second charge.

The second charge, also stemming from a Berrien citizens' grand jury indictment, involves a $3,500 car loan from Inter-City bank of Benton Harbor Dec. 10, 1975.

Mrs. Ford was already bound over to Circuit court Dec. 17, 1976, on a charge of using false pretenses to obtain $5,900 in back wages from the BCA board by claiming BCA's winterization program funds could be used to pay the salary owed her. According to the charge, the funds could not be used to pay her back wages. The back wages resulted from a pay raise granted retroactively.

When District Judge Ronald J. Taylor bound Mrs. Ford over on the first charge, he took under advisement the second charge to allow Defense Attorney Benjamin Logan and Prosecutor John Smietanka to file briefs on a point of law in connection with the charge.

At issue was whether Taylor would amend the original charge handed down by the grand jury if he saw that another, similar charge appeared warranted. The prosecution argued that he could; the defense took the opposite opinion.

Taylor ruled that the original charge of using false pretenses to get the $3,500 car loan was "not cognizable by the court" and bound Mrs. Ford over on an amended charge.

The amended charge states that she did "with intent to defraud...claim that she intended to place a lien on 1973 Cadillac, through the dealer...Victor Greer, which was false, bogus or spurious..."

Greer is owner of Greer's Used Car Sales, 768 Paw Paw avenue, Benton Harbor. He testified during the preliminary examination that she owed a $2,618 balance on the car, which was eventually paid by her husband on Jan. 2, 1976.

Mrs. Ford, who was fired as director of BCA by the board on July 12, remains free on a $2,000 bond. Formerly of Benton Harbor, she is now a resident of Chicago, according to court records.

Some Taxpayers

Get Early Start

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some taxpayers are getting an early chance to test their arithmetic skills on the new 1940 federal income tax forms that Congress hopes will be easier to comprehend than in previous years.

While the bulk of the forms are not expected to be in the mail until around Jan. 15, some taxpayers already have received the forms, in some cases as early as Christmas week.

South Haven Township Eyes Sewer Vote

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — South Haven township residents within a proposed area sanitary sewer system will probably get an opportunity to express their opinions at the ballot box before the township board makes a decision. A majority of the residents attending a public hearing last night on the proposed $6.5 million area collection and treatment system said they believed the board should decide on the basis of an advisory vote of the affected property owners. The vote would be on whether the board should join in the proposed treatment/collection system.

The hearing was the last of three scheduled this week for the proposed system that would service all of the city of South Haven and parts of Casco and South Haven townships. "The township board has always abided by the will of the people and if you want an advisory vote on this we will give you one," said Supervisor James Schnake.

Schnake said after the hearing that an informal, non-binding election would probably be scheduled sometime soon. Since the results would be advisory Schnake said he didn't believe it would be necessary to go through the procedure of getting county approval of a date as well as following other legal requirements. The election would involve only those property owners within the proposed sewer district. Approximately one-third of the land in South Haven township, but more than half of the population, would be included in the proposed project area.

The tentative project area in South Haven township would be bounded by Lake Michigan to the west, the Black river to the north and 20th avenue to the south. The eastern boundary is jagged, but would be primarily bounded by 71½ and 72nd streets between the northern border and 16th avenue and by Interstate 196 from 16th to 20th avenues.

A majority of the residents attending last night's hearing (32 to 11) indicated they favored the project during a show of hands. However, 31 of those expressing an opinion said the matter should be placed to an advisory vote.

Each of the engineer's reports at this week's hearings has concluded that the most economical way for the governmental units to solve their wastewater treatment problems is to connect to the existing city system.

Several residents last night indicated they felt the township should have representation on any board that might establish usage rates. A large portion of the nearly three-hour meeting was consumed in discussion on the necessity for a collection system in the township.

Schnake offered a letter from Leslie C. Brown, director of environmental health for the Van Buren health department, who encouraged construction of the system.

Brown indicated that a combination of heavy soils and areas of seasonal high ground water in the township makes the disposal of waste through private on-site systems nearly impossible. He noted that one restaurant in South Haven township is already hauling its sewage by truck to the city disposal plant.

"Several businesses have indicated an interest in locating in South Haven township, but because of soil and water problems will be faced with a pump and haul operation," reported Brown. "Any orderly subdivision development for residential use is impossible at this time without an available sewage collection and treatment system."

Some residents expressed concern over having to connect to the new system if their existing septic tank is functioning properly. Schnake said that it would be mandatory to hook into the system because total participation is necessary to make the project financially feasible.

Officials estimated that a residential tap-in will cost an initial $1,000 and that the monthly charge will be about $12.

Each of the governmental units should make a decision on their participation in the proposed plan within 30 days, according to officials. Final specifications must be ready this fall in order to qualify for the up to 80 per cent federal and state funding.

CASS MEDICAL CARE FACILITY: Construction of Cass county's $2,575,000 new medical care facility is running three to four months ahead of schedule, according to Don Wagner, project superintendent of

acre tract off Hospital street immediately east of present facility near Diamond lake, just southwest of Cassopolis. Facility will have 76 beds which may be expanded later to 100 beds. Medical care facility con-

Whether you love winter sports or are yearning for the return of the summer camping season, you should find much to your liking on Michigan's weekend calendar of events, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

The Royal Valley Ski Area near Buchanan is hosting a Winter Carnival starting at 10 a.m. Saturday and Sunday. Among the highlights will be in-tube racing, costume judging, a torchlight display and slalom races.

Snowmobilers will participate in the day-long Cadillac-Cadillac Sno-fari beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday (Jan. 8). Participants will travel on some 300 miles of snowmobile trails through beautiful Manistee National Forest. Lunch will be served on the trail, followed by dinner and the Snowmobilers' Ball Saturday evening at the Caberfae Ski Resort.

The Cheboygan 250 Snowmobile Race starts at 8 a.m. Saturday at the Cheboygan County Fairgrounds in Cheboygan, and another exciting race — the Mason County 100-Mile Snowmobile Race — starts at noon Sunday at the Whiskey Creek Recreation Area northeast of Hart.

More winter sports fun is on tap at Houghton Lake, where the Great Lakes Dog Sled Races will be run starting at 11 a.m. Saturday and at 9:30 a.m. Sunday. The race is at the Grand Prix Track.

Although ice hockey can be played outdoors, the SPARTAN match between the 1976 USSR National Champions and a talented Team Michigan will move inside Olympia Stadium in Detroit today at 7 p.m. Team Michigan will consist of players from the Detroit Junior Wings and other clubs in the Great Lakes Junior Hockey League. The match is part of an eight-game tour for SPARTAN.

Two other events involving ice are scheduled this weekends at Saginaw. Sixteen of America's top motorcycle racers will compete in an Invitational Championship Indoor Ice Race at Saginaw Civic Center Arena this evening at 8 p.m. Speedskaters will compete in the Saginaw Diamond Derby Open Sunday at 10 a.m. at the Hoyt Park Field House in Saginaw.

If you'd rather dream of warm-weather outdoor fun, attend the Lansing Camper and Travel Trailer Show at the Lansing Civic Center or the Boat-Camper-Sports Spectacular '77 at Pontiac's Silverdome.

The Lansing show runs today and Saturday from noon to 10 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 6 p.m. The Silverdome show starts Saturday and runs through Jan. 16. Hours are noon to 10:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday and 3 to 10:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Both offer opportunities to see the latest in campers and travel trailers, camping gear, sports equipment and marine equipment. The Silverdome show also is highlighted by a shark display.

Custom car buffs should enjoy the Autorama Hot Rod Show through Sunday at Detroit's Cobo Hall. Hours are noon to 11 p.m. The show features 400 custom stock cars, vans, racing cars, antique models and automotive products displays.

Fans of the '60s will be able to see "Grease," the hit musical about the early rockers, which is playing at the Fisher Theatre now through Jan. 16. Today's popular TV character, the Fonzy, is a spinoff of the main male character in "Grease." Showtime is 8 p.m. today, 2 and 8 p.m. Saturday and 2 and 7 p.m. Sunday.

Condominiums Win Nod In South Haven

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — A proposed $1.8 million condominium project on South Haven's north side received the green light from city council last night as aldermen approved changing the zoning classification for the three-acre tract.

Council action followed a public hearing on a request by The Harbours, Ltd. to rezone property which formerly housed the Mendelson's Atlantic resort on Avery street from resort-waterfront business to a planned development district.

The three-phase project will consist of 47 condominiums along with a swimming pool, other recreation facilities and small retail shops.

Demolition of some buildings on the property has already started. The developer said he plans to have 18 condominiums ready for occupancy this summer and the entire project completed within 18 months.

The units will be constructed for year-round living, though the developer predicted that as many as 75 per cent will be occupied only during the summer months.

The units, estimated to cost $30,000 to $40,000, will each have a view of Lake Michigan.

There will be eight one-bedroom units, 33 with two bedrooms and six with three bedrooms.

Eventually the development will include a restaurant at the corner of North Shore drive and Avery. Jay C. DeBruyn, one of the partners in the endeavor, said the partnership has ownership of the liquor license from the resort.

No objections were raised to the project from the public.

South Haven Township Eyes Sewer Vote

South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — South Haven township residents within a proposed area sanitary sewer system will probably get an opportunity to express their opinions at the ballot box before the township board makes a decision. A majority of the residents attending a public hearing last night on the proposed $6.5 million area collection and treatment system said they believed the board should decide on the basis of an advisory vote of the affected property owners. The vote would be on whether the board should join in the proposed treatment/collection system.

The hearing was the last of three scheduled this week for the proposed system that would service all of the city of South Haven and parts of Casco and South Haven townships. "The township board has always abided by the will of the people and if you want an advisory vote on this we will give you one," said Supervisor James Schnake.

Schnake said after the hearing that an informal, non-binding election would probably be scheduled sometime soon. Since the results would be advisory Schnake said he didn't believe it would be necessary to go through the procedure of getting county approval of a date as well as following other legal requirements. The election would involve only those property owners within the proposed sewer district. Approximately one-third of the land in South Haven township, but more than half of the population, would be included in the proposed project area.

The tentative project area in South Haven township would be bounded by Lake Michigan to the west, the Black river to the north and 20th avenue to the south. The eastern boundary is jagged, but would be primarily bounded by 71½ and 72nd streets between the northern border and 16th avenue and by Interstate 196 from 16th to 20th avenues.

A majority of the residents attending last night's hearing (32 to 11) indicated they favored the project during a show of hands. However, 31 of those expressing an opinion said the matter should be placed to an advisory vote.

Each of the engineer's reports at this week's hearings has concluded that the most economical way for the governmental units to solve their wastewater treatment problems is to connect to the existing city system.

Several residents last night indicated they felt the township should have representation on any board that might establish usage rates. A large portion of the nearly three-hour meeting was consumed in discussion on the necessity for a collection system in the township.

Schnake offered a letter from Leslie C. Brown, director of environmental health for the Van Buren health department, who encouraged construction of the system.

Brown indicated that a combination of heavy soils and areas of seasonal high ground water in the township makes the disposal of waste through private on-site systems nearly impossible. He noted that one restaurant in South Haven township is already hauling its sewage by truck to the city disposal plant.

"Several businesses have indicated an interest in locating in South Haven township, but because of soil and water problems will be faced with a pump and haul operation," reported Brown. "Any orderly subdivision development for residential use is impossible at this time without an available sewage collection and treatment system."

Some residents expressed concern over having to connect to the new system if their existing septic tank is functioning properly. Schnake said that it would be mandatory to hook into the system because total participation is necessary to make the project financially feasible.

Officials estimated that a residential tap-in will cost an initial $1,000 and that the monthly charge will be about $12.

Each of the governmental units should make a decision on their participation in the proposed plan within 30 days, according to officials. Final specifications must be ready this fall in order to qualify for the up to 80 per cent federal and state funding.

CASS MEDICAL CARE FACILITY: Construction of Cass county's $2,575,000 new medical care facility is running three to four months ahead of schedule, according to Don Wagner, project superintendent of

acre tract off Hospital street immediately east of present facility near Diamond lake, just southwest of Cassopolis. Facility will have 76 beds which may be expanded later to 100 beds. Medical care facility con-

Housing Code Officer Hired

SOUTH HAVEN — The appointment of Bobby Joe Heavin as the new code enforcement officer for the city of South Haven effective Jan. 17 was announced yesterday by City Manager Paul Sharon.

Heavin, 34, will assume the responsibilities of Donald Zordel who will devote his time to coordinating the housing rehabilitation and code enforcement sections of a community development block grant recently awarded the city by the federal government.

The appointment comes on the heels of public criticism earlier this week during a city council meeting of laxity by the city toward code enforcement. At the time Sharon said he was close to announcing a change in responsibility for Zordel and the appointment of a new enforcement officer.

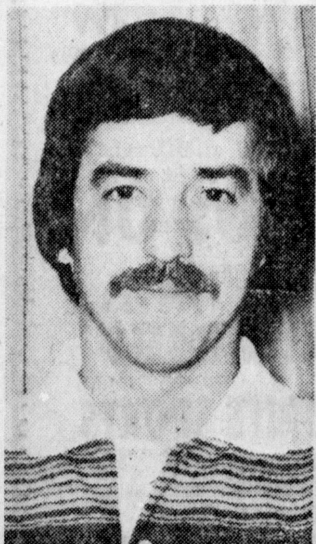

"I believe that Mr. Heavin has the tools to do the (code enforcement) job," said Sharon in making the announcement.

"It is important to the vitality of the community that we take pride in our community as a whole and not allow any part of the city to become blighted, encouraging and assisting private maintenance and improvement of property and coming down hard, if necessary, on reluctant owners of deteriorating rental properties."

A Vietnam war veteran, Heavin has lived in South Haven since he was four. He is a 1962 graduate of South Haven high school and attended Davenport and Ferris State colleges.

He previously was employed by the Michigan Gas Utilities company.

Heavin and his wife Nancy reside at 218 Michigan avenue.

Van Buren Sheriff Vote Results Stick

PAW PAW — A recount of votes from the Nov. 2 balloting for Van Buren county sheriff reduced the margin of the winner by three votes, but did not change the outcome.

The recount showed that Republican incumbent Richard Stump outpolled his Democratic opponent James McCaw by 570 votes, 11,678 to 11,108.

Preliminary returns from election night had the margin at 573, with Stump getting 11,674 to McCaw's, 11,101.

McCaw had requested the recount following the preliminary tabulations.

Clerk Charles MacDonald said there were two to three vote changes in several townships, but no major variations.

Chikaming Okays Plans For Lakeside Subdivision

LAKESIDE — The Chikaming township board last night gave preliminary approval to a proposed subdivision plat that is part of the Swift estates at Lakeside.

Approved were preliminary street, sewer and water plans for the proposed 11 building sites on the 25-acre parcel, according to Township Clerk Lena Abrahamson.

The proposed subdivision is being developed by the Swift Corp. of Chicago, with local planning being handled by Wightman & Associates of St. Joseph.

In other action, the board voted to form a five-member public safety commission for liaison between the township board and the township's fire and police departments.

Mrs. Abrahamson said the members to the commission will be appointed at the board's Feb. 3 meeting. The commission will have little authority, she said. It was created to improve communications.

Also last night, the board reappointed Otto Komarek and Richard Rieth, and appointed Herbert Seeder, to the board of review, all for two-year terms.

The board accepted the resignation of Andrew Bultas from the zoning board of appeals and set appointment of a replacement for next month. Bultas has moved out of the township to New Buffalo, the clerk said.

The board also voted its approval of the transfer of a liquor license from Joe and Gerda Denkovich to Richard and Kathy Loyd, for the Blue Chip lounge on Red Arrow highway in Harbert.

It was also announced that Supervisor Donald Peterson has been named a voting member on the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission, representing the Berrien county chapter of the Michigan Townships' association.

DIRECTOR: Judith Hack of Bridgman has been named director of dietetics for St. Mary Medical center which has hospitals in two Indiana cities, Gary and Hobart. Native Chikaming has degrees from Clark college, Dubuque, Iowa, and Purdue university.

Jesse Jackson To Speak Here

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, head of the Chicago-based Operation PUSH, will speak at Lake Michigan college Feb. 12 at 8 p.m. during Black History week at the college. His appearance will be sponsored by the Delta Phi Si sorority, according to Mrs. Katherine Turner, one of the sorority's sponsors.

Tickets are $5.50 for dinner at 6 p.m. in the student union and Jackson's talk in the gymnasium. Tickets for the speech alone are $2.50, she said. Tickets can be purchased at the college from Mrs. Turner in the community services office, Festus Valentine, another sponsor and a counselor, or any sorority member.

Black History week, a national activity, is sponsored by the sorority on the LMC campus. Jackson's fee for speaking will be $2,000, which he will reportedly put back into Operation PUSH.

Super Spending Makes Super Bowl Big Business

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — It may only be a game, but Super Bowl XI is serious business off the field — $165 million worth, promoters say.

The trappings of the Minnesota-Oakland pro football championship, the basketball, the cocktail parties, the endless string of press conferences, are straight out of Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey.

The most impressive numbers are neither the passing statistics of Raiders quarterback Ken Stabler nor the rushing totals of Vikings running back Chuck Foreman.

The big statistics are people and dollars.

"We estimate a total economic impact — using a multiplier of five — of between $68 million and $165 million," said Chris Hills, an official with the Los Angeles Convention and Visitors Bureau.

More than 100,000 fans are expected for the game at the Rose Bowl.

About 75 million more — from Japan to Turkey — will watch on television.

"It's Super Bowl fever at its highest pitch," said Hills.

The NFL is throwing a $75,000 cocktail party. It is paying $112,000 in rent for the Rose Bowl. The cost of incidentals such as plane tickets and lodging for the teams and players' shares, run the total to some $2.5 million in expenses.

Not to be outdone, the National Broadcasting Co., which will televise the game, is throwing a breakfast for 1,000 — featuring 10 varieties of omelettes. The tab may hit $75,000.

A Japanese firm is flying in 120 of its executives from Tokyo for the game.

An American company, unable to find suitable lodging for its officials in Los Angeles, is billeting them in Las Vegas and flying them in for the game.

While corporate budgets are on house rein for the Super Bowl, there also are plenty of free-lance high rollers in town for the game.

A wealthy football fan from the Midwest, spending "Super Week" in a plush Los Angeles hotel, is keeping a limousine on 24-hour call in case he gets word of a lively Super Bowl party still going apace on 24-hour call in case he gets word of a lively Super Bowl party still going at 4 a.m.

In this case, "Super Week" was kicked off by another game — the Rose Bowl.

The super spending is providing the Los Angeles area a veritable bonanza.

All major hotels in Los Angeles are booked for the weekend. The luxurious new Bonaventure, 15 miles from the stadium, has been sold out for Super Bowl weekend for a year.

Secondary Battles Expected Sunday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Super Bowl XI will be as much a territorial battle in the secondary as it is in the face-to-face pit of the scrimmage line.

"When I'm out there, I feel that the field is mine," says Minnesota wide receiver Ahmad Rashad.

"My job is a positive one, to catch a football. The other guy's is a negative one, to keep me from catching it," says Oakland wide receiver Cliff Branch.

"When someone catches a pass in my area, it is an embarrassment to me. And I do not like to be embarrassed," said Minnesota cornerback Nate Wright.

"If I can make the man I'm covering think about me for just an instant and break his concentration, half the battle is won," says Oakland safety

George Atkinson.

It is, to understate the matter, going to be one heck of a battle out there on Sunday in the fly patterns, the crossing routes, the zone seams of Super Bowl XI.

When the quarterbacks — Fran Tarkenton of the Vikings and Ken Stabler of the Raiders — stop their "hut-hut" chatter at the line and the ball is snapped, the taunting begins in those far-away regions where receivers and defenders try to outguess, outpace and outrun each other.

"Oh, yeah, there's an awful lot of talk going on out there," says Branch, an All-Pro wide receiver rated as Oakland's big-play man. "The defensive backs are trying to intimidate you, to get inside your head."

"If they can do that, they can make you lose your route or break stride or miss a step or look his way or something. I can remember hearing guys shouting things like, 'You better not turn your back on me or you're gonna get hurt,' or 'Here I come, baby!'"

"Fortunately for Branch, he has roomed for the past several years with Atkinson, the master of intimidation, and has learned the art of the counterattack.

"The best thing you can do, except maybe for ignoring the guy altogether, is to give it back to him, to try to get inside his head and mess him up," Branch says.

"For example, if a guy's been giving it to me about how he's gonna get to me, I might yell back, 'Don't you blink, man, or I'm by you. I'm in the end zone. I'm gone.'"

Atkinson is nothing like the cutthroat, the intense, angry, man he is pictured as being. He may seem to have that killer instinct on the field — "let's just say I'm very aggressive" — but off it he is extraordinarily easygoing. He has an infectious laugh and a perpetual twinkle in eyes sitting behind violet-colored glasses. "I'm a very compassionate fellow."

And what is it that Atkinson says to the enemy receivers which has them quaking in their sneakers and sneaking looks behind them as they charge onto his turf?

"Oh, I ask them about the best disco in town," he laughs. He says he can look into a man's eyes at the start of the game, sometimes even before the start, and get an indication whether intimidation will work. "If I think it will, I start talking to him right away," Atkinson says. And if it doesn't seem to be working? "Then I'll keep talking to him — but up real close."

Rashad doesn't sound like the type to give ground just because the other guy's talking up a storm. "Atkinson is a good friend of mine," says the Vikings' pass catcher. "I know him off the field. He plays a rough style. But let's face it, football is rough. You can't let it get to you. I look forward to a nice, rough, tough game."

Sammy White, the Vikings' other star wide receiver, looks forward to "a pretty good day if I'm able to go one-on-one with anybody. I'm not worried about any of their guys giving me a cheap shot. We can't worry about these things."

Oakland's No. 1 receiver this year was tight end Dave Casper. He doesn't seem to be part of the high-powered talking crew.

"Now, I don't listen to them, I don't talk back to them. I just go out there and try to catch passes off them," he says. "The only other thing I might do out there, when they're chattering away, is maybe laugh at them...at what they're saying, that is."

Michigan Routs Wildcats Chalk Up 102-65 Win In Big Ten Opener

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Coach Johnny Orr's been a coach of nerves lately, but there was sure no need for nerving Thursday night at Crisler Arena.

Orr's fifth-ranked Michigan Wolverines, home for the first time in two weeks, ran and stole their way to an easy 102-65 victory over Northwestern in the Big Ten basketball opener for both teams.

Technically, the Wolverines came from behind to win it — Billy McKinney's bucket for Northwestern opened the scoring. That was the last time the Wildcats led.

The Wolverines rolled to a 18-point lead, 27-11, eight minutes into the game and refused to let up. Michigan's fleet-footed offense caught the Wildcats flat-footed and its ballhawking defense (11 steals) further frustrated them.

Six Michigan players scored in double figures, topped by Rickie Green's 20 points and Johnny Robinson's 18. Green also did a good job guarding McKinney, who would up Northwestern's high scorer with 16 points — five below his average.

Phil Hubbard had 15 points and 12 rebounds for the Maize and Blue, who raised their record to 8-1. Joel Thompson added 13 points, including three baskets on dunks, while Steve Grote and Dave Baxter tallied 11 points each.

Tony Allen and freshman Mike Campbell scored 12 points apiece for the Wildcats, who fell to a 2-4 record.

"It was the opening Big Ten game, and that's why, we were hepped up," Orr said. "We were still unhepped we'd have been hepped up, too."

Michigan was ranked No. 1 in the nation until losing 62-81 last week to Providence in double-overtime of the Providence Classic tournament.

Orr said that loss took some of the pressure off, but said he's been "a different individual" since the Wolverines have become a national powerhouse.

"Sometimes I get on the kids more than I should, I guess," he said. "I'm quick tempered. I get mad at myself for being that way at times... It's the pressure. I've been really nervous. I think I'm worse than I was and I fight against being that way."

Northwestern Coach Tex Winter should have been the nervous one.

"We got intimidated by their quickness and jumping ability," he said. "They took us out of our game pretty quick and we never regrouped."

Orr said his players "had some beautiful passes" and "ripped up" Northwestern's zone defense, forcing an equally ineffective man-to-man strategy. It was a zone defense that helped Providence edge Michigan. Orr said of the Wildcats, who have lost 14 consecutive games to Michigan dating to 1960.

Both teams play again Saturday, with Michigan hosting Wisconsin and Northwestern taking on Michigan State at East Lansing. The Spartans thumped Wisconsin, 84-81, at home Thursday night to lift their record to 4-4 and drop the Badgers to 4-5.

Wilson Helps Hot MSU Demolish Badgers, 84-61

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Wisconsin Coach Bill Coft called it "a baptism."

He was talking about the Badgers' 84-61 loss to Michigan State Thursday night in both teams' Big Ten basketball opener.

"We missed six shots from four feet in," Coft complained. "The intensity was just not there. We didn't have the same kind of spirit tonight that we did when we played against Spartans Coach Jud Heathcote has praise for his team's "lesser stars," including guard Terry Donnelly, who helped push MSU to an early 8-0 lead with an 18-foot jump shot following two of the same from junior guard Rob Chapman.

"Donnelly, (Jim) Coitre and (Edgar) Wilson all played well," Heathcote said.

Sophomore forward Greg Kelsier jumped in 20 points and Chapman added 18 to lead the Spartans to victory. Wilson, from Davenport, added 14.

Guinness was high for Wisconsin with 14 points.

Wisconsin's loss dropped its overall record to 4-5 while MSU is 4-4.

Wrestling Format In Class D Changed Again

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

If wrestling fans are looking for something that is always different...they should check out Class D wrestling.

Not the grapplers, although there are plenty of good ones around, but the way the state tournament is run.

In the smallest class, there has been a state championship for the past four years. And each year, the format has been different.

That and the fact another weight class has been added are major changes in wrestling in the state this season.

Last year, there was separate competition for individual and state championships in Class D. This season, it has been changed by the state to regional and state competition, similar to the format used by the other three classes.

The regionals for Class D will take place the same week as the districts for the other three classes, and the state meet will be on the same day as the A, B and C regionals.

Veteran Class D coach Jim Babcock of Covert likes the change in format. "I like this better than the team competition we had last year," he states.

"Lonny Lowery of the state office said that we would have to cut down...to either go to a team or individual competition. If we went with the team championship, it would limit it down."

According to Babcock, who started the wrestling program at Covert six years ago, the main complaint by the state was that they had to shell out money for dual medals and trophies last season.

But Babcock isn't that happy with the state and the way it handled the situation. "I'm very unhappy with the state management and other coaches are too," he says.

"Right now, I think each class ought to have its own ruling body. That way they are concerned with just their own class.

There is only one Class D coach currently on the wrestling board."

The big change which has hurt not only the Class D schools, but other smaller teams, is the addition of another weight class. Last season, there were 12 weight classes. But this year, the 191-pound class was added to try and get the smaller heavyweights away from the 200-pound-plus giants.

"I liked it the way it was before with 12 weight classes," says Babcock. "That 13 weights...it is really rough."

Bruce Bittenbender, head coach at Lakeshore, feels the same way. "At that weight, you don't have that many kids anymore," he says. "And you are in competition with basketball when you get up around that weight. I fought that change tooth and nail."

Bittenbender feels that it is more of a help to the bigger schools around the Detroit area who have huge enrollments to draw upon.

"As far as I'm concerned, for B, C and D, it makes it difficult to fill that class," he adds.

Babcock echoes that feeling. "We were at a tournament a few weeks ago at Paw Paw, and only Berrien Springs was able to field an entire team."

A team which isn't having trouble filling in many spots on the team is Brandywine. Coach Don Bailey has 11 seniors returning who wrestled for him last year.

And just to make matters better for the Bobcats, they dropped from Class B to Class C.

"I really don't know how we will do in Class C this season," Bailey ventures. "All the invitations we go to involve mainly Class A and B teams."

"We do have 11 seniors back this season, so we were going to be tough no matter what class we were in."

The Bobcats and Lakeshore seem to be perennial powers in the Blossomland. In the Niles' Invitational in December, Brandywine finished second to Class B Sturgis, while the Lancers were a close third.

The pair will be wrestling in the Southwest Michigan Invitational at Coldwater tomorrow. They also have a dual meet slated for Brandywine on Jan. 20.

Berrien Springs is hosting a tournament tomorrow, beginning at 10:30 a.m. with the preliminaries. Schools involved are the Shamrocks, Cassopolis, Constantine, Covert, Eau Claire, Edwardsburg, Paw Paw, and Thornapple-Kellogg. The consolation and championship finals are slated for 6 p.m.

The admission price is $2.50 for adults for both sessions and $1.50 for one session. For students, tickets are $1 for both sessions.

In other tourney action Saturday, Watervliet will host Coloma, Decatur and Fennville in a triple-dual while Dowagiac is in the Muskegon Catholic Invitational.

Troubled Hoosiers Routed By Purdue

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

After sitting on top of the basketball world last season, Bobby Knight seems to be carrying it on his shoulders this year.

"We just aren't getting the job done," said the troubled coach of Indiana University. "We have a lot of areas where we need considerable improvement."

With markedly less talent than last season's NCAA champions, the Hoosiers are losing as much as they are winning this season. Thursday night's 80-63 Big Ten loss to Purdue marked Indiana's fifth setback in 10 games this season — a dramatic turnaround from last year's 32-0 record.

"We are not a great team," says Knight, "and teams that aren't great are going to get hurt some time."

There has been internal strife on the defending national champions as well. Some players have walked off the squad and even All-American center Kent Benson has not been spared Knight's acid tongue.

Purdue Coach Fred Schaus, had a revenge motive Thursday night. He remembered a 104-71 beating from Indiana two seasons ago.

"What a difference in two years!" Schaus exclaimed. "It was a real juicy win for us, especially when we think of the way they rubbed it in two years ago."

Elsewhere in college basketball, top-ranked San Francisco blitzed Portland 95-73; No. 5 Michigan routed Northwestern 102-65; No. 11 Arizona edged San Diego State 80-77, and No. 20 Memphis State beat Oklahoma City 82-72.

A 16-point scoring burst in the first half, sparked by Walter Jordan and Bruce Parkinson, was the impetus Purdue needed to put away Indiana. The loss snapped a 37-game winning streak in Big Ten play for the Hoosiers.

Winford Boynes scored 20 points, leading San Francisco past Portland. The Dons, opening their West Coast Athletic Conference season, shot 55 per cent from the field and had a 46-38 rebounding edge.

Rickey Green scored 20 points and John Robinson 18, leading Michigan over Northwestern. It was a close-sided game throughout as the Wolverines won their 14th straight over Northwestern, dating back to 1969.

Herman Harris scored 22 points and Gary Harrison's basket in the last two minutes put Arizona ahead to stay in the Wildcats' victory over San Diego State.

Dexter Reed and James Bradley each scored 24 points, pacing Memphis State's triumph over Oklahoma City. Reed and Bradley combined for eight points in the first four minutes of the second half as the Tigers moved into a 56-46 lead and Oklahoma City could get no closer.

In other games, Audie Matthews scored 28 points as Illinois beat Ohio State 89-72; Greg Kelsier's 20 points led Michigan State over Wisconsin 84-61; Mike Schultz scored 21 points as Houston whipped Houston Baptist 111-79, and James Edwards scored 15 points in the first six minutes of the second half, leading Washington to an 85-75 victory over California.

Regalado Leader At Phoenix Open

PHOENIX (AP) — The new clubs didn't work so well. But the old putter did and more than offset the problems caused by a new driver and a new, stronger set of irons as Victor Regalado took a one-stroke lead after the first round of the $200,000 Phoenix Open, the kickoff tournament on the pro golf tour.

"It's going to take some time to get used to the new clubs," the 28-year-old bachelor from Tijuana, Mexico said Thursday after he'd one-putted 10 times on his way to a five-under-par 66 that staked him to the lead for only the third time in his four-year tour career.

"I hit it all over the place, just everywhere. But my putter saved me."

It did indeed. He took the lead with a 45-foot birdie putt on the 17th hole at the 6,726 yard Phoenix Country Club course. He dropped two others of about 25 feet, one of them for par. He one-putted six of the first seven greens. And he made an eight-footer to save bogey on the 15th, after hitting it into the bleachers.

Just one stroke back at 67 were U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate, his close friend George Burns and Danny Edwards, who said he's been taking lessons from his brother David, a member of the NCAA champion Oklahoma State team.

Larry Nelson had a 68 while Tom Weiskopf and PGA national champ Dave Stockton were in a large group at 69.

The scores were unusually high on this desert layout that often yields some of the lowest numbers on the tour. Unusual desert conditions — cold weather and pools of casual water left by some rare rains — were the chief problems.

Johnny Miller was one of the casualties. The pre-tourney favorite, winner of five of the last six PGA events in Arizona, twice a 61-shooter on this course, blew to an unhappy 74.

"The first round usually is the key to my tournament," Miller said. "All the iron shots were kind of mushy from the rain. But that's nobody's fault. I just played bad. And my putting was awful."

He must improve today if he is to survive the cut for the final two rounds. Sunday's final round is scheduled for an early finish to allow national television coverage (CBS-TV) to be completed before the start of the Super Bowl football game.

Big Bud Series Recalled

Buds, ended low among 10 men on his pair of lanes with the 638.

In fact, Pulaski shot a sensational 3494 and didn't win a game. Pulaski got a 761 from Chuck O'Donnell, 735 from Bill Pace, 700 from Jerry Sharp and 690 from Bill McCullough to go with Sterling's 638.

The Buds won the first game, 1265 to 1125, and the second, 1300 to 1110. Pulaski went all out trying to salvage the last game and finished with 1259. But it wasn't enough to top Buds' 1293.

Many observers contend it was the strong showing by Pulaski that extended the powerful Buds into a great finishing game and enough strikes to surpass the record 3797 series rolled by another St. Louis powerhouse, the Hermann Undertakers, in 1937.

Debbie Spitzer flipped a triplicate of 111, C. Schemenauer a triplicate of 95 and Marlin Gallup a 143 triplicate. Earning century patches were Ed Bryant for his 248 game, Jack Schwerha with 231 and Leona Riner with 245.

Deadline for entering Barney Hochstadter's 37th annual Six-Game Classic in Chicago is Saturday, Jan. 15. The tourney is open to men and women league bowlers who average under 186.

The 45-day Classic, offering a $10,000 first prize, is sponsored by William Spencer, owner of Spencer's Marina City Bowl, 300 N. State St. Sanctioned by the ABC and WIBC, the tourney will open Jan. 15 and will be held over 24 weekends.

Last season 2,809 bowlers competed for $64,185.65 in cash prizes. Tony Champa of St. Clair Shores, Mich., was the top winner.

Mr. K's Series Tops For Men

Mr. K's of Niles fired a scorching 3052 Thursday night at Blossom Lanes to take over the top spot in the men's high team series standings.

Mr. K's was paced by three 600 series, with Harv Pallas tossing 683, Tom Tessman 664, Bob Kolberg 604. Pallas and Tessman both produced 257's in their last games. Gene Oman with 568 and Frank Kolosar with 533 rounded out the hefty series.

The team, which had a high game of 1064, has been bowling together only this season but has already carved three series in the 3000's. Wednesday night Mr. K's socked a 3082 in the Classic league at White Lanes in Niles and six weeks ago pounded a 3092 in the same league.

Mr. K's, which shot Thursday's 3052 in the Blossom Classic league, moves from second behind Glamour Pools to the No. 1 spot with the area-best total.

Optimism Hits Red-Hot Bucks

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
There is a strange, new feeling in the camp of the Milwaukee Bucks — optimism. "Basketball has become quite enjoyable lately," says forward Bob Dandridge. The reason, of course, is that Milwaukee now is winning instead of losing. The Bucks, who had a miserable 4-25 record earlier this season, now have won seven of their last nine National Basketball Association games. The latest was a 119-111 decision over the Buffalo Braves Thursday night, and the Bucks attribute their sudden success to an improved defense. "Our centers have been giving excellent help switching off," says Dandridge, "and we have the speed, quickness and basketball knowledge to play this kind of defense. It suits our personnel perfectly." In the other NBA games, the Cleveland Cavaliers defeated the Golden State Warriors 129-100 and the Indiana Pacers trimmed the Atlanta Hawks 103-95. Dandridge scored 14 of his game-high 27 points in a third-quarter surge. The Braves, led by John Shumate

And Adrian Dantley, had whittled a 14-point first-quarter deficit to three points early in the second half. However, Dandridge and Quinn Buckner sank field goals around a basket by Buffalo's John Gianelli, then Dandridge fired in Milwaukee's next six baskets as the Bucks recovered to lead 79-68.

Four baskets, two on rebounds, by rookie Scott Lloyd, put the Bucks ahead 89-72 going into the final 12 minutes, and they expanded their lead to 18 points with 11 minutes to play.

Austin Carr spearheaded a second-period rally at Cleveland that ended Golden State's four-game winning string. Carr scored 22 of his 28 points in the first half, dropping in 16 in the second period as the Cavaliers took a 63-44 advantage.

Billy Knight scored a season-high 41 points, 14 in the third period when he matched Atlanta's team total, leading Indiana past the Hawks. Knight got eight of his points when the Pacers outscored the Hawks 16-2 during one stretch of the third quarter and went on to their fourth consecutive victory.

Falcons Didn't Need Hospitalized Coach

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John Weinert, Bowling Green's hospitalized basketball coach, did not learn of his Falcons' mid-American victory at Eastern Michigan until the next day.

And it probably hastened his hospital departure.

"Last night's game saved us $53," Weinert joked after his release Thursday. "I had a hospital bed reserved for Mike (Ehrenfreid) and Charlie (Parker) and they don't need it."

Weinert was talking about his two assistant coaches who directed Bowling Green's 103-62 eye-opener at Eastern Michigan.

"It certainly made my exit from this place (hospital) easier," said Weinert, laid up with a stomach disorder.

"The doctor wouldn't let me listen to the game. I spent a couple of hours agonizing about it, but they had given me a sleeping pill. I didn't know the result until eight Thursday morning," he said.

Rams Upset Gull Lake

SOUTH HAVEN — South Haven's girls volleyball team started its season right by upsetting defending Wolverine conference champ Gull Lake 5-12, 10-15 and 15-10 here Thursday.

Lois Morritty notched nine points for the winners while Claudia Amar had eight.

North Stars Humiliate Red Wings

DETROIT (AP) — "Nothing went right."

That's how Detroit Red Wings Coach Billy De-Deo summed up his team's 7-2 demoralization at the hands of the Minnesota North Stars Thursday night.

The victory snapped a 13-game winless streak for the North Stars, was only their second road win in 19 games this season, and — to add insult to injury — was the first time Minnesota has beaten the Red Wings in Detroit since January, 1973.

"This was one of our worst games. When we play bad, everything goes bad," Dea said in the dressing room. "Eddie (Giacomin) wasn't sharp ... the defense was getting caught up in ice, the wingers weren't backing up the defense..."

Dea could have some explaining to do when General Manager Alex Delvecchio gets back in Detroit. Delvecchio was in Thunder Bay, Ontario, attending his father's funeral Thursday when his mother-in-law also died, of a heart attack.

Minnesota skated all over the Red Wings, snapping a 2-2 tie at 8:41 of the second period with a breakaway goal by Dennis O'Brien. The North Stars' defenseman popped out of the penalty box, grabbed a pass from Tim Young and slipped it past Giacomini before the Detroit goalie knew what happened.

Dean Talafous, Roland Eriksson and Nick Beverley then scored to turn the game over to the North Stars for good.

Young contributed a goal and three assists to the rout, and Glen Sharpley and Tony Youngs added Minnesota's other tallies.

The only consolation for De

The Wings played with four rookies — Dwight Schiefel, Ferdinand LeBlanc, Kevin Schamehorn and Fred Berry — called up from Kalamazoo to replace four benched regulars.

The first period ended in a 2-2 deadlock. Walt McKechnie and Nick Libbet scored for the Red Wings. Glen Sharpley and Tony Youngmans scored for Minnesota, which was winning for the first time in four years on Detroit ice.

Montreal Skates Circles Around Sabres

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
"The only thing that might have saved us tonight," said Buffalo Coach Floyd Smith, "is if we had been snowbound in Chicago after our game Wednesday night. They outthundered us, and just outplayed us."
"They" are the Montreal Canadiens, who blasted Smith's Sabres 9-2 Thursday night in Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium.
"It was a collective effort from everybody on our club," said Sabres left wing Rick Martin. "We all fell asleep at the same time."
That was some time just after the opening faceoff. The Canadiens sped to a 5-1 lead after the first period, skating in circles around the entire Buffalo team, and, even surprising themselves.

"I certainly didn't expect to score nine goals in the building of a team that was playing defense the way Buffalo has been playing all year," said Montreal's Pete Mahovich.

"We would have had to have been out of our minds to come into this building and expect to do what we did."

The Canadiens opened their first-period lead on goals by Guy Lafleur, Rejean Houle, Larry Robinson, Yvon Lambert and Jacques Lemaire. Guy Lapointe and Lafleur scored in the second period, and Doug Jarvis and Mario Tremblay tallied in the final period.

In the other National Hockey League games, the Philadelphia Flyers blasted the St. Louis Blues 7-1, the Pittsburgh Penguins and Washington Capitals tied 3-3, and the Minnesota North Stars crushed the Detroit Red Wings 7-2.

In an exhibition game, a touring team from the Soviet Union scored a 3-2 victory over the World Hockey Association's Winnipeg Jets.

Philadelphia extended its home unbeaten streak to 18 games and its four-year home mastery of St. Louis to 13 games, pounding the Blues as Harvey Bennett scored twice. The first period was marked by a fight which produced 62 minutes in penalties and resulted in the ejection of the Flyers' Paul Holmgren and Jack McIlhargey.

Holmgren, who wears a special plastic facemask because of a previous eye injury, was taken to a hospital when redness developed in the eye area as a result of his skirmish with Bob Gassoff of St. Louis.

Syl Apps scored with 8:50 left in the game, completing a Pittsburgh comeback from a 31 deficit and giving the Penguins their tie with Washington.

LMC Gals Lead League

LANSING — Lake Michigan College's women bowlers remained tied for the conference lead with overhauled Alpena and Highland Park in action here Thursday.

The LMC gals downed Alpena 2123-1975, with Bekki Sempert leading the way with a 478 series and an 178 game.

LMC also toppled Highland Park 2181-1938, with Tami Sonnenberg setting the pace with a 473 series and an 183 game.

With the season now at the midway point, LMC and Mott Community College each have finished 22 team points. Oakland is third

In other action Thursday, LMC's men got a 2475-2358 win over Alpena but lost to Oakland 2270-2270. Bob Backus topped LMC in both matches, posting a 580 series with games of 208 and 201 against Alpena and coming up with a 508 series against Oakland.

The LMC men earned three team points and remained in sixth in the league with 16 points.

"Care of Animals
Winter Weather"

It is vital if your dog is kept outdoors during the winter that he have a good, well built dog house.

It is further important that the dog house faces either the east or south so that the animal is protected from the direct force of the west or north winds which prevail in the winter.

Provide straw or warm bedding for your animal's dog house. Check from time to time to see that it hasn't become wet. If so, replace.

Make sure the dogs chain has a swivel on each end so that the chain does not have a chance to "kink" which in turn will shorten the chain to the extent that the animal cannot get into his dog house for shelter. Also be sure there are no obstacles where his chain can catch onto or wind around.

Displayed At Chicago Sports Show Plush Motor Home For Rich

CHICAGO (AP) — What do Muhammad Ali, Johnny Cash and a Saudi Arabian earning $250,000 a month, not counting investments, have in common?

All own plush Wanderlodge motor homes that can be bought for about $89,999, not including taxes and license, and are equipped with such luxuries as "Jingle Bells," Beethoven's Fifth Symphony and other tapes.

"This is aimed at people who have achieved a status in life where they can afford to take off for two or three months to travel," says Joe W. Bailey, vice president of the Pontiac, Ill., firm that sells the 33-foot rolling palace that sleeps six.

Other recreational vehicles

(RVs) on display at the Chicago Boat, Sports and RV Show, along with posters naming the firms displaying them, are more suited to persons with two or three days to travel.

They include a camping trailer, or "pop-up," which costs as little as $799 and van conversions, which are vans customized with a bunk, galley or dinette, costing from $6,999 to $11,999.

"The industry has not only recovered from the problems of the energy crisis," said Ted Farnwald, chairman of the Recreation Vehicle Industry Association Marketing Committee. "It will exceed all production and sales records this year

A maze of more than 310 RVs was on display on one floor, according to the organizers' count. A spokesman said last year's show had about 20 RVs, a record high until this year's five-day event opened Wednesday at McCormick Place.

Boat buyers, sellers and browsers occupied another floor along with some 500 boats that created a colorful image of a waterless marina. The showplace was a 40-foot Viking Yacht that carried a price tag of more than $91,000, including $550 for an ice maker.

"Hey Jim, I'm a few bucks short," John Hickman of Chicago called jokingly to an acquaintance as Hickman read the price list.

"It's a dandy. It's a well-constructed boat," he said. "I'm a sportsman. For me a $10,000 boat is enough."

Don Rogers, an airplane pilot and sailboat racer, was helping some friends by naming one of the boats they had displayed.

"The biggest obstacle for people buying is the enormous variety of boats available," he said. Unless people know what they want a boat for and are familiar with the equipment available, they could be "bewildered," he added.

Timothy Harrington, whose company wasn't displaying anything as large as a 40-foot yacht, said, "A big yacht is a chore. Boating should not be a chore. You should be able to go out on impulse. With a big yacht you have to plan two weeks in advance."

He said people seemed more inclined to buy this year than they were at the boat shows he's attended in Chicago the past three years. He attributed that to an improved economy.

Besides RVs and boats, the show also featured companies selling motors, fishing rods, sandals, boat docks and boat insurance.

Models displayed fashions suited for boating and other outdoor activities. The proper way to filet a fish was demonstrated. Another display was entitled "Cooking on the Road."

Van Graham held forth at a booth for the Chicago Archery Center, which he owns.

"Archery is one of the fastest growing sports in the country," he said. "There are more bow hunters than there are golfers in the country."

He said anything that can be hunted with a rifle can be hunted with a bow and arrow, although the archer must get closer to his prey. But Graham said many sportsmen are switching from guns to bow-and-arrow because of the added challenge.

Super Bowl Newsmen Pampered

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was the last day that the antagonists — Minnesota's poised Vikings and Oakland's Raiders — were to be put on public display prior to Sunday's Super Bowl.

In the mess hall of a fashionable hotel in Costa Mesa — the Vikings' headquarters — waiters dumped fresh fruit, hash brown potatoes, scrambled eggs and link sausage on the plates of hungry newsmen.

At a white-covered head table, a somber Bud Grant sat, his sleepy eyes watching rain drops beat against the window panes.

"Coach," said one reporter, gulping down a mouthful of egg, "does the rain bother you?"

"Now," replied the Minnesota coach, who hails from snow country. "At least, you don't have to shovel the 'We didn't come to sunny California to play indoors.'"

There was a titter of laughter. An hour and a half later, 10 miles away, in Newport Beach, Oakland's pillow John Madden found himself faced with a similar question.

"I sure as heck don't like rain," he said. "Rain makes the football slippery. It hampers passing."

Pampered newsmen have been based some 95 miles daily from their own hotel headquarters to the temporary homes of the two teams and then back again.

They are fed as if the Russians were landing at Marina Del Rey.

Less than an hour after Minnesota's hefty breakfast, they were facing another spread in Newport Beach fit for a Roman emperor — crepes, cut fruit, also eggs, bacon and assorted cheeses.

Madden, who weighs around 200, has not missed many meals himself. But it has not dulled his sense of humor.

"John Robinson (Southern Cal coach) told me that the Rose Bowl field is bare and soft in the middle," Madden said. "Rain and dirt equals mud."

The equation pleased him. "But it's no advantage," he said. "You've got to play all elements."

Visiting the two camps three days before the championship showdown, one might have gotten the impression that Grant and Madden had gotten Don Rickles to write their lines.

Neither coach looked like a man ready to be led to slaughter. They ate a hearty meal. They quipped. Both were loose, radiating confidence.

CHICAGO (AP) — What do Muhammad Ali, Johnny Cash and a Saudi Arabian earning $250,000 a month, not counting investments, have in common?

All own plush Wanderlodge motor homes that can be bought for about $80,000, not including musical horns costing $275 each that play "Jingle Bells," Beethoven's Fifth Symphony and other tunes.

"This is aimed at people who have achieved a status in life where they can afford to take off two or three months to travel," says Joe W. Bailey, vice president of the Pontiac, Ill., firm that sells the 33-foot rolling palace that sleeps six.

Other recreational vehicles

(RVs) on display at the Chicago Boat, Sports and RV Show, along with posters naming the firms displaying them, are more suited to persons with two or three days to travel.

They include a camping trailer, or "pop-up," which costs as little as $700 and van conversions, which are vans customized with a bunk, galley or dinette, costing from $6,000 to $11,000.

"The industry has not only recovered from the problems of the energy crisis," said Ted Farenwald, chairman of the Recreation Vehicle Industry Association Marketing Committee. "It will exceed all production and sales records this year (1976) with more than 523,900 units produced and retail sales nearing the $3.7 billion mark."

A maze of more than 310 RVs was on display on one floor, according to the organizers' count. A spokesman said last year's show had about 30 RVs, a record high until this year's five-day event opened Wednesday at McCormick Place.

Boat buyers, sellers and browsers occupied another floor along with some 500 boats that created a colorful image of a waterless marina. The showpiece was a 40-foot Viking Yacht that carried a price tag of more than $91,000, including $550 for an ice maker.

"Hey Jim, I'm a few bucks short," John Hickman of Chicago called jokingly to an acquaintance as Hickman read the price list.

"It's a dandy. It's a well-constructed boat," he said. "I'm a sportsman. For me a $10,000 boat is enough."

Don Rogers, an airplane pilot and sailboat racer, was helping some friends by manning one of the boats they had displayed.

"The biggest obstacle for people buying is the enormous variety of boats available," he said. "Unless people know what they want a boat for and are familiar with the equipment available, they could be 'bewildered,'" he added.

Timothy Harrington, whose company wasn't displaying anything as large as a 40-foot yacht, said, "A big yacht is a chore. Boating should not be a chore. You should be able to go out on impulse. With a big yacht you have to plan two weeks in advance."

He said people seemed more inclined to buy this year than they were at the boat shows he's attended in Chicago the past three years. He attributed that to an improved economy.

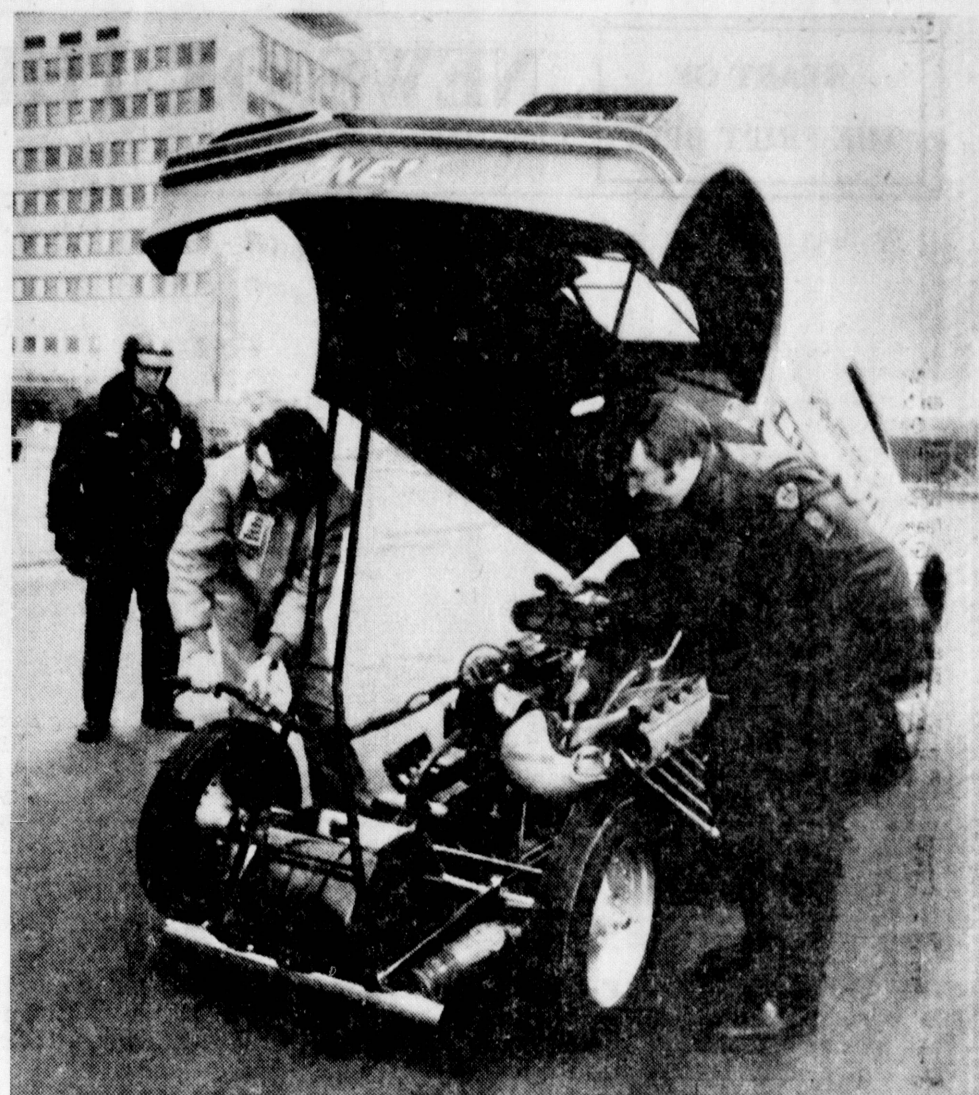

Besides RVs and boats, the show also featured companies selling motors, fishing rods, sandals, boat docks and boat insurance.

Models displayed fashions suited for boating and other outdoor activities. The proper way to filet a fish was demonstrated. Another display was entitled "Cooking on the Road."

Van Graham held forth at a booth for the Chicago Archery Center, which he owns.

"Archery is one of the fastest growing sports in the country," he said. "There are more bow hunters than there are golfers in the country."

He said anything that can be hunted with a rifle can be hunted with a bow and arrow, although the archer must get closer to his prey. But Graham said many sportsmen are switching from guns to bow-and-arrow because of the added challenge.

Super Bowl Newsmen Pampered

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was the last day that the antagonists — Minnesota's poised Vikings and Oakland's Raiders — were to be put on public display prior to Sunday's Super Bowl.

In the mess hall of a fashionable hotel in Costa Mesa — the Vikings' headquarters — waiters dumped fresh fruit, hash brown potatoes, scrambled eggs and link sausage on the plates of hungry newsmen.

At a white-covered head table, a somber Bud Grant sat, his steely eyes watching rain drops beat against the window panes.

"Coach," said one reporter, gulping down a mouthful of egg, "does the rain bother you?"

"Naw," replied the Minnesota coach, who hails from snow country. "At least, you don't have to shovel. We didn't come to sunny California to play indoors."

There was a titter of laughter. An hour and a half later, 10 miles away, in Newport Beach, Oakland's pillowy John Madden found himself faced with a similar question.

"I sure as heck don't like rain," he said. "Rain makes the football slippery. It hampers passing."

Pampered newsmen have been bused some 95 miles daily from their own hotel headquarters to the temporary homes of the two teams and then back again.

They are fed as if the Russians were landing at Marina Del Rey. Less than an hour after Minnesota's hefty breakfast, they were facing another spread in Newport Beach fit for a Roman emperor — crepes, cut fruit, also eggs, bacon and assorted cheeses.

Madden, who weighs around 260, has not missed many meals himself. But it has not dulled his sense of humor.

"John Robinson (Southern Cal coach) told me that the Rose Bowl field is bare and soft in the middle," Madden said. "Rain and dirt equals mud."

The equation pleased him. "But it's no advantage," he said. "You've got to play all elements."

Visiting the two camps three days before the championship showdown, one might have gotten the impression that Grant and Madden had gotten Don Rickles to write their lines.

Neither coach looked like a man ready to be led to slaughter. They ate a hearty meal. They quipped. Both were loose, radiating confidence.

SELF UNLOADING TRAILER: A Hartford grower has found success with this self-unloading trailer in hand picking high density fruit orchards. The trailer carries five or six bulk boxes depending on size and has eliminated need for scooter forks that grower found difficult to maneuver in high density orchards. Friday Tractor Co., Inc., Hartford, manufactures model shown here.

Trailer Effective In High Density Orchards

After planting a number of high density orchards, Hartford grower Steve Shaffer discovered that traditional picking methods he normally used in his old orchards no longer worked as well in the new orchards.

Shaffer said that in the high-density orchards where trees and rows are much closer together, his standard system of scooter forklifts and bulk boxes broke down because "we could hardly see from one row to the next."

In his older orchards where the trees are larger and the rows spaced further apart, Shaffer said he could maneuver the equipment with no trouble whenever the need arose. But when his high density orchards started bearing, he found that he lost the mobility he had in the older orchards because the equipment couldn't be run between the rows as easily.

Shaffer came up with the idea of a trailer that would be long enough to carry five or six crates, that would be self-unloading, and low enough to the ground for pickers to dump directly into the crates. The trailer rests 14-inches off the ground.

Shaffer reasoned that he then could attach a tractor to the trailer, set it between a few rows, then pickers could move it anytime the need arose.

Shaffer went to Friday Tractor Company, listed his requirements, and the Friday brothers came up with a trailer that now suits his needs. He bought his first one in 1970, a second in 1972 and a third in 1974. "Now three-quarters of all my hand harvest is done using the self-unloading trailers," Shaffer said.

The trailer is 20 feet long — long enough so that when the tongue is raised with a standard three point hitch, the back end touches the ground ready to discharge the boxes. The bulk boxes rest on two hydraulic motor driven chains that run the length of the trailer and convey the boxes onto the ground as the tractor pulls slowly ahead.

Shaffer said he has successfully harvested peaches, plums and apples using the trailer method. Friday Tractor Co. named the trailer the "Box OX." It sells for $2,250. Self-powered P.T.O. options are available.

"My best migrant families have been returning annually. They like the system because each family has a trailer and they can work independently as long as they please without the regimentation of a crew," Shaffer said.

Each family picks two rows on each side of the trailer. The pickers can load their own empties on the trailer by hand. Driving a load of six full boxes out of the orchard, unloading, loading six empties, and returning usually takes about eight minutes. "Our trucks simply unload empties at the edge of the orchard and pick up the full ones. The pickers do the rest."

Shaffer said that a limitation to the system is that quarrels tend to develop when individuals — or more than one family work with one trailer.

Shaffer said he believes with the advent of high density planting, more growers will find it necessary to change their hand picking practices.

WSAM Sponsors Meet
For Reportings Service

Women for the Survival of Agriculture in Michigan (WSAM) will sponsor an open meeting at 8 p.m. Monday, Jan. 10, with representatives of the Michigan Crop Reporting Service at St. Joseph Catholic Church, Lucinda Lane, Watervliet.

According to Mrs. Mildred Schultz, president of the Southwest chapter of WSAM, the meeting will be open for questions in order to discuss differences of opinion that occur between growers and the service.

The service's representatives are expected to tell the group of the importance of reporting their crop figures in order to assure accurate price setting.

Board Finds Company Guilty Of Violating
State Bargaining Law

The Michigan Agricultural Marketing and Bargaining board found Indian Summer Juice Co. of Belding guilty of negotiating to buy juice apples under the established price and ordered the company to "cease and desist" the practice. The board has no power to levy fines.

During a Dec. 28th hearing, the board found the company guilty of attempting to negotiate with growers for the purchase of juice apples at $3.25 per hundredweight instead of the $4 bargained price, according to Thomas J. Moore, the board's administrator.

The state bargaining act requires a processor to pay the bargained price for any such fruit it buys in the state.

The board, however, found no evidence that the company attempted to coerce a producer to sell under the established price, and dismissed that complaint.

Attorneys for Indian Summer argued during the hearing that growers came to the company and first initiated the offer. The board, however, said that according to the rules of the bargaining law, no handler can even discuss any terms of a contract with a bargaining unit member except through the association.

The violation of the bargaining act was the first to actually go to a hearing, Moore said.

If a company refuses to obey an order issued by the board, the board can ask the Michigan Court of Appeals to issue an order to cease the infraction. If the company does not comply, the court can then find the company in contempt and order it to pay $500 per day for every infraction, Moore said.

Tomato Hybrid With Extended
Storage Life Looks Promising

Research will continue at Purdue university this summer on a recently-developed tomato variety that has a storage life at least two weeks longer than most tomatoes that are now grown.

The emergence of the new variety could mean that the quality of tomatoes shipped to the consumer during the winter months will be better, and wholesalers and retailers could reduce losses due to excessive softening.

The tomato under study is a cross between a normal red tomato and a mutant that doesn't ripen, according to Dick Barman, research assistant to Dr. E. C. Tigchelaar, Purdue university geneticist in the horticulture department.

Dr. Tigchelaar and his associates began working with the mutant in 1968 and had hopes of developing it for potential consumer use. Actual work was done on two mutants, both of which were characterized by a total absence of ripening.

Neither of the mutants undergoes a color change, softening or other chemical changes common to most other tomato varieties. The mutants also remain firm for long periods of time and can be stored for several months.

After extensive work, however, Tigchelaar and his researchers found that they could not force the mutants to ripen normally, despite treatments.

So Tigchelaar decided to cross the mutant with a normal red tomato variety. In doing so, he created a variety that ripens at least two weeks later than most tomatoes and in many cases much longer.

The quality of the fruit was not affected in the process and shelf life was extended dramatically, according to Barman.

The variety will enable Florida and California growers to harvest the fruit when it is more mature, which will make the fruit more nutritious and taste better.

The researchers intend to follow the hybrids from crossing, through growing and harvesting, to marketing and consumer acceptance.

Although basic research is still being conducted, initial research looks very promising. An in depth study on the variety is planned for this summer.

Area Farmers Get Disaster Payments

More than $73,000 in claims have been paid to southwestern Michigan farmers who suffered losses in their wheat and feed grain crops, according to a survey of area Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service offices.

Payments are authorized under the provisions of the Agricultural Act of 1973 when wheat and feed grain production losses occur because of disaster conditions.

More than 75 applications have been filed so far in Berrien, Cass, Van Buren and Allegan counties, and all claims have not been paid as yet, according to a state ASCS spokesman.

In 1976, many farmers suffered losses to corn and wheat because of droughts, and others were not able to harvest corn because of drought damage in the summer and wet conditions at harvest.

Across the state, 2,800 claims have been filed to date, and payments have been made in excess of $500,000. The statewide total is expected to rise to $750,000 when all the claims are received and processed, the spokesman said.

Most of the statewide claims were filed in the central and western counties where drought took its toll of the corn crop. Many other farmers suffered substantial losses in production but are not eligible for payments because of the extent they overplanted their allotments.

Some corn has not yet been harvested; and if harvesting has been delayed because of crop damage, producers still can file a claim at their local ASCS office. Claims should be filed no later than 15 days after harvest and while evidence of the crop is still apparent.

Dairyman Gets Top
Honors At Meeting

A Dowagiac dairyman whose cow produced 3,106 gallons of milk — enough milk to supply 10 or 12 families for a year — received top honors at the Cass County Dairy Herd Improvement Association's annual meeting.

Terry Miller, Route 4, was cited as owner of the high-producing cow this year in both milk and butterfat. The cow produced 1,028 pounds of butterfat and 24,847 pounds of milk.

Don Brossman, Route 1, Vandellia, was given a trophy for the herd with the highest increase in production over the past five years. The increase was 128 pounds of butterfat and 4,854 pounds of milk.

High herd trophies were given to Brossman for his yearly herd average of 598 pounds of butterfat and 17,778 pounds of milk and to Miller for his herd average of 598 pounds of butterfat and 16,887 pounds of milk.

Loupe & Kramb, Dowagiac, was presented a trophy for a cow that produced the most milk in her lifetime. The 12-year-old cow has already produced 181,457 pounds of milk and 6,898 pounds of butterfat. It is estimated that the cow's milk would supply 70 families for a year.

The board, however, found no evidence that the company attempted to coerce a producer to sell under the established price, and dismissed that complaint.

Attorneys for Indian Summer argued during the hearing that growers came to the company and first initiated the offer. The board, however, said that according to the rules of the bargaining law, no handler can even discuss any terms of a contract with a bargaining unit member except through the association.

The violation of the bargaining act was the first to actually go to a hearing, Moore said.

If a company refuses to obey an order issued by the board, the board can ask the Michigan Court of Appeals to issue an order to cease the infraction. If the company does not comply, the court can then find the company in contempt and order it to pay $500 per day for every infraction, Moore said.

Products Conference Jan. 10-12

The annual Raw Products Conference sponsored by the Michigan Canners and Freezers Association and Michigan State University will be held Jan. 10 through 12 at the Hospitality Inn, Lansing.

The program will begin Monday with a luncheon and continue with a general session for the remainder of the day.

At about 10 a.m. Tuesday participants of the program will divide into groups of those interested in fruit and vegetables and those just interested in cucumbers, according to the secretary of the association, Ed

VanSickle.

Topics for the conference include pesticide certification, MIOSHA, weather; changes and trends, spray control, legislative updates, and energy. An awards' luncheon will be held on Tuesday afternoon; a banquet will be held that same evening.

Tomato Hybrid With Extended
Storage Life Looks Promising

Research will continue at Purdue university this summer on a recently-developed tomato variety that has a storage life at least two weeks longer than most tomatoes that are now grown.

The emergence of the new variety could mean that the quality of tomatoes shipped to the consumer during the winter months will be better, and wholesalers and retailers could reduce losses due to excessive softening.

The tomato under study is a cross between a normal red tomato and a mutant that doesn't ripen, according to Dick Barman, research assistant to Dr. E. C. Tigchelaar, Purdue university geneticist in the horticulture department.

Dr. Tigchelaar and his associates began working with the mutant in 1969 and had hopes of developing it for potential consumer use. Actual work was done on two mutants, both of which were characterized by a total absence of ripening.

Neither of the mutants undergoes a color change, softening or other chemical changes common to most other tomato varieties. The mutants also remain firm for long periods of time and can be stored for several months.

After extensive work, however, Tigchelaar and his researchers found that they could not force the mutants to ripen normally, despite treatments.

So Tigchelaar decided to cross the mutant with a normal red tomato variety. In doing so, he created a variety that ripens at least two weeks later than most tomatoes and in many cases much longer.

The quality of the fruit was not affected in the process and shelf life was extended dramatically, according to Barman.

The variety will enable Florida and California growers to harvest the fruit when it is more mature, which will make the fruit more nutritious and taste better.

The researchers intend to follow the hybrids from crossing, through growing and harvesting, to marketing and consumer acceptance.

Although basic research is still being conducted, initial research looks very promising. An in depth study on the variety is planned for this summer.

Dairyman Gets Top
Honors At Meeting

A Dowagiac dairyman whose cow produced 3,106 gallons of milk — enough milk to supply 10 or 12 families for a year — received top honors at the Cass County Dairy Herd Improvement Association's annual meeting.

Terry Miller, Route 4, was cited as owner of the high-producing cow this year in both milk and butterfat. The cow produced 1,028 pounds of butterfat and 24,847 pounds of milk.

Dan Brossman, Route 1, Vandalia, was given a trophy for the herd with the highest increase in production over the past five years. The increase was 128 pounds of butterfat and 4,854 pounds of milk.

High herd trophies were given to Brossman for his yearly herd average of 598 pounds of butterfat and 17,770 pounds of milk and to Miller for his herd average of 598 pounds of butterfat and 16,807 pounds of milk.

Loupe & Krumb, Dowagiac, was presented a trophy for a cow that produced the most milk in her lifetime. The 12-year-old cow has already produced 161,457 pounds of milk and 6,669 pounds of butterfat. It is estimated that the cow's milk would supply 70 families for a year.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Turns Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned mixed today after an erratic session that halted the slide of 27 points in the Dow Jones industrial average since the new year.

Trading was brisk. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up about a point in the early going. Advances and declines were about even.

Brokers noted some indecision about President-elect Jimmy Carter's fiscal program. He is meeting with congressional leaders today and might outline his proposals afterward. He is expected to call for a job-creation program, tax rebates and possibly a domestic investment tax credit for business.

In early trading, AT&T was unchanged at 63 1/4; Bethlehem Steel rose 1/4 to 38 1/4, and General Electric was up 1/4 to 53.

GE said the company will be reorganized into "perhaps" seven operating units by next Jan. 1 to cope with the increasing complexity of both the company and the business environment.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average posted a 1.83 gain to 979.89 after having been up nearly 8 points at mid-afternoon.

Advances outnumbered declines by about a 9-5 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 23.92 million shares, against 25.10 million on Wednesday.

The NYSE's composite index rose 16 to 56.75.

Deadline Set For ACT Test

DOWAGIAC — Monday, Jan. 10, is the deadline for post-marking applications to take the Feb. 5 American College Test (ACT), a standard, pre-college test which will be administered at Southwestern Michigan college here and other locations in Michigan, SMC officials said.

ACT scores are required for enrollment at SMC and many other colleges. Applications for the test are available at the student services office on the SMC campus. Those applying for the test will be notified of the location they are to attend.

AMC Asks Contract Extension?

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ailing American Motors Corp. reportedly has asked the United Auto Workers to extend the terms of the current contract to next Sept. 16.

Sources close to the bargaining table said the suggestion came during a negotiating session at which AMC President William Laneberg stressed last year's $46.3 million AMC loss.

Laneberg would not confirm that report. Spokesmen for both sides in the on-again, off-again negotiations refused official comment.

The old three-year pact between the UAW and the nation's smallest automaker expired Sept. 15. The union has agreed to an indefinite extension of the contract, with the provision that it can be terminated on three days' notice by either side.

Rebozo Settles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon's close friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, has settled a dispute with the Internal Revenue Service by agreeing to pay federal income taxes totaling $32,474 plus interest for 1970 and 1971, court records show.

Road Crew Chief Bound For Trial

The superintendent of a guard rail crew for the Berrien county road commission was bound over to circuit court Thursday on two counts of selling alcoholic beverages without a license on road commission property.

Bound over on the charge by District Judge Hugh Black was George A. Patterson, 47, of 1605 Pearl street, Benton township. During the preliminary examination, two road commission employees, Roland Hahn and Richard Ott, testified that Patterson approached them while they were at work at the road commission garage, Yore and Napier avenues, Benton township, and asked if they wanted to buy some liquor, Black said.

The employees testified that Patterson took them to his car, opened the trunk and displayed five or six cases of assorted bottles of liquor, including scotch, brandy, schnapps and bourbon. Patterson quoted prices of $3 and $4 a bottle depending on the kind, according to testimony related by Black.

Both men testified that they bought liquor. Hahn said that he asked Patterson if the liquor was "hot," and Patterson answered that it was a gift.

The alleged sales occurred in September, 1976.

Berrien county sheriff's police said they were investigating where the liquor came from.

Patterson continues free on a $1,000 personal recognizance bond.

U.S. Turns Down Women's Bank Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. comptroller of the currency has turned down a proposal to set up in Washington the first federally chartered women's bank.

The comptroller told a group of businesswomen and educators in a letter that they lacked the qualifications to run a bank.

Members of the group said Thursday they also were told that they failed to show the economic potential to make the bank profitable.

The woman who heads the organizers, Emily Womach, met with acting comptroller Robert Bloom Thursday.

Following that meeting Bloom issued a statement saying he would carefully consider the material she presented to determine whether there are grounds to reconsider the proposal.

There are a number of women's banks in the country, but no federally chartered women's bank. The proposal for a women's national bank in the District of Columbia was first made in late 1974. The formal application was made in 1975.

Officials in the comptroller's office told the women that small banks in Washington with deposits below $50 million were having a hard time competing with bigger banks.

In a letter to an attorney representing the group, associated deputy comptroller Gail W. Pohn said the organizers failed to show their services would be "uniquely directed at women."

The letter also said the organizers had not shown that "creditworthy women have been discriminated against in obtaining credit or other bank services in Washington."

Berrien Schools To Scan Budget

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Berrien county intermediate school board last night set a meeting for Feb. 17 to review the intermediate school district's operating budget for the upcoming fiscal year with representatives from school districts in the county.

Intermediate school board members last night received a tentative first draft of the 1977-1978 fiscal year budget for $715,272 — $56,138 higher than the budget for the current fiscal year.

Supt. Raymond Sreboth said the increase in the tentative budget reflects inflationary increases in costs for general operating.

The operating budget does not include capital outlay for the $2.5 million centralized school for the mentally handicapped for which the board awarded contracts Tuesday.

After meeting with representatives from school districts in the county, the board will adopt a budget for the 1977-1978 fiscal year March 3.

In other areas, the board voted to purchase a used portable classroom for the Niles community schools special education classroom for $8,800. The classroom was purchased from the R.J. Taylor company of Niles.

The board voted to hire Helen Spangler of Niles as a part-time key punch operator, replacing an employee who left, and voted to hire Judith Lohrft of Buchanan as an aide in the severely mentally impaired program at Fairland school.

Molin Asks 'Teeth' In Safety Act

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Labor Director Keith Molin wants lawmakers to put some teeth into Michigan's occupational safety and health act, lawmakers to put some teeth into Michigan's occupational safety and health act.

Citing a recent case in which a Monroe prosecutor refused to press charges against an employer in four worker deaths, Molin said the law as written is a "toothless tiger."

There have been no successful prosecutions under the 1974 act and three prosecutors have refused even to try. The prosecutors said they would have to prove the employer intended to harm or kill his employees.

"If that remains the test there never will be a successful prosecution under this law — unless an employer confesses to an evil purpose," Molin said.

The latest case involved four employees of a Toledo, Ohio, firm who were killed last May when a hoist collapsed inside a smokestack at Detroit Edison Co.'s Monroe generating plant.

Monroe County Prosecutor James J. Rostash refused to issue criminal warrants against Edison or the contractor, William Ferrel Inc.

Molin said an appeal would be pointless. Instead, he will recommend amendments to the law to close the loopholes that are blocking prosecution.

Cook Full Power Bid

Officials from Indiana and Michigan Electric company are scheduled to meet today with members of the Nuclear Regulatory commission (NRC) to review a request to operate Unit 1 of the Cook nuclear plant at 100 per cent full power after refueling.

The review in Washington D.C. today is required at the time of refueling, according to Robert Jurgenson, manager of the Cook plant near Bridgman. Refueling of the plant was scheduled to begin Dec. 23 and close the plant for seven weeks.

The NRC announced the Cook plant was licensed to operate at 90 per cent of full power in March, 1976, and at levels up to 100 per cent starting in May.

After refueling, the licensee is required to reduce power to 81 per cent until a favorable report is received from the NRC's Advisory committee on Nuclear Safeguards. The NRC said a favorable report returns the plant to full power.

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: Cold weather is forecast today for northern states from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic. Snow flurries are expected across much of the area. Milder weather is forecast from the West into Texas. (AP Wirephoto)

CITIZENS TRUST

Bank To Build New Office At Fennville

SOUTH HAVEN — The Citizens Trust and Savings bank which has its headquarters here, is going to build a new office for its branch operations in Fennville, according to bank President James Pence.

Pence said the new branch office will have about 5,000 square feet, nearly 2 1/2 times the square footage in the present building.

He said it is expected the new branch will be open for business in the fall. He said the new facility, land acquisition and equipment will cost about $450,000.

The new bank building will be on land formerly occupied by the Fennville Fruit exchange.

Besides its Fennville branch, Citizens Trust and Savings has its headquarters and a branch operation in South Haven and branches in Bloomingdale and Saugatuck.

PUBLIC NOTICE
Michigan Water Resources Commission
Stevens T. Mason Building
Lansing, Michigan 48909
617-373-8088

Permit Number: MI 0025372

NOTICE: DYNAC Corporation presently has a valid National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (Public Law 92-500) Permit, issued May 31, 1974, to discharge cooling water from its facility located at 229 Kerth Street, St. Joseph, Michigan.

The applicant is engaged in the manufacture of zinc and aluminum die castings. The company discharges its effluent to the St. Joseph River via a storm sewer, Abraham County Drain and Hickory Creek.

It is hereby notified that the following modifications or revisions of said permit are proposed: Delete the limitation and monitoring requirement for phosphorus. The company has changed to a non phosphate containing corrosion inhibiting compound and demonstrated they no longer have significant amounts of phosphorus in the cooling water being discharged.

On the basis of preliminary staff review and application of applicable standards and regulations, the Michigan Water Resources Commission proposes to issue a revised permit for the discharge subject to certain effluent limitations and special conditions. The permit expiration date is May 31, 1979.

The proposed determination to revise an NPDES Permit is tentative. Persons wishing to comment upon, or object to, the proposed permit modifications are invited to submit the same in writing to:

Permit and Enforcement Coordinator
Water Quality Division
Dept. of Natural Resources
Box 30028
Lansing, Michigan 48909

The name of the permittee and permit number should appear next to the above address on the envelope and the first page of any submitted comments. All comments received within thirty (30) days of the date of issuance of this public notice will be considered in the formulation of the final determinations. If no written objections are received, the Michigan Water Resources Commission will issue its final determination no later than sixty (60) days following the date of this notice.

The application, issued permit and proposed revisions, and other information, are on file and may be inspected at the Water Quality Division offices, 8th Floor, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, Michigan and at the District Office located at State Office Building, 350 Ottawa Ave., Grand Rapids, Michigan (phone 456-6231) at any time between 9:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Copies of the Public Notice and corresponding Fact Sheet summarizing application information and proposed permit conditions are available at no charge. Copies of all other information are available at a cost of $2.00 per page.

Please bring the foregoing to the attention of persons whom you know would be interested in this matter.

PHYSIOGNOMISTS say a square-shaped head indicates a born leader... Chemical changes in tears can tell doctors the cause of illness. Tears shed in anger or sorrow are different from those caused by snog or onions... Color experts say that red helps to dispel tiredness and makes you feel warm and powerful... Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) is often a slow starter — but doesn't quit easily... Folklore: Anyone who can make the index finger and the little finger meet will rule the household when married... Graphologists say that large lower loops indicate materialism and a strong sexual urge.

FAMOUS ALIBI: "Gosh — if you'd only asked me for the loan yesterday, I'd have been happy to help you out!"... Bar-Suoning at Maude's, NYC: Add a few drops of vermouth to your next bourbon-on-the-rocks. Potent but tasty... Beauty Hint from Betty Furness: "Rinse your hair thoroughly to get every last bit of shampoo out — since shampoo film will dull it."... Our Pill Swallowers: Americans consume more than 28 tons of aspirin, tranquilizers and sleeping pills a day!... Famous Last Words: "This time I'm going back to mother — for good!"... It was George Kirby who once said: "Middle age is the time of your life when you wish there was some other way of starting the day than by getting up in the morning!"... Tip to Men: A lip-stick smudge on a shirt collar can be removed by rubbing it gently with petroleum jelly, then rinsing in warm soapy water.

KITCHEN-SNOOPING: Add

shelled peas and yolk of a hard-boiled egg to rice for extra flavor (Uncle Tai's Hunan Yuan, NYC)... A secret in preparing delicious fruit cocktails is the lemon juice, brown sugar and cinnamon added to them (Mrs. B's kitchen)... Try adding chopped celery and a sliced frankfurter to potato salad for a different taste (Christo's, NYC).

SANDWICH FAVORITE of Phil Crosby: Peanut butter on white toast with slices of crisp bacon and Bermuda onion... Diana Ross is in New York preparing for her role in the upcoming film of the Broadway hit "The Wiz"... Type-Casting: Elren Zimbalist, one of the best amateur players in Hollywood, will star in a movie, "Slack," in which he portrays a golfer!... "Core Vidal's Caligula" came in under budget. It was explained, "We did it by canceling one of the orgies!"... Most considerate celeb to dine at the Pen & Pencil was Charlton Heston, who accommodated fans there with his autographs on pocket-sized photographs he toted along... TWA's current fleet of planes, to fly its worldwide service, totaled up to 232 at last count!... Faded Phrases: "He's in fine fettle," "It's hunky dory with me" and "You'd better cough up the money."

SMATTERING OF SIGNS: Taurean natives, as a rule, have good appetites, like hearty meals and highly-seasoned food. Those born under Virgo are by nature neat and orderly. Gemini natives are nervous, restless and usually "have more than one iron in the fire."

"STOP SAYING 'IT'S YOU, IT'S YOU.' YOU KNOW PERFECTLY WELL THAT'S NOT HIM."

Today in History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Friday, January 7, the seventh day of 1877. There are 358 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1933, President Harry Truman announced in his State of the Union Message that the United States had developed a hydrogen bomb.
On this date: In 1584, the Gregorian Calendar was adopted by Roman Catholic states of the Holy Roman Empire.
In 1800, the 13th American President, Millard Fillmore, was born in a log cabin in Cayuga County, N.Y.
In 1938, Joseph Kennedy was appointed U.S. Ambassador to Britain.
In 1965, Indonesia withdrew from the United Nations.
In 1968, the government of Lebanon resigned after an Israeli commando raid at the Beirut airport.
In 1971, it was announced that 4,200 Americans had been killed in combat in Vietnam in 1970. It was the smallest number since 1965.
Ten years ago: Bloody fighting was raging between Chinese Red Guards and workers in Nanjing, China.
Five years ago: India resisted U.S. pressure and granted full diplomatic recognition to Communist China.
One year ago: The Italian Cabinet led by Prime Minister Aldo Moro resigned after the Socialist Party had withdrawn its parliamentary support.
Today's birthday: Former governor Claude Kirk of Florida is 51.
Thought for today: An appeaser is one who feeds a crocodile hoping it will eat him last — Sir Winston Churchill, 1874-1963.

Computer Will Help Adoptees Track Kin

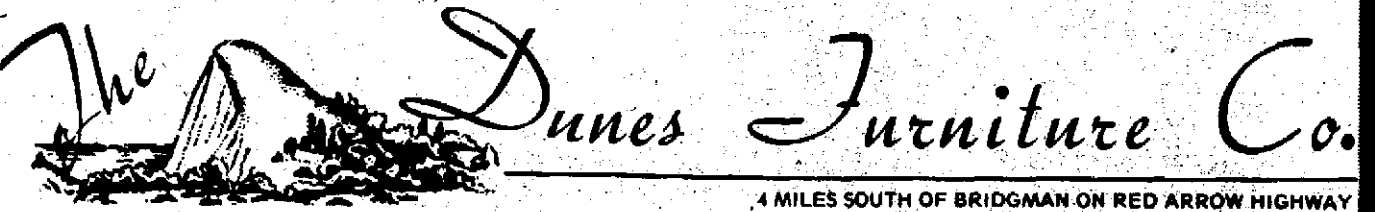

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Adult adoptees who want to track down their real parents are going to get help from a computer. Donna Cullum, who has file cards on 6,000 persons, says the sleuthing job is a big one and chances of matchups on the first computer run are slim. She estimates that there are nine million adoptees in the United States.
Miss Cullum, 35, established Yesterday's Children in 1974 for grown adoptees or parents who had given up their children and wanted to be reunited. She said that he searches are frustrated by the lack of access to adoption records. "All most of these people want is the option of knowing their heritage," she said.
"It took me 12 years to find my mother," she said. "And I also found that I have nine brothers and sisters. My father had died. I wasn't looking for truth and dad-as such. I just wanted to know how I fit in the real family tree." Miss Cullum's computer project is called the National Adoption Registry and is to be activated within a month, she said.

PHYSIOGNOMISTS say a square-shaped head indicates a born leader... Chemical changes in tears can tell doctors the cause of illness. Tears shed in anger or sorrow are different from those caused by smog or onions... Color experts say that red helps to dispel tiredness and makes you feel warm and powerful... Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) is often a slow starter — but doesn't quit easily... Folklore: Anyone who can make the index finger and the little finger meet will rule the household when married... Graphologists say that large lower loops indicate materialism and a strong sexual urge.

FAMOUS ALIBI: "Gosh — if you'd only asked me for the loan yesterday, I'd have been happy to help you out!"... Bar-Snooping at Maude's, NYC: Add a few drops of vermouth to your next bourbon-on-the-rocks. Potent but tasty... Beauty Hint from Betty Furness: "Rinse your hair thoroughly to get every last bit of shampoo out — since shampoo film will dull it."... Our Pill Swallowers: Americans consume more than 28 tons of aspirin, tranquilizers and sleeping pills a day!... Famous Last Words: "This time I'm going back to mother — for good!"... It was George Kirby who once said: "Middle age is the time of your life when you wish there was some other way of starting the day than by getting up in the morning!"... Tip to Men: A lip-stick smudge on a shirt collar can be removed by rubbing it gently with petroleum jelly, then rinsing in warm soapy water.

KITCHEN-SNOOPING: Add

shelled peas and yolk of a hard-boiled egg to rice for extra flavor (Uncle Tai's Hunan Yuan, NYC)... A secret in preparing delicious fruit cocktails is the lemon juice, brown sugar and cinnamon added to them (Mrs. B's kitchen)... Try adding chopped celery and a sliced frankfurters to potato salad for a different taste (Christo's, NYC).

SANDWICH FAVORITE of Phil Crosby: Peanut butter on white toast with slices of crisp bacon and Bermuda onion... Diana Ross is in New York preparing for her role in the upcoming film of the Broadway hit "The Wiz"... Type-Casting: Efrem Zimbalist, one of the best amateur golfers in Hollywood, will star in a movie, "Slice," in which he portrays a golfer!... "Gore Vidal's Caligula" came in under budget. It was explained, "We did it by canceling one of the orgies!"... Most considerate celeb to dine at the Pen & Pencil was Charlton Heston, who accommodated fans there with his autographs on pocket-sized photographs he toted along... TWA's current fleet of planes, to fly its worldwide service, totalled up to 232 at last count... Faded Phrases: "He's in fine fettle," "It's hunky dory with me" and "You'd better cough up the money."

SMATERING OF SIGNS: Taurean natives, as a rule, have good appetites, like hearty meals and highly-seasoned food. Those born under Virgo are by nature neat and orderly. Gemini natives are nervous, restless and usually "have more than one iron in the fire."

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, January 7, the seventh day of 1977. There are 358 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1953, President Harry Truman announced in his State of the Union Message that the United States had developed a hydrogen bomb.

On this date: In 1584, the Gregorian Calendar was adopted by Roman Catholic states of the Holy Roman Empire.

In 1938, Joseph Kennedy was appointed U.S. Ambassador to Britain.

In 1965, Indonesia withdrew from the United Nations.

In 1968, the government of Lebanon resigned after an Israeli commando raid at the Beirut airport.

In 1971, it was announced that 4,200 Americans had been killed in combat in Vietnam in 1970. It was the smallest number since 1965.

Ten years ago: Bloody fighting was raging between Chinese Red Guards and workers in Nanking, China.

Five years ago: India resisted U.S. pressure and granted full diplomatic recognition to Communist China.

One year ago: The Italian Cabinet led by Prime Minister Aldo Moro resigned after the Socialist Party had withdrawn its parliamentary support.

Today's birthday: Former governor Claude Kirk of Florida is 51.

Computer Will Help Adoptees Track Kin

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Adult adoptees who want to track down their real parents are going to get help from a computer. Donna Cullom, who has file cards on 6,000 persons, says the sleuthing job is a big one and chances of matchups on the first computer run are slim. She estimates that there are nine million adoptees in the United States.

Miss Cullom, 35, established Yesterday's Children in 1974 for grown adoptees or parents who had given up their children and wanted to be reunited. She said that he searches are frustrated by the lack of access to adoption records. "All most of these people want is the option of knowing their heritage," she said.

"It took me 12 years to find my mother," she said. "And I also found that I have nine brothers and sisters. My father had died. I wasn't looking for mom and dad as such. I just wanted to know how I fit on the real family tree." Miss Cullom's computer project is called the National Adoption Registry and is to be activated within a month, she said.
